

CLEAR SAILING FOR NIXON

Rocky Withdrawal Stuns Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's announcement that he will not be a presidential candidate hit politically deserted Washington like a bombshell Saturday.

Across the country politicians reacted with dismay, delight, or were just plain stunned.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who now appears to have the field wide open for next year's Republican nomination, played it cool. The Vice President issued this brief statement through his office:

"Gov. Rockefeller has made an excellent impression in the states he has visited in the past few months.

"People throughout the nation have recognized him as a leader of national and international stature.

"Regardless of the decision he has announced today, he is a man destined for continuing leadership in the Republican Party and the nation in years ahead."

This was a statement obviously calculated to soothe the feelings of ruffled Rockefeller fans and to win over their support as far as possible in the months between now and the July 25 nominating convention in Chicago.

It also could be construed as an implied invitation to Rockefeller to reconsider his stand against accepting a possible offer of second place on the ticket.

In his withdrawal statement, Rockefeller said flatly that he would not accept the nomination for Vice President.

Referring to the presidency, he said: "I am not, and shall not be, a candidate."

He carefully avoided a clear-cut endorsement of Nixon for the presidency. In his lengthy statement he did not mention Nixon by name.

Rockefeller said he withdrew because he had found Republican leaders around the country opposed to a contest for the nomination. In the face of this, he said, he would have had to wage a "massive struggle" in primary elections and that would make it impossible for him to be an effective governor.

As he boarded a train in New York City for Philadelphia, Rockefeller repeatedly declined to say anything further. Rockefeller went to Philadelphia to visit his wife's family.

Greeted by newsmen as his limousine pulled into the driveway of the home of Percy H. Clark, his father-in-law, Rockefeller said:

"I will have no comment now. I stand on my statement. I will say something further at a press conference next week. I don't want to give any press group an advantage."

Rockefeller was asked whether there was any significance in the timing of his announcement:

"The statement speaks for itself," he replied.

Another question: "Your statement pointedly omits mentioning Vice President Nixon and notes only that you expect to support the Republican nominees. Will you support Mr. Nixon?"

Rockefeller, walking toward the Clark house where his wife and children awaited him at the dinner table, didn't reply. Instead he turned to the questioning Associated Press reporter and smiled. That ended the interview. Although he said his decision was "definite and

U.S. Hopes West Can Agree on Parley Date Agreeable to Nikita

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States planned Saturday to consult with other Western Allies on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demurral to April 27 as a summit conference date.

Officials hoped the problem can be worked out despite some snags.

Khrushchev notified the Allies that he would welcome a summit conference but suggested April 21 or May 4 as the date. He pointed out that the April 27 date proposed by the West would conflict with the Soviet Union's May Day celebration.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, said there would be no official statement on Khrushchev's request but made it plain there would have to be close consultation with the British, French and West German governments.

Mrs. Wheaton noted that Khrushchev's alternate dates would conflict with British and French arrangements. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is scheduled to meet with Commonwealth prime ministers in London May 3.

The earlier date of April 21 would undoubtedly be inconvenient for French President Charles de Gaulle who has planned to visit the United States and Canada about that time.

Mrs. Wheaton said Allied consultants have not yet gotten under way inasmuch as President Eisenhower wants to confer on the problem with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter who is out of town.

50 Killed in Africa Battling

WELKOM, South Africa (AP) — About 2,000 Africans fought an hour-long battle Saturday in a mine compound near this town in the Orange Free State. Police used armored cars finally to break it up.

The battle climaxed a bloody Christmas holiday in the Union of South Africa. About 50 Africans were reported killed and nearly 1,000 injured in the past two days in shootings, stabbings and assaults in various places throughout the Union.

IN THE LATEST fracas, police made repeated charges with clubs and then drove armored cars among the warring factions to end the fighting in the mine compound.

The police were stoned and some buildings were damaged.

Authorities said the trouble broke out after a Nyasaland African died in a fight with a Xhosa mine worker. Nyasalanders working and living in the mine set out for revenge.

Girl Arrested

A 17-year-old girl was arrested on suspicion of shoplifting Saturday at SaVonn Drugs, 4th St. and Pine Ave. Police said nearly 80 persons were attracted to the scene when the girl was being returned to the store. She was turned over to the juvenile division.

Mock-up Hides $10,000 Theft

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP)—Burglars stole a safe containing an estimated $10,000 from a supermarket and left in its place a phony mock-up safe, police reported Saturday.

Butcher George Daniel discovered the loss when he reported for work. The store had been closed since Thursday night.

De Gaulle's Brother Dies After Surgery

PARIS (AP) — Pierre de Gaulle, younger brother of President Charles de Gaulle, died Saturday night after undergoing surgery for a circulatory ailment.

Pierre de Gaulle was 62, and seven years younger than his famed brother. President de Gaulle hastened back to Paris earlier Saturday from his country home and went at once to the hospital where his brother was a patient.

LIKE HIS brother, Pierre was an army officer in both World Wars and later engaged in public life. He served several times as president of the Paris Municipal

Victim, Reconsidering, Forces Bandit to Drop Loot; 2 Jailed

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

WILMINGTON—A slightly built service station owner recovered money of which he had been robbed and helped to capture two husky bandits here Saturday afternoon.

Police said the station owner, Al Saks, 35, was in his station at 304 E. Anaheim St. when he was approached by a six-foot 200-pound bandit who simulated a gun.

Saks told officers he surrendered about $55 after the holdup man threatened to kill him.

"THEN I GOT the crazy notion he didn't have a gun," Saks recounted. "I told him to give me back my money or shoot me."

Saks swung a four-foot-long tire iron at the robber, who surrendered the loot.

The amazed Saks dropped the tire iron and stuck the money into his pocket.

The bandit then picked up the tire iron and chased Saks into a nearby used-car lot, where he abandoned the pursuit.

Saks said he and a used-car salesman jumped into a station wagon after calling police, and started hunting for the robber.

They said they found him running along Broad Ave. near G St. and engaged him in conversation until he was taken into custody by Officer Don Satterlee and Sgt. Ken Kincade.

The latter booked Vester Crow, 39, of Bakersfield, on suspicion of robbery after he allegedly admitted committing the crime.

CROW'S ASSERTED accomplice, Elmer Moreland, 31, of Tulsa, Okla., was nabbed by Officers Paul M. Scott and F. C. Pipp near Avalon Blvd. and I St. They said he was attempting to make a getaway in his car.

Ironically, Crow claimed to police that Saks made a profit on the deal.

"I gave him a dollar of my money when I handed back the money I had taken from the station," police quoted him as saying.

Investigators said Crow evidently used a cigarette lighter to simulate a gun.

Montebello Fire Perils City's Buses

MONTEBELLO (CNS) — A three-alarm fire was contained at a wholesale lumber company in Montebello after a two-hour fight Saturday afternoon—but not before it threatened to explode 10,000 gallons of gasoline stored nearby and burn up about 20 Montebello city buses.

The cause of the fire, first reported at about 12:35 p.m., has not been determined.

Seven companies of firemen kept the flames from spreading to the gasoline on the buses in the Montebello City Yard, directly in the rear of the lumberyard.

Six companies were from the city of Montebello and one from the city of Whittier.

Prevent-Fires Drive Brings Hottest Action

MOSCOW (AP)—In Lugovo, Kazakhstan, warning signs blossomed everywhere during a fire-prevention campaign, but the boys at the old fire-house have had nothing but trouble.

Kazakhstan Pravda told all about it in an edition that reached Moscow Saturday. This was the sad tale:

Lugovo had been plastered for weeks with signs warning against the danger of fire and extolling the virtues of prevention.

Then a couple of houses burned down.

More signs and slogans went up.

Then a big fire wiped out the town's pignons.

Banners went up declaring: "It is easier to prevent a fire than extinguish it ... stamp out that spark."

After that a two-story building and the town library were destroyed by flames.

Nothing happened for a few days and the firefighters were sitting around the firehouse congratulating themselves. Somebody suggested a celebration. They all bustled about setting up a table. Food was spread and the glasses linked. The fire chief made a speech, hailing his men as eagles ... vigilant in their duty.

Suddenly one smokeeater jumped to his feet and shouted:

"I smell fire!"

The men clambered over each other to get outside. Looking back they saw the firehouse blazing away. The firehouse, engines and other equipment all burned up.

California's Traffic Toll Tops Nation

By United Press International

The Christmas highway-death rate took a heartening drop through the day Saturday but the biggest home-ward rush was yet to come.

A United Press International count showed at midnight (EST) that at least 321 persons had been killed in traffic accidents so far over the holiday. Additionally, 27 persons died in fires, plane crashes accounted for 3 deaths and 60 fatalities were from miscellaneous causes for an overall total of 411.

CALIFORNIA led the nation with 24 highway deaths, followed by New York, with 22, and Pennsylvania and Texas, with 18 each.

The highway-death count, however, compared favorably with the corresponding figure for 1953, the nation's last three-day Christmas weekend, when 523 persons eventually died in traffic. In 1953, at least 309 roadway deaths had been recorded by 1 p.m. Saturday.

The National Safety Council had predicted 530 persons might die in traffic this year during the 72-hour Christmas stretch.

Injuries Few in Saturday Traffic Here

Holiday traffic was heavy again Saturday, but motorists' woes were mostly limited to snarls and tie-ups in the Long Beach area.

Long Beach police reported four accidents from midnight Friday to 11 p.m. Saturday. Only two of them were injury accidents.

In one, occurring at Anaheim St. and Pacific Coast Highway, Floyd A. Kai, 32, a paraplegic on pass from Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, was injured.

FIFTEEN DEATHS from traffic were reported in Los Angeles County for the three-day period beginning at midnight Wednesday.

Seal Beach Policeman Wilfred Miller hit a concrete abutment Saturday when he was forced to swerve to avoid a speeding car at Bay Blvd. and Pacific Coast Highway in Seal Beach. He was treated at Long Beach Community Hospital for shock and possible internal injuries.

Gives Permit to San Pedro Salvage Firm

Operations Due Early in 1960 at Underwater Site

By JIM McCAULEY

A vast undersea atomic dump will be opened early next year 185 miles west-southwest of Long Beach.

Object: To relieve West Coast nuclear plants of atomic waste.

Radioactive waste products have been piling up fast in vaults and other protective enclosures away from population centers. As the nuclear age advances, the problem of bloated vaults becomes atom-sized.

THAT IS WHY the Atomic Energy Commission last autumn designated several specific ocean-depth sites for atomic dumps.

California Salvage Co., the only West Coast firm licensed to haul radioactive wastes to an undersea atomic dump, indicated it intends to use the Southland site for its first dumping operation.

A site 110 miles due west of San Francisco also was authorized for an atomic dump. But California Salvage, a San Pedro firm which headquarters at Berth 115, hopes to dump its first A-waste 185

L.A.C. Says: Only a Symptom

In an editorial the Saturday Evening Post takes a philosophical view of TV quiz show scandals. It agrees evidence has proven dishonesty—but that it is not as bad as many other indications of moral degeneracy in our social, political and economic system. In a Wall Street Journal article results of a poll indicate a majority of the people feel the TV scandals are not so bad "when stacked up against some current social evils."

If the American people are to be lulled into apathy over the TV scandals by saying others are as bad or worse, it will mean acceptance of one evil because there are others. We have many times used the expression of Billy Sunday that—"if you wash your own windows your neighbor's house will not look so dirty." But when a large portion of the population has been deceived through thinking they were being provided with feats of outstanding intelligence, it is not the time to be philosophical about it. If we are, we will but encourage compromising with principles.

The Post points out that we practice such dishonesty in our schools where all students graduate regardless of ability—college students cheat on examinations and football players are subsidized in violation of all the rules. On the labor front we are assailed by the memory of Dave Beck and now see Hoffa stronger than ever. Some states provide that divorces can be had only on proof of adultery, but too often this proof is on fake evidence. The evasion of income taxes is a game practiced by a large portion of our people.

The Post refers to the "deep freeze" scandals and gifts of vicuna coats by Goldfine for a telephone call by Sherman Adams; the congressional payroll is stuffed with relatives. The Post might well have included the apathy of the people toward such communities as Gardena with its poker parlors and the pilgrimages of civic organizations to Las Vegas, where the gangster-operated casinos give fabulous entertainment to deprive the suckers of their money.

We agree the TV scandals are only a symptom of our moral degeneracy. But we will not improve our moral standards by shrugging off one of these evils by saying it is no worse than others. If we do, we but lower our resistance to all such evils. It takes some dramatic betrayal of moral trust to awaken the people to moral principles. If the immoral acts are not corrected in that particular case, then the people have been lulled into more apathy toward all immoral acts.

The television and radio industry has been shaken by the dishonesty of quiz shows. The disc jockeys who have taken pay for plugging "best selling" records now known as "payola," have misused the trust given them by their audiences. If the industry does not punish such people and clean up its programs it will be as guilty of misconduct as Hoffa, Sherman Adams, the mink coat crowd around Truman or the gangsters that grow rich at Las Vegas.

But as the industry does clean up its own house it will give confidence to the people. It will be a warning to newspapers, magazines, moving picture producers and politicians that the people are entitled to honesty and decency by those they must trust. This will not be accomplished by taking a ho-hum attitude that everyone is doing it so why punish one that is caught.—L.A.C.

Atom Waste Dump Given OK of AEC

miles west-southwest of Long Beach.

"BECAUSE it is closer, we intend to use that site for all our dumping until the Atomic Energy Commission tells us to use the other site," said Frank Orlando, California Salvage marine superintendent.

Orlando predicted the first A-dump would be made in late January or early February. Some users of nuclear material already have contacted California Salvage, Orlando said.

Orlando said his firm expects to handle radioactive waste-dumping for Convair, North American, General Electric and other California nuclear researchers in 1960. California Salvage has been hauling industrial waste products for 30 years.

EVENTUALLY, atomic waste products from all nuclear installations in the 11 Western states may be dumped into the Pacific Ocean off the Southland, Orlando said.

The radioactive products will be packed in drums, then weighted down with concrete several inches thick. The drums are designed to drop to 2,000 fathoms—an ocean bottom more than two miles below the surface of the Pacific.

One hundred oil-type drums are earmarked for the first dumping operation, Orlando said. A single drum — when filled with protective concrete — will weigh 800 pounds. Though in many cases, the radioactive waste material will weigh less than a pound a drum. The safety ratio: 800 pounds to 1.

PREVIOUSLY, the AEC said the dumping operation will include solutions from experiments, contaminated paper, cloth, glassware and equipment, animal carcasses and sealed sources of radioactivity which have been reduced to unusable levels by the natural process of radioactive decay.

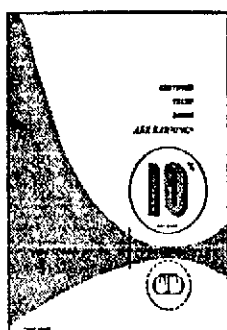

The AEC had planned to authorize the Navy to do the dumping, then instead gave the license to private enterprise when the San Pedro firm applied. California Salvage was licensed last September to dispose of A-wastes.

ORLANDO SAID the AEC, Coast Guard, California Fish and Game Department and California Salvage worked closely on developing a safe dumping site. The drums will remain on the ocean bottom where they are harmless, he said.

But negotiations on the West Coast sites revealed restrictions were considerably more lax earlier on the East Coast.

A Boston contractor dumped some atomic waste off the East Coast at a sea depth of only 200 feet. On the West Coast, a two-mile depth is to be the standard.

DOLLARS RAIN ON STREETS

Crane 'Distributes Wealth'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—It rained dollars in Atlantic City Saturday.

Nicholas P. Anthony Jr., a crane operator, looked down from his carriage to see a mob of people running after dollar bills that were dropping from his bucket.

THE OWNERS of the property Anthony was tearing down ran into the street from a nearby building and told him to stop immediately.

An examination of the demolished 3-story stucco frame house revealed a hollow in a wall where the bucket had just eaten through.

"It must have contained a hidden store of money," thought Anthony.

At that moment, his dump truck driver drove up in a rage.

"Scavengers followed me all the way to the city dump," he told Anthony. "When I stopped the truck

I saw they'd been gathering money off of it all the way out of town. There wasn't a dollar left."

PASSERSBY told Anthony they had seen persons picking up 10s, 20s and even 100-dollar bills.

Where did it come from? The owners of the building said that in recent years the demolished room had been occupied by an accused tax dodger and was later used as an illegal gambling hall.

Unable to Identify Slain Baby Officers Appeal for Public Aid

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—The sheriff's homicide squad Saturday appealed to the public for help in identifying a blond-haired blue-eyed girl whose murdered body was found in a culvert near Agoura last Wednesday.

The child was strangled and her skull was fractured. Sergeant Robert Chapman said detectives have exhausted all leads to the identity of the girl, who was about 1 year old.

A check with local hospitals and footprint and fingerprint records failed to produce a clue to the name of the baby or the identity of her parents.

"YOU WOULD think when a pretty little girl like that disappears someone would report her missing," said one detective.

Any person having information as to whom the child might be was urged to telephone the homicide squad at Madison 6-9511, or the nearest sheriff's station.

The baby was described as of average height and weight with a mole two inches left of her naval.

SUPERIOR, Ariz. (AP)—The body of the second victim of a flash flood was fished from Queen Creek Saturday.

Deputies found the body of Frank Zepeda, 48, about 1 1/2 miles downstream from where a car went in Christmas Eve.

The body of Manuel R. Denogean, 36, was recovered shortly after the car disappeared in torrents of water in the normally dry stream bed. The men, both of Superior, ignored warning flares and barricades to drive on a flooded street which runs into the creek.

Rocky's Withdrawal Hits Capital Like Bombshell

final," he did not rule out the possibility of a draft at the GOP National Convention in Chicago next summer.

Rockefeller's unexpected announcement had the effect of a political bombshell in Albany and Washington. Only a handful of newsmen were at the state capitol when the statement was delivered.

A number of Republican leaders expressed hope that Rockefeller would accept the vice presidential nomination anyway.

President Eisenhower, who is barred by law from seeking a third term, kept his own counsel.

"The President was informed of Rockefeller's announcement immediately on his return from a brief motor trip to visit his four grandchildren in Gettysburg, Pa. Anne Wheaton, the associate White House press secretary, told newsmen Eisenhower had no comment.

DEMOCRATS SET OUT to make as much political capital as possible out of the development.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, one of the possible contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, said, "Dewey, who played a major role in getting Eisenhower

DICK NIXON

"turned deaf ears to a newer and more liberal voice than that of Vice President Nixon," and added:

"The conservatives are in complete charge. I have a feeling Gov. Rockefeller's fate was all settled when Mr. Dewey got through talking to Mr. Nixon in Washington last weekend."

A lot of other politicians recalled last weekend's unannounced visit to Washington of New York's former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who played a major role in getting Eisenhower into the 1952 nomination race against the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, dined with Nixon and some other leaders. The nature of their conversation was not disclosed.

ROCKEFELLER SAID several weeks ago he had consulted with Dewey about his future political plans, but he did not say what conclusions if any were reached.

In Louisville, Ky., former Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson said Rockefeller's decision not to seek the nomination left the GOP "no free choice of candidates."

"His (Rockefeller's) is one of the sincere liberal voices in the Republican Party and, for the sake of the country, I think it is too bad that his views find so little encouragement in his party," Stevenson said.

Stevenson was in Louisville, Ky., for a Christmas reunion with his son, Adlai Jr.

Carmine G. DeSapio, leader of Tammany Hall, the New York City Democratic organization, commented that Rockefeller's trips across the country "apparently demonstrated to him the overwhelming Democratic sentiment throughout the nation."

"His decision is no surprise," DeSapio said.

THE NEW YORK Democratic chairman, Michael H. Prendergast, said Rockefeller "has at last recognized the obvious."

"He can't win so he won't run," Prendergast said. "His desperate drive for the presidency has gone over like a lead balloon. The record which cost him the support of the people of New York state has also cost him the presidential nomination of his party. Consequently he has condescended to return to New York State to do the job he was elected to do."

The Republican national chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, commended Rockefeller for "so clearly stating his position." Morton has expressed belief that Nixon was well in the forefront in the GOP presidential nomination picture.

HERE IS THE PARTIAL TEXT of Rockefeller's statement:

"I have come to a definite decision with respect to my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the presidency. I have done so after long and serious reflection. And my decision has been dictated by clear and sharp convictions.

"These convictions bear upon the two political roles that prescribe my responsibilities. The first of these is the position of governor of New York State. This is an office and an honor plainly commanding my full respect and utterly deserving of my faithful service.

"The second role that I must serve is that of any American, namely: responsible citizenship on the national scene. And this responsibility assumes a particularly keen and explicit form when our nation confronts issues and challenges of truly historic size and seriousness.

"If I were not profoundly concerned with these issues, I would have no reason to be in public life in any capacity. I have had to weigh, however, and to decide how best to express this concern. This question has largely inspired the several trips I have recently made through the country. For only by meeting and talking with many citizens of many states could I form a reasoned conclusion as to how I may best serve both the state of New York and the nation.

"These trips have made it clear to me, as I believe they have to others, that the great majority of those who will control the Republican convention stand opposed to any contest for the nomination. Therefore any quest of the nomination on my part would entail a massive struggle—in primary elections throughout the nation—demanding so greatly of my time and energy that it would make impossible the fulfillment of my obligations as governor of New York.

"MY CONCLUSION, therefore, is that I am not, and shall not be, a candidate for nomination for the presidency. "This decision is definite and final."

California GOP and Demo Views

By BOB HOUSER

Following is a cross-section of comment by California political spokesmen on Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's statement of withdrawal from GOP consideration for President or Vice President:

GREG MORTON, state director of Californians for Rockefeller:

"Anyone who had dedicated his life to public service as Governor Rockefeller has, would be subject to a draft," Morton said Rockefeller supporters would meet at 6 p. m. Monday in Los Angeles to discuss ways and means of starting a draft-Rockefeller movement.

ALPHONZO E. BELL JR., chairman of Los Angeles County GOP Central Committee: "It is my belief that a nomination contest between Nelson Rockefeller and Vice President Nixon would have been invigorating to the national Republican Party.

"It would have presented, moreover, a desirable contrast between our candidates and those of the Democratic Party who will all be on tour during the first half of 1960.

"But I can understand the New York governor's reluctance to engage in an intraorganizational contest in which he was almost certain to be defeated—not so much by the so-called party leaders as by rank-and-file party members.

"The timing of Rockefeller's announcement makes me believe that he shares this opinion.

"At the same time, I am sure I speak for the great majority of party members in Dick Nixon's home county in expressing personal esteem for the New York governor along with the hope that this decision will not terminate his legitimate interest in serving the GOP and the public at the national level."

JOSEPH M. KENNICK, Assemblyman 44th, Democrat: "I think it means a real loss to the Republican Party as far as a top-notch candidate is concerned. He certainly had an appeal for vast numbers of the people in both parties. I would imagine we'll be hearing more in the future of this promising man."

DON ROSE, Chairman, Los Angeles County Democratic Central Committee: "It seems to me the man has stated simply and fairly what is on his mind and, in so doing, has fairly and clearly evaluated the whole Republican philosophy.

"The mood of the Republican Party leadership is to take the mantle from the shoulders of Eisenhower and lay it over the shoulders of the chosen one, and not to brook any interference or participation by the rank and file.

JACK DROWN, of Rolling Hills, one of Vice President Nixon's closest friends: "I think I'll go along with the appraisal of my good friend, Dick Nixon. I think he (Rockefeller) took the right approach in this matter. I also think that most Republicans will pull together for Nixon's election in 1960."

W. S. (BILL) GRANT, Assemblyman 70th, Republican: "I have a great deal of respect for Mr. Rockefeller, a fine gentleman. And I can see where two such popular and highly respected men as Nixon and Rockefeller would have created a problem within the party. His withdrawal, of course, eliminates that problem. Now I would like to see him reconsider his decision about running for the second spot on the ticket."

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, former governor: "For more than two decades, the Republican Party in California and the nation has been a minority party.

"Therefore, protracted primary contests only divide and weaken our party—as was so clearly demonstrated in California and in other states last year.

"I congratulate Governor Rockefeller on his statesmanlike decision, and sincerely hope the Republican Party can go forward completely united from here."

JAMES B. UTT, Congressman, Orange County's 28th District: "I am very happy about the announcement that Rockefeller won't run. His campaign would not get far off the ground. This eliminates a convention fight. I announced for Nixon some time ago. I think he will win on the first ballot by acclamation."

JOHN A. MURDY JR., State Senator, Orange County's 35th District: "I'm a Nixon man and have been all along. This clears the deck."

Find Body of Missing Nobleman in N.Y. River

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of missing Maj. Geza Esterhazy, 70-year-old Hungarian nobleman, was found in the East River Saturday night.

The body was found near the berth of a New York University research vessel, Sea Owl on which Esterhazy recently had taken a job as caretaker.

Police said evidence indicated Esterhazy had slipped off a board used as a gang plank to the vessel and drowned.

ESTERHAZY, son of Count Charles Esterhazy of the old Austro-Hungarian court and

Mother Kills Baby, Shoots 2 Daughters

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—A 32-year-old mother apparently went berserk Saturday in suburban Sheffield Lake and shot her three daughters, fatally wounding the youngest, one-month-old Katherine Kistler.

The infant died shortly after she was admitted to Bay View Hospital. She had been shot in the back.

Karen, 10, and Christine, 32 months, were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lorain. They had been shot with a .38 caliber pistol.

Christine underwent emergency surgery for an abdomen wound. Karen was struck in the left arm and side.

The mother, Coleen Kistler, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for a psychiatric examination.

LATE FRIDAY afternoon two crewmen of the Sea Owl were boarding the vessel when they found, half hidden by melting snow on the dock, an umbrella, and a newspaper dated Dec. 18. That was the date on which Miss Esterhazy last saw her father.

A police launch crew Saturday dragged the river near the vessel and brought up the body.

Esterhazy, who held the rank of major in both World Wars, got his daughters out of Hungary in 1940. After the fall of the axis powers, he was imprisoned by the Communists in Hungary. Later he made his way to Italy and lived with a sister who had married into an old Italian family.

3 Men Jailed in Series of Robberies

Three young men were picked up Saturday by Norwalk sheriff's officers and charged with a series of seven robberies this month.

Jailed were Donald Floyd Ketchel, 22, of 13115 Shreve Rd., Whittier, a carpenter; Robert Francis Butler, 20, of 9382 Farm St., Downey, a salesman; and Richard Olsen, 19, whose last address was 216 Friends St., Whittier.

Sgt. M. LeFever of the sheriff's robbery detail said the three admitted the armed holdups between Dec. 9 and 23 in which they seized loot totaling $1,535.

The stickups occurred in South Whittier, Buena Park, La Mirada, Anaheim and Pico-Rivera.

New Wonder Drug Cosmetic Restores Young Look To Skin

Medical Tests Show Helena Rubinstein's Ultra Feminine Face Cream Reverses Two Aging Processes of Skin and Restores Young Skin Tone

You can look younger. The evidence is a matter of medical record—compiled by a battery of doctors and research scientists, universities, hospitals and clinics. Today there is actually in existence a wonder drug preparation in the cosmetic field which renews the activity of specific skin cells slowed by time! It means that smooth, supple, fresh skin can be yours again.

Helena Rubinstein, first lady of beauty science, announces her discovery, Ultra Feminine Face Cream. It is the only formula containing both vital hormones natural to you as a woman. They are estrogen and progesterone.

Like a physician's prescription Ultra Feminine acts not merely on the surface but on specific skin cells. They are the same living cell layers that made your skin soft, firm, fresh when you were very young. Medical tests show that Ultra Feminine reactivates these sleeping cells!

What is young skin?

Every woman knows what young skin is—firm, clear, unlined, dewy. The medical scientist goes beneath the surface for his definition: "The tissue cells deep in the skin layers hold maximum moisture to cushion the surface so that it cannot collapse into age lines. Young skin is constantly filmed with oil plentifully supplied by the sebaceous glands to soften and protect the surface. This picture holds true till the vital hormones which power these cells for young functioning start to wane." What are these hormones?

Nature's way of making a woman feminine

These hormones are estrogen and progesterone, primarily responsible for female sexual development and procreancy. They also account for the marks of femininity: soft, lustrous hair—gentle voice quality—graceful neck—feminine curves —long, rounded legs. And for soft, smooth, supple skin.

When estrogen and progesterone start slowing down with maturity, no beauty treatment that simply puts moisture and lubricants on the surface of the skin can help the skin cells act as once they did. But Ultra Feminine, working within your skin, can make your skin act young again.

Jewel-like pure crystals of Estrogen and Progesterone—the two vital female hormones in Ultra Feminine Face Cream.

The first great challenge to the inevitability of skin aging came thirty years ago when Helena Rubinstein made her historic estrogenic cream discovery. She continued to work side by side with medical science. Now her work has been rewarded with the first wonder drug cosmetic containing both estrogen and progesterone to help skin cells compensate for hormone decline.

Doctors report unprecedented results

The following are the results of medical tests.

1. Tissue cells can hold moisture again after use of Ultra Feminine. These cells, plumped out once again, support the surface firmly. Lines smooth out. Wrinkles due to dryness are reduced.

2. Oil glands produce again after Ultra Feminine treatment. Tissue sections and skin surface tests show an amazing increase in oil production. The skin is soft, dewy, protected, shows restored elasticity.

These results stand alone in the beauty field.

Wonder drug cosmetic

These unprecedented results take place because Ultra Feminine is actually a drug preparation. It acts within the skin to replace vital physiological substances. The rich cream base of Ultra Feminine is especially formulated to release a steady supply of hormones through the night. Surface creams, on the other hand, reach only the outer skin layers. Every jar of Ultra Feminine undergoes, in Helena Helena Rubinstein, creator of Ultra Feminine, the first medically tested face cream that reverses two of the aging processes of the skin.

Rubinstein's laboratory, the same rigid tests applied to drugs prescribed by doctors. Yet, because it is so safe, Ultra Feminine needs no prescription.

The thirty day test

Remember only the action of your own skin cells can truly create the smooth, supple, fresh appearance of youth. You have seen and known the limitations of surface treatment. Now put your sleeping skin cells back to work and see a difference that will absolutely astonish you. Take advantage of this once-a-year offer. Start using Ultra Feminine now. In 30 days you will see the difference.

ONCE-A-YEAR SALE!

Because Helena Rubinstein believes that Ultra Feminine is her greatest cosmetic achievement, she makes this amazing offer so that you may discover for yourself that you can look younger. One jar will convince you!

George Burns Shows You How to Handle a Christmas Cigar

World of Burns Paired Up Like Noah's Ark Inmates

By GEORGE ERES

The world of George Burns, now in his spry 60s, is viewed invariably through a thick haze of cigar smoke, and is comically dualistic.

"I never could see anything except as in two's. I thought the whole world was in two acts," the straight half of Burns & Allen reminisced. There had to be two in an act—Brown & William, Weber & Field, Moran & Mack, etc.

His desire to be in show business overcame any fleeting concern he might have about talent.

"In those days," he recalled, eyelids half closed to guard against smoke, "it was not necessary to have talent to be in show business. All you needed was a name that sounded like talent."

So Nate Barnbaum, born in 1896 in Manhattan, at the age of 7 started a stage career. If the act was a flop—it had nothing to do with talent.

"You just changed the name. Since there was no end to the ability to conceive names, his efforts continued unabated through a near-weekly name change until some 36 years ago when the team of Burns & Allen clicked."

AT 7, he was a member of the Pee-Wee Quartet. The members are still around, Burns said, "waiting for vaudeville to come back."

"One has a garage or filling station; one's a cab driver. The other's a bookie."

He ran through dozens of stage names. He was a member of the Brown & Williams skating team. "I collected $10 from a manager before he found out I couldn't even skate." He was the Glide of a comedy team. "We thought we were a comedy team until we got on stage. In the dressing room we were funny."

He was a member of an act called Flipper & Co. "I was the 'Co.' I didn't even get billing with the seal. I ate fish for a week."

BURNS RECALLS teaming with Gracie Allen. "She had the straight lines. I thought I was the comedian. Nobody laughed at me. I became the straight man." It was the philosophical aspect of his dualism—matter over mind.

The arrangement continued successfully through vaudeville, radio and television until Gracie recently retired.

While the names changed through the years, one thing remained constant—George's friendship with Jack Benny.

"There was a mutual attraction right from the start. We had something in common. Neither of us lived up to our billing. I heard him play the violin and he heard me sing. We were both pathetic."

Burns still occasionally breaks out in song. He even made an album called, "George Burns Sings."

"It went over big in England and Japan," he sighed. "Over here, even Gracie has not heard it."

'FABULOUS' ADVANCES U.S. School Gains Since '49 Recounted

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

The shortages and shortcomings of America's public school system have been getting a lot of attention lately. Let's look, for a change, at some of the achievements of the past 10 years.

They are pretty fabulous.

No nation in the history of the world has expanded its public educational facilities as much and as fast as has the United States during the decade of the 1950s.

During the 1949-50 school year, the public schools enrolled 25,185,436 students. Since then, they have absorbed an additional 11,214,366 students.

To house them, more than 600,000 new classrooms have been built.

To teach them, nearly 500,000 employees have been added to the instructional staff.

ALTHOUGH OVER-LARGE classes are still a serious problem, it is significant that the increase in instructional staff—51.3 per cent—has been greater during the past decade than the increase in enrollment—44.5 per cent. That means that the teacher-student ratio has improved slightly.

It is also noteworthy that the huge expansion of teaching staff has not been accomplished at the sacrifice of quality. At the start of the decade, one teacher out of every 10 lacked full certification. Today only one out of 14 is working with temporary or substandard credentials.

One of the most dramatic gains has been in teacher's salaries. The average annual salary for the instructional staff in 1949-50 was $3,010. Today it is $5,160—an increase of 71 per cent.

Part of this salary increase has been offset by inflation, of course. But even when salaries are adjusted to reflect changes in the living cost index, teachers have achieved a real gain in purchasing power of 39 per cent during the past decade.

AMERICA'S INVESTMENT in public schools—while still far short of what most educational authorities consider necessary—has increased enormously during the decade.

In the 1949-50 school year, the average current expenditure per student was $210.34 a year. During the current academic year, it is $369. That is an increase of 75 per cent.

The total national outlay on public schools—counting capital expenditures for buildings—has nearly tripled. A decade ago, it was $5,802,000,000 a year. Now it is estimated at more than $15,000,000,000 a year.

Americans can take legitimate pride in these statistics. But they can hardly afford to be complacent about them. For all of these feats will have to be repeated—or exceeded—during the coming decade.

SINCE GIVING UP his regular weekly show, Burns has appeared on specials and as guest performer. His appearance on a recent Jack Paar show made viewers once again recognize that his show business talents are not limited to throwing straight lines. Parr is planning a re-run of the show.

Burns is booked for an appearance on an upcoming Ford Starline show. And tonight he's on the Jack Benny show.

"We do a duck hunting routine," Burns said. "It's 4 o'clock in the morning. It's snowing. The ducks are happy because neither Jack nor I have ever handled a gun. But, I'm not interested in ducks. I'm not interested in anything that isn't in show business. And it's ridiculous for anybody to get up at 4 a. m. unless he's got to catch a train."

Burns doesn't plan regular weekly shows.

"I'm playing bridge this afternoon. If I lose, I may have to do a regular show," he conceded.

THE BURNS HUMOR is not the sledge-hammer type. Jack Benny says Burns can break him up by just saying "Hello." Burns' publicity man reported that wife, Gracie, went into gales of laughter because Burns, asked to say something funny, replied "Googie, googie."

The Burns humor, however, comes through better than these examples seem to indicate.

An old pro, his timing is just so. But timing alone does not account for the wit, sharpened over the years.

He smokes innumerable cigars daily—starting when he gets up in the morning and ending when he goes to bed. He's in his 60s. Does he plan to give it up?

"I know many people who have given up smoking," he replies. "They faint twice a day."

Pioneer in Aviation Medicine Dies Here

Funeral will be Monday for Dr. Oscar Yarnell, 5597 The Toledo, one of America's first flight surgeons, who died Christmas Day. He was 85.

Dr. Yarnell was medical quarantine officer at the Port of Los Angeles from 1927 until his retirement in 1945. He was born in Decatur, Ill., and received his medical education at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, St. Louis, Mo., where he was graduated in 1897.

DR. YARNELL
Early Flight Surgeon

HE PRACTICED for several years in Europe and then returned home to Decatur, where he opened an office as an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist.

Dr. Yarnell volunteered when the United States entered World War I and was assigned to the Aviation Section, Army Signal Corps, the predecessor of today's United States Air Force.

He took flight training at St. Paul, Minn., and qualified as a flight surgeon—one of this nation's first doctors in a field that pioneered today's space medicine.

After the war, he entered the Public Health Service and was assigned to the quarantine station on Terminal Island in 1928.

HE NEVER LOST his interest in aviation and was a member of the Air Force Assn. Long Beach Squadron No. 1 of the association was renamed the Yarnell Squadron in his honor in 1955.

Dr. Yarnell is survived by his wife, Lucy, and a sister, Mrs. Maude Burchell.

Service will be at 3 p.m. Monday in Mottell's and Peck Chapel, 3rd St. and Alamitos Ave.

Too Darn Merry

LONDON (UPI)—Leslie Olenbittle was fined $28 Saturday for walking into a pub on Christmas Day, shouting, "Merry Christmas," and throwing a pint beer mug into a plate glass mirror.

Rival Tells of Slaying Husband

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A truck driver late Saturday admitted he fired a rifle shot that killed the husband of the woman he loved.

Sheriff William B. Evans said Floyd E. (Gene) Hargrove, 34, who had been under questioning most of the day, broke a pause for a smoking break by announcing: "I did it."

THE SHERIFF said Hargrove then went on to detail how he parked his car a block from the Mentor home of Charles R. Clark, 35, Thursday night, stood in the Clarks' back yard for 5 to 10 minutes waiting for his chance, then fired.

Clark, a Boy Scout leader and Methodist Sunday school superintendent, was in the kitchen opening a can of pumpkin when the bullet crashed through the window and struck him in the right temple.

EARLIER Hargrove readily admitted an 8-month affair with Clark's beautiful, raven-haired wife, Lois, 30, mother of four. The sheriff said Mrs. Clark also admitted the affair.

Gigantic UCLA Construction Program Pushed

IT ALL STARTED WITH FOUR BUILDINGS

The gigantic UCLA campus, outlined above, looking north, is the scene of the largest building program ever undertaken by an educational institution in the United States. Master plan divides the campus into three major use areas; academic in the east segment, recreational in the center, and residential in the west (left) where one building is completed and a second is under construction. Many of the buildings will be 12 stories high.

Bolsa Chica Beach Soon to Be Clean

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Orange County's Bolsa Chica Beach will be reclaimed out of the infamous "Tin Can Beach" by the spring of 1960, State Sen. John A. Murdy reported Saturday.

However, he said, no improvements will be built on this three-mile-long strand between Huntington Beach and Sunset Beach by the time it is ready for public use.

Improvements must await State Legislature appropriations, he explained.

"The most the beach-lovers can expect is an elimination of tin cans and debris," the senator declared.

THE STATE Division of Beaches and Parks has asked permission to move onto the Bolsa Chica property as soon as the first deed is recorded. Acquisition of the beach property is now under way under a million-dollar appropriation by the Legislature.

As soon as the first parcels bought and recorded, the state will take possession of all the property by filing a Superior Court suit to quiet title to the remainder of the property under condemnation.

Values of the properties then would be set by the court if the owners do not accept the state's offers.

Afghanistan Mourns Uncle of Monarch

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Marshal Shah Mahmood Khan Ghazi, 72-year-old uncle of King Mohammad Zahir of Afghanistan, died Saturday of a heart attack.

Three days of national mourning have been decreed for Ghazi, a hero of the national war for independence.

Shorthand Courses Scheduled at BTDC

cu Ja 4 t n a nu Sksp ks t In a ez wa t tah no qkl f ne pps.

If you can decipher this without too much strain, you are well on your way to learning stenography, the easy-mastered shorthand that many Long Beach secretarial and managerial employees have found useful.

Acquisition of this skill by good typists means immediate employment in choice local jobs, according to Monroe H. Hubbell, associate dean at the Business and Technology Division of Long Beach City College.

A new, four-week theory class starts at 10 a. m. Monday, Jan. 4 on the BTDC campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Those who want to continue after the four-week course may enroll in the spring semester transcription and dictation class Feb. 1.

Engineers, physicians, real estate and insurance salesmen, ministers, teachers, students and reporters find the alphabet shorthand a handy tool.

Students who began classes in September are now taking dictation at the rate of 80 to 100 words per minute.

New evening theory classes will start with the spring semester. Day students register in Room 117 on the BTDC campus. Evening students have the choice of two locations—Wilson or Jordan High School. The class at Wilson will meet each Tuesday and Thursday night from 7 until 10 in Room 215. Another Tuesday only class will meet in Room 206 at Jordan from 7 until 10.

Air Pollution Leading Cause of Lung Cancer, Says Expert

CHICAGO (AP)—A man who has devoted his scientific career to a study of the causes of cancer contended Saturday that air pollution is a more important factor than cigarette smoking in the increase in lung cancer.

Dr. Wilhelm C. Hueper, chief of environmental cancer section, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., said an upsurge in lung cancer first was noted between 1900 and 1920, several years before the practice of cigarette smoking became widespread.

AND HE ADDED that exposure to cancer-causing agents must occur at least 10 to 15 years before an increase in such deaths is detected statistically.

Hueper made his remarks during an interview at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science where he received the $1,000 AAAS-Anne Franco Rosenthal Memorial Award for cancer research.

Hueper, 65, said exhaust fumes from gasoline and coal-tar by-products spewed into the atmosphere by industry are the principal agents responsible for the sharp increase in lung cancer.

HOWEVER, HE said, smoking may play a role. He said tobacco smoke contains small concentrations of cancer-causing agents and that smoke also can act as an irritant that weakens the lungs' normal defense mechanism.

He told newsmen he quit smoking 20 years ago.

Pollution from car-exhaust fumes could be halted, he said, if auto makers could devise an engine that causes complete combustion of gasoline. Industrial plants, he went on, should seek to perfect a system whereby the air workers breathe would be free from vapors, gases and fumes.

Volcano Creates New Russ Isle

MOSCOW (AP)—A Christmas Day volcanic eruption has thrown up a new island in the Caspian Sea.

The official Tass news agency said Saturday the island is about 123 acres in area and is not far from Svinoy Island.

A column of fire 650 feet high, broke through the water and raged over the sea for 15 minutes, Tass said. The entire area was covered by thick smoke.

DRIVES AWAY

Prisoner Gets Green Light

CHICAGO (AP)—A man in green uniform drove a blue truck out of the House of Correction yard through four guarded gates Saturday and left red faces behind him.

The driver was Robert C. Duvall, 24, a green-clad prisoner serving a term for larceny. Apparently, Duvall jumped ignition wires in the unattended panel truck. Guards at the gates, used to coming and goings of the truck, opened the way without checking the driver.

Sixteen projects at a cost of $38,310,513 now are under construction on the University of California at Los Angeles and four additional projects totaling $12,716,000 are funded and scheduled to start this semester.

These 20 structures, totaling $51,026,513 are part of a construction program for the 411-acre Westwood Village campus that will cost $370 million by 1967. This staggering amount will have involved approximately 150 separate projects, including individual structures and major additions to existing buildings.

There are 34 major structures on campus now. Four were built in 1929 when the institution opened; 7 were added in the early 1930s; 3 more up to 1947 and 20 since 1949.

Parking, a major problem for the expected 27,500 students in 1967, will be provided for by eight multilevel parking structures and several surface parking lots. These will provide a total of 15,000 parking spaces.

Now under construction are these projects:

Engineering—Physical Science Unit No. 2, $4,026,413; Mira Hershey Hall addition, $1,157,599; Sproul Residence Hall, $4,701,100; Botany Bldg., $1,080,000; Geology Bldg. addition for Geophysics, $1,065,517; Life Science Graduate and Research Unit, $2,095,000; Nursery-Kindergarten Unit of the University Elementary School, $270,000; Neuropsychiatric Institute wing of the Medical Center, $8,416,788; Franz Hall addition for Psychology, $1,614,400; Moore Hall (Education Bldg.) alterations, $205,000; Student Union Building and alterations to Kerckhoff Hall, $5,501,000; Psychology Clinic School addition, $205,000; Engineering Training Reactor Bldg., $323,188; development of the basement area of the Plant Physiology Bldg., $270,000; the Graduate School of Business Administration, $4,510,000, and utility work on campus.

To be started this semester are these four additional projects:

Public Medical Care for Elderly Looms as Big Political Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Strong political pressure is building up for enactment of a new government program to help finance medical care for elderly persons. Although the subject has been getting little public attention, key lawmakers pending in Congress would have it may turn out to be one of the hottest issues of the election-year session, overshadowing congressional battles over civil rights, school construction and farm pay for the new benefits estimated to cost $1,200,000,000 in eight years. Congress, which convenes on Jan. 6, hopes to adjourn early in July because of the national political conventions.

Even so, foes now are less certain than they were earlier that they will be able to block congressional action in this field next year.

The man responsible for changing their appraisal of the outlook is Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare. Flemming made a speech on Dec. 2 in which he promised to come up with a "positive plan" for meeting the problem of medical care for persons on the Social Security benefit rolls.

Flemming's aides report that his plan "hasn't yet been firm" and they are not sure that it will be complete for several months. Although a curtain of secrecy has surrounded department work on the proposed plan, no one expects Flemming to propose a program of the size comparable to labor's. Flemming vigorously opposed that plan in congressional testimony last summer.

It is by no means certain that Flemming will be able to sell his plan to President Eisenhower. If it calls for any appreciable outlay of federal funds it is almost certain to run into sharp opposition from Budget Director Maurice Stans, who has considerable influence with the President.

If the administration recommends legislation, key Democrats privately agree that Congress will approve some form of bill. Some Democrats predicted that there is a 50-50 chance now that Congress will act, even without an administration recommendation.

One influential Democrat who is opposed to the labor-backed bill put it this way: "You can be sure that a Democratic Congress won't stand still in an election year and let a Republican administration outbid the Democrats for votes of the old folks. If the administration recommends a program, Congress will approve it or a bigger one. Even if there is no recommendation, we may not be able to hold the line now that Flemming has made his bid."

The bill which labor wants is sponsored by Rep. Amie J. Forand (D-RI) No. 2 Democrat on the House Ways & Means Committee, which has legislative jurisdiction over the Social Security program.

10-Year Growth of U.S. Put at 17 Per Cent; West Tops All Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau Saturday published new population estimates for all the states and said the national population has increased 17 per cent since 1950.

The bureau estimated the total population was 176,365,000 on July 1. This compared with 150,697,361 at the time of the last census on April 1, 1950.

Another census will be taken next April 1 and that will show a population of about 180 million.

HAWAII WAS not included in the midyear estimates because it did not become a state until Aug. 21. The total population including Hawaii was 177,021,000 on July 1.

Nevada showed the greatest population growth between the 1950 census and mid-1959. Its population expanded by 74.9 per cent, Florida was second with a

Orange County Bid Supported by L.B.

The City of Long Beach is joining with Orange County in asking that the latter's name be added to the official designation of the nation's second largest metropolitan area.

If the request is granted, the Los Angeles-Long Beach-Orange County Metropolitan Area will be the only one in the United States to include the name of a county as such.

NORMALLY, the Bureau of the Budget, which determines the names with the aid of the Federal Committee on Standard Metropolitan Areas, limits the designation to the one or two largest cities in any district.

But City Manager Sam E. Vickers, who was asked by the Long Beach City Council for a recommendation, said he agreed with the Orange County Board of Supervisors and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce that Orange County has grown populous enough to be officially recognized in the metropolitan area's name.

Also concurring, the Council has ordered preparation of a resolution formalizing the request.

Pan Am Jet in Speediest Pacific Hop

HONOLULU (AP)—Flying 780 miles an hour at times, an intercontinental jet sped from Tokyo to Honolulu Saturday in 5 hours and 45 minutes for the 3,100-mile trip.

The Pan American plane, piloted by Capt. Dent Terrell, carried 102 passengers and a crew of 11.

The plane flew at 33,000 feet and was aided by strong tailwinds in the jetstream. The previous fastest time for the trip by a Pan American jet was 6 hours and 12 minutes.

Officers of the armed forces prefer a reduction of the number of servicemen but want them provided with new weapons. Canada's armed strength now is about 120,000.

'CONTROL—OR WORLD CHAOS'

1960s Called Fateful Population Decade

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The fateful 'fertility regulation' either exists or is developing, Population Reference Bureau President Robert C. Cook, citing population projections provided by the United Nations, said "nothing is more important to the future of the human race than regulation of fertility."

It foresaw a world population increase of 570 million—from 2.9 billion to 3.5 billion—in the new decade of 1960, and said:

"During the same 10-year period the world may become more sharply divided into two distinct groups (1) the stable 'have' countries where economic, social and political deterioration will be followed by chaos and greater misery. "Democracy could not possibly survive such a debacle." Cook said the decade's most serious threat to world peace could come from Communist China whose estimated annual population increase is between 12 and 20 million. He added that Tibet, India, and Nepal might be prologues to continued expansion.

"Population growth in China," he said, "might even lead Russia to cast her future with her Western neighbors."

In the "have not" category the United States, all the countries of Europe, the Soviet Union, Canada, the temperate zone countries of Latin America, and Oceania and Japan.

In the "have not" it listed Asia, except Japan and Israel, and tropical Latin America.

Solons Warn of Russian Power Gains

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unless "we speed up or they slow down," Russia will surpass the United States in electric power production in about 15 years, a Senate subcommittee said Saturday.

This would mean, said a group which inspected Soviet power plants, that the United States would bow to the Communists in "the basic field in which supremacy counts heavily in peaceful economic competition or in event of war."

AN 11-MEMBER group, including members of the Senate Interior and Public Works committees, spent a month last fall looking over Soviet dams and power plants. The delegation was headed by Sens. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska) and Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine).

The subcommittee said in a report being printed for study by other senators that the United States, traditional world leader in power production, still is far ahead of the Soviet Union.

However, it added, the Soviets will overtake the United States by 1975 if they continue to build big dams at a faster rate than this country.

THE REPORT said Russia, "pursuing its oft-stated goal of overtaking the United States in economic production, has undertaken literally hundreds of new starts on hydroelectric developments within the past five years."

Russia is building more dams and projects with bigger power plants than those in the United States, the report said. The Reds also were said to be exporting heavy power equipment to more than 20 countries, including some former U. S. customers.

The report said the Russians within five years plan to complete five integrated transmission systems which will be tied together.

THE GROUP made these other conclusions:

—The Soviets seek to achieve full development and maximum power potential from their rivers, which have a hydroelectric potential three times as great as those of the United States.

—The Soviet Union has an 80,000-mile inland waterway system which links all four seas bordering European Russia.

—Flood control is not a major problem in the Soviet Union.

—Dam construction has required relocation of hundreds of thousands of persons, who moved to new towns built on higher ground or to permanent cities built at construction sites.

POLICE 'PAL'

Old Friend Gets High, And Higher

LONDON (UPI)—Police in the suburb of Croydon peered up Saturday at what sounded like hollering above the roar of a raging wind. As usual, there was their old friend, John Mawby.

He was perched on the tip of the swinging jib of 130-foot building crane. He was singing lustily above the roar of the storm and dancing, leaping up and down and performing acrobatic feats. He even tried to stand on his head.

POLICE WENT up after him. It was a familiar chore.

Twice before, they have had to clamber up high cranes and talk the 39-year-old Mawby down. Each time, they have jailed him for drunkenness. Each time, Mawby had cheerfully admitted that when he gets tanked up, he heads for the nearest crane.

In the past, police had to climb all the way to the top to reach him. This time Mawby obliged by coming halfway down to meet them. He was soaked to the skin by the rain.

As usual, he surrendered meekly, and, as usual, the police hauled him off to jail.

BEACH COMING

SEASONS GREETINGS

With MALCOLM EPLEY

THERE'S more warmth than some suspect behind the austere facades of financial institutions.

Witness to that today is Bill James, L.B. magazine editor.

Last year, in the holiday rush, he forgot to mail a check to a San Francisco mortgage co. to cover his monthly payment. Right at Christmas he got a red "greeting" from the bank telling him he was late and would have to pay $2.92 penalty.

Bill sent the card back with a little poem on the back which ended: "The banker's heart is grim and cold, his only thought is on his gold."

Last week, he got the red card back from the S.F. office. With it was a white card, on which was typed an answering poem:

You think our heart is grim and cold
Our only thought is on our gold.
But we just want to prove this year
Our thoughts are really filled with cheer.

Bill is properly impressed that somebody kept his card a year and answered it. He wonders, though, if the penalty would have been suspended if he, again, had failed to remit on time in December. Ah, there's the test.

Sound Saved at 'Noise Bank'

Recording Studio Draws Future Stars of Jukebox

By GEORGE ERES

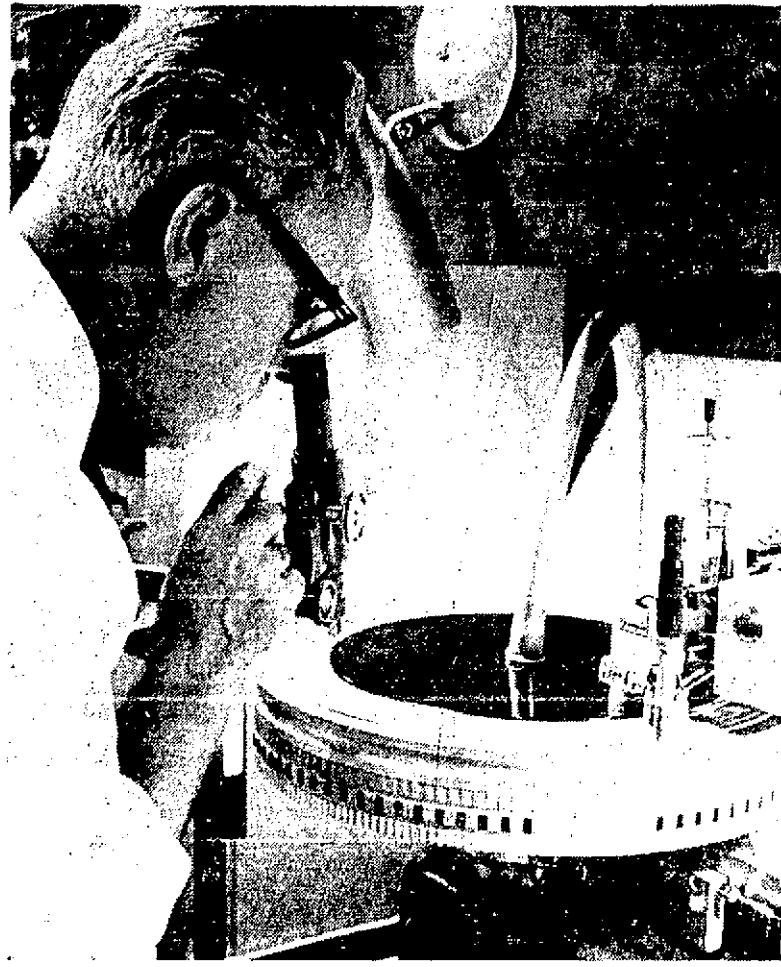

Ralph Garrison bottles sound. Well, not actually in bottles—on records. Say you want a background noise for a radio or television show or a little theater production. Maybe, an airplane.

In that case, it's a good idea to let Garrison know not only what kind of a plane, but the speed at which you want it travelling.

Things are that precise in Garrison's line. He operates the Garrison Recording Studio at 1120 Pine Ave.

"There's always somebody who will know the sound of a particular type of plane travelling at a certain speed," he said. "If the noise isn't right, somebody will call up the station and let them know."

Garrison has filed thousands of sounds—ready almost on demand.

THE MUSIC'S IN THE GROOVE

Making sure the cut and the noise level are correct, Ralph Garrison peers through microscope to check microgroove cuts on a master disc turned out in his recording studio. Garrison will record your "hit" or "miss," assuming a minimum amount of studio time, and you're "in business" with 100 12-inch 33 1/2 records for about $200.—(Staff Photo.)

Red Cross First Aid Meets Set

Three new first aid courses open to the public have been scheduled by the Long Beach chapter of the American Red Cross.

Don Medley, director of safety service, said each is a standard course and is free.

Students, however, must provide a 75-cent textbook, notebook and pencil and piece of cloth, for bandaging, at least six inches wide and a yard long.

EACH COURSE consists of six two-hour sessions, Medley said. Enrollment may be at the first or second class meeting.

The schedules:

Mondays beginning Jan. 4—Physical education classroom, Stanford Junior High School, 5871 Lus Arcos Ave., 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Tuesdays beginning Jan. 5—Crew quarters, Bowers Ambulance Service, 1775 Linden Ave., 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Wednesdays beginning Jan. 6—Library, Los Cerritos School, 14626 Gundry Ave., Paramount, 7:30-9:30 p.m.

THE BELL SISTERS are "in and out" of the studio fairly regularly; Walter Ekard, now with Capitol Records, evangelists Oral Roberts and Merv Rosell; Western singers Shorty Bacon, Wynn Stewart and Lefty Frizzell and anything they've heard onshore has won for him "a man with a golden ear" award from performers.

Olympic skater Ronnie Robertson, for example, goes through some routines to Garrison tapes.

There are also the people who just want records of home use. And the spot commercial sound. He records sets of bugle calls for military installation and ships at sea, which use announcements for broadcast.

Not to mention the rock-and-roll singers.

"After about 15 or 20, up three sets of recordings a takes," said Garrison, "you cruise—depending on the have to listen to all of the. The hypnotic 'hurry, hurry' takes when they're cutting the tape."

Maybe that's why both record, Garrison and his wife, Sara—she runs the business—are so high on a man just getting started. They've heard a lot of performers get started, so he prepares background maybe their opinion is worth more than the man in the barber shop. Anyway they chronicled swimming teams think a young Englishman go through their routines to named Fred Noad who just finished cutting a classical guitar album is as fine as the technically demanding

Dog Causes $10,000 Bash of 40 Autos

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A dog trotted onto a packed freeway Saturday and started a string of traffic collisions which did $10,000 damage to 40 vehicles.

Eleven persons received minor injuries.

COMPROMISE SOUGHT Hearing on Shoreline Master Plan Slated

By GEORGE WEEKS

The City Planning Commission has scheduled a hearing for 2 p.m. Jan. 21 in the City Council Chamber on a revised edition of a master shoreline plan.

But just what proposed developments will go into the sketch unveiled at that time is undecided.

Unable to agree on some major elements and numerous details, commissioners will meet in special session on Jan. 6. Their purpose is to arrive at a compromise that will enable the staff to prepare an official proposed plan for submission at the subsequent hearing.

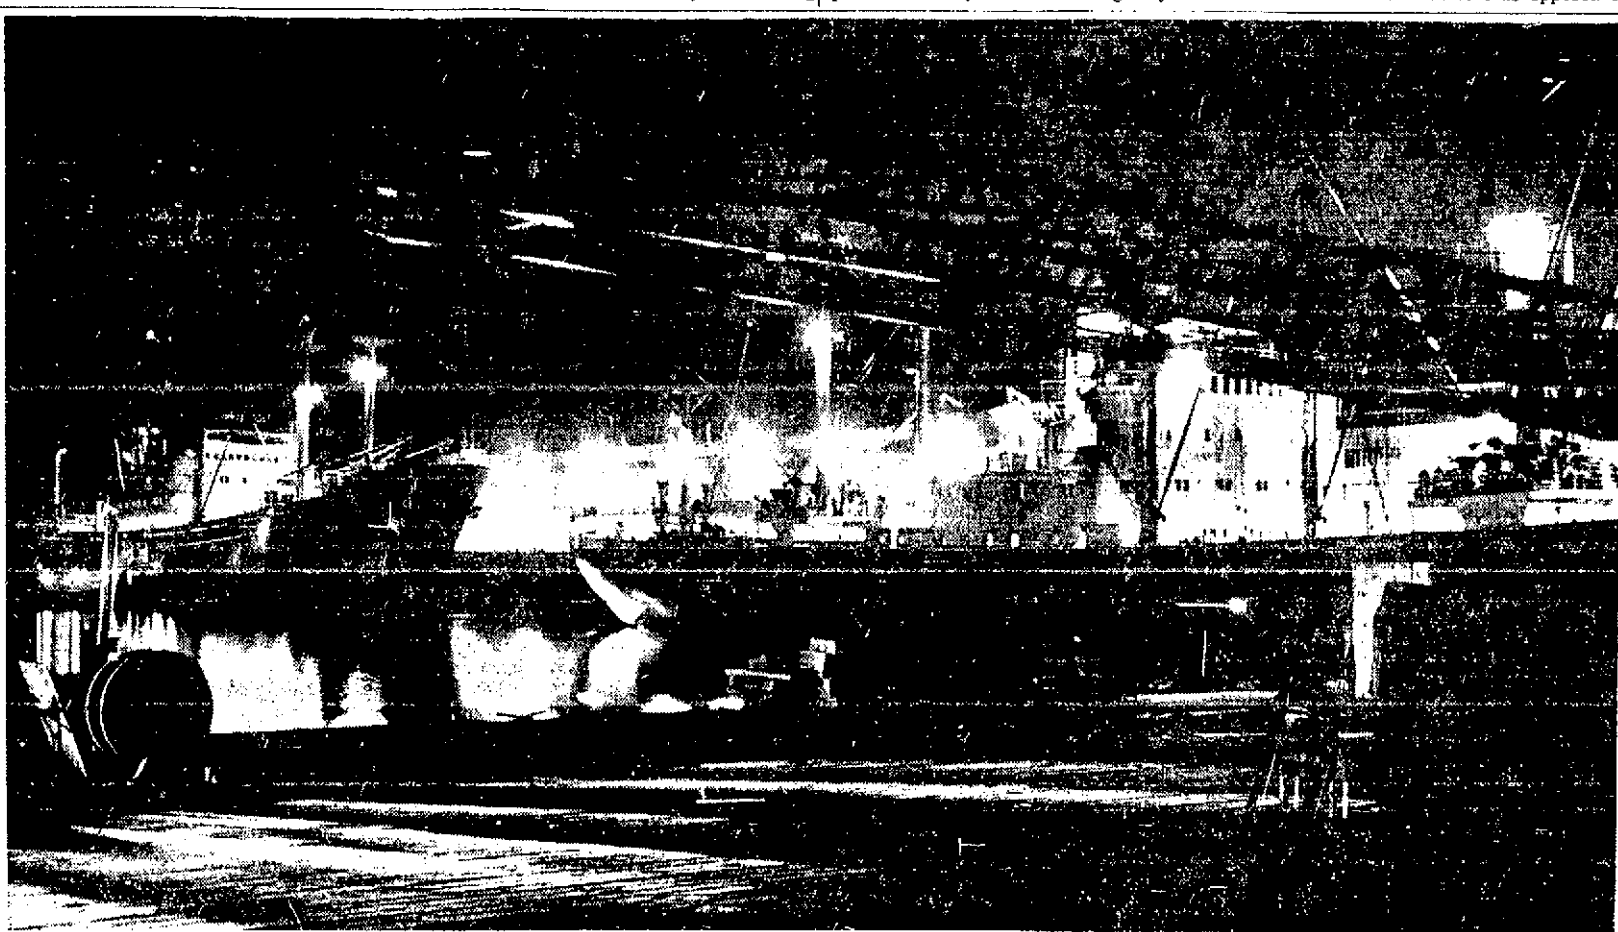

Earlier discussions have revealed differences within the commission—as well as among the public—on such items as a shoreline roadway, the extent of parking facilities and the question of park-like treatment as opposed to more conventional beach development.

CONSENSUS WAS that the plan eventually presented will be less extensive than at least three of four versions displayed at a stormy preliminary hearing last July.

Members of Long Beach Beautiful, a group which has taken a vigorous stand for preservation of the beach's natural attractions and against some of the parking lot developments, are reported preparing their own plan for the hearing.

Principal spokesmen for the group are Thurlyne Waite, a member of the Planning Commission, and Virginia Russell, former president of the Park Board.

One probable new item in the revised plan is the location of a proposed $4,500,000 Maritime and Commerce Museum in the Municipal Auditorium area.

Co. puts a steel ceiling on the maritime scene looking toward the new Argonaut Terminal on Pier B.—(Photo by John H. Neagle.)

A TENTATIVE SKETCH prepared by Planning Department staff members places the museum building on a site adjacent to Rainbow Pier and directly south of the terminus of Long Beach Blvd.

It would be accessible by way of the pier roadway and also to pedestrians by means of a bridge over a decorative lagoon immediately south of the auditorium.

Another proposed new element is a swimming lagoon adding 2,800 linear feet of beach between Magnolia and Pine Aves.

Planners said they hope to meet a suggested Feb. 1 deadline for submission of a revised master plan to the City Council.

However, commission members said some modifications may be ordered as a result of the Jan. 21 hearing.

Only a small detail in the master plan—but the one that brought on the request for immediate revision of the 1949 version—is a proposed parking lot along the beach east of Cherry Ave.

DRIFTWOOD—Fellow who delayed until Christmas Eve to buy a clock radio for his wife tells me he's glad the shopping crowds were still big. He picked out a radio, but waited so long for a clerk he got disgusted and went elsewhere. There he found the same radio for $15 less. He didn't mind another wait... William E. Fisher's suggestion for a substitute name for Miss International Beauty: Miss Cosmos. "Cosmos means 'ordered universe,'" said Fisher. "Let's not shrink the jurisdiction of our pageant."... If the rain made you happy, you should know how happy it made the weather man who predicted it with such assurance. It was touch and go for a while.

They Trained a Tough Monkey

LAST YEAR ABOUT THIS TIME this newspaper used somewhat strong language in placing a monkey on the backs of Port Mgr. Charles L. Vickers and the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

It was a time when the city's subsidence control program seemed to be floundering. The Naval Shipyard situation was becoming more critical by the day, and although both city and harbor officials talked long and loud about wanting to control the sinking, nobody seemed anxious to assume the role of quarterback and start calling the moves.

To us, the responsibility for directing the subsidence abatement program seemed clear. Although the City Manager and City Council have general obligations in this respect, under the City Charter specific responsibility for executing the subsidence control program rests with officials in charge of the Harbor Department.

CONSEQUENTLY, we let it be known that we would look to Port Mgr. Vickers and the harbor board to provide the leadership. Required subsidence control legislation already had been adopted and plans for flooding almost the entire field had been developed, so we urged the harbor officials to establish a timetable for a specific plan of action and dedicate themselves to stopping the sinking in time to save the Naval Shipyard.

Looking back over the year, we find far more reason to praise than to criticize the actions of harbor officials in administering the subsidence control program for the city. They faced up to the responsibility realistically, encouraged cooperation from state officials and major oil interests and made outstanding progress.

DURING THE PAST 12 months, harbor officials have produced proof that injection of water into the Wilmington Oil Field will stop subsidence; they placed emphasis on controlling subsidence in the critical shipyard area; they built a water supply system capable of serving virtually the entire Wilmington Field, and, with competent assistance from the City Attorney's office, they made good progress on obtaining complex legal agreements required to assure final success for the program.

It truly was a year of accomplishments. At the present time, the City of Long Beach is awaiting word from the Secretary of Navy regarding continued operation of the Naval Shipyard. We cannot anticipate his decision, of course, but the facts hardly justify closing the yard because of subsidence.

AT THE START of last year, a mere six wells were injecting only 6,000 barrels of water per day into the oil zones in the immediate shipyard area. By the end of this month, the city and the Union Pacific Railroad will have a total of 47 wells injecting some 144,000 barrels daily under and adjacent to the yard.

More important, water flooding in the shipyard area already has produced results. The rate of sinkage has been reduced drastically, and petroleum consultants are predicting that subsidence at the shipyard will be stopped completely by mid-1960.

Regardless of the decision on the Naval Shipyard, port officials are to be commended for their handling of the subsidence control program. During this past year, when aggressive leadership has been sorely needed, Port Mgr. Vickers and the harbor board, under presidents Joseph F. Bishop and Bud Ridings, have served the city exceptionally well.

Morse Brilliance Spoiled by Anger

DESCRIBING a busybody, a kindly Quaker lady said, "There must admit he is industrious."

Senator Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) is not lazy and can find time for anyone he disagrees with—and that is nearly everyone.

No mere mortal can understand the Morse code but—depending on their presidential preference—politicians are purpling with rage or rosy with mirth at the news that Morse will orbit into the Oregon primary and may "solar sail" into the D.C. primary.

Senator Morse may not be able to kill some liberals with these political stones but he could knock off a few fine feathers.

WHEN SENATOR Kennedy and Senator Humphrey voted for the compromise labor legislation (worked out by House and Senate conferees), Senator Morse inveighed against them. He had been a co-sponsor of the original Kennedy Bill. Morse voted against the compromise legislation as did the late Senator Langer.

Into this cauldron of Morse jam one should also toss the name of Senator Neuberger (D-Ore.), a former Morse protegee, with whom Morse is feuding.

By entering the Oregon primary, Morse evidently hopes to lessen the rosy prospects of Senator Kennedy while hoping to entice Neuberger into a primary fight. Neuberger is up for re-election to the Senate in 1960. Morse has long wanted to run against him in some kind of race.

A SPLIT in the ranks of Oregon Democrats would enhance the chances of Senators Johnson and Symington and would be pleasing to Republicans.

Senator Morse is not too busy for Senator Proxmire, also an ardent liberal. Senator Morse flew into Wisconsin to fly—verbally—at Senator Proxmire on his home ground.

Morse told Senator Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.) and others that Proxmire came to Oregon and "delivered an uncalled for attack on me."

TO MANY, it seems a tragedy that Senator Morse, whose intellectual brilliance approaches genius, and whose love for humanity in general is great, is so filled with anger at so many.

'Political' Strike Solution Will Force More Inflation

WASHINGTON—Federal mediators may come and go, the management representatives and steel union leaders may be called into continuous sessions, but the fact is that neither side has the slightest intention of giving in at this time. The future procedure is plainly marked out. The union leaders do not say so, but actually they want a "political" settlement.

This is what has happened many times before. The companies will not, of course, accept responsibility for an inflationary settlement. If, however, the government puts them in a situation where they cannot do anything but yield, they will have to agree to such a settlement and then later raise prices.

This has been the history in major strikes, and the unions feel that their influence is such that the administration in power, whether it is Republican or Democrat, must conform to the pattern.

The argument is made that Congress will be urged to pass legislation providing for compulsory arbitration if there is no settlement. This means, of course, the breakdown of the collective bargaining tradition and the introduction of more and more compulsion in labor-management disputes. This could prove advantageous to the labor unions because of the enormous political influence that they usually exert.

Again and again, management has been virtually forced to yield to the demands of the unions through governmental intervention. Actually, this year's contract isn't half as important as the precedent to be created by this year's negotiation.

The work rules are the real stumbling block. Conditions vary in different companies. The steel managers feel that they must, by this present controversy, disabuse the labor leaders of the idea that a work rule once adopted cannot be changed thereafter. Machinery to bring about a settlement is available, but the unions have taken the position that they will not yield at all.

The next step, of course, is the vote to be taken next month under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board. On the ballot will appear a summary of the companies' latest offer and the men will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" on it.

It is expected that the union position will be upheld by a substantial margin. But the important point will be the size of the opposition.

When the voting is over and the steel workers presumably have rejected the final offer by the companies, a decision will have to be reached by the unions whether to keep the men at work as the 80-day injunction expires, or whether to continue to let them work while negotiations are resumed.

But even while this happens, the pressure from influential members of Congress will begin, and the chances are in the end that if a "political" settlement is made, it will deal a body-blow to the whole crusade against inflation. The companies will then feel justified in raising their prices. This would be a disappointment to all those who believe in a stabilized economy. It will be a demonstration of the power of unions to force inflation on the American people.

Filipinos Take Way Taught by U.S.A.

MANILA, P. I.—For 50 years more or less the United States taught the Philippine people politics. Today, whether the world approves or not, the Filipinos are carrying on in the path of their teacher.

Result: You have about the freest democracy east of Suez.

At times it resembles the free-wheeling, free-shooting democracy of our pioneer days, which is not unnatural, for the Philippines is also a very young country and succeeded in shooting 173 and killing 61 during the last election campaign, though only one was killed on the day of actual voting.

"Our problem is not voting but keeping people from voting," Arsenio H. Lacson, dynamic mayor of Manila, told me.

"Over 90 per cent of the people vote, and one candidate who knew he was going to be defeated, but didn't want to be defeated too badly, gave away free movie tickets to keep the voters away from the polls. It didn't work."

Mayor Lacson, who may well be the next president of the Philippines, knows what he's talking about because he has been elected Mayor of Manila for three terms.

The Philippines is a nation surrounded by dictatorships where elections are either nonexistent or a joke. A politician who criticizes the government in those countries is in danger of getting locked up.

FREE CRITICISM — In the Philippines, however, not only can you run against the government but you can do so and still remain on speaking terms with leaders of the government.

Mayor Lacson not only belongs to President Garcia's political party but at tends meetings of its executive committee with Garcia. Yet his attacks on the president are as barbed as those of Sen. Hubert Humphrey against President Eisenhower—and they are not members of the same political party.

As a nation founded on many of the lofty principles of Christianity it is fitting that we celebrate joyously the birthday of the One who taught us that free men can alone know the truth. And even though our social behavior, our philosophies and political theories often seem to run contrary to all reason and understanding, there is evidence to believe that man will some day merge his destiny with the universe.

We have only to look into the hearts and minds of our children on this particular day for renewal of our faith in the future of man. If we are willing to accept the confidence of these innocents of sublime faith, then we are ready to accept the challenge of destiny.

You'll Need a Calendar to Watch New Year's Politics

PHANTOMS OF TODAY'S political opera must unmask in tomorrow's new year. Today you can't tell the candidates even with a program. But the ruthless 1960 calendar will give them all numbers which they can no longer dodge nor deny.

This game is too important to miss. You'd better register now. Then buy yourself a calendar and write in the game "scores."

Long Beach City elections of 1960 promise some surprises and excitement. Voters will elect nine Council members to three-year terms, and they may be dealing with several new names.

Capt. Charles M. Garrison, 5th District, already has announced he will not seek re-election. At least three others are likely to step out—Gerald Desmond, 2nd; William T. Dalessi, 4th, and D. Patrick Ahern, 6th. Ahern's probable departure involves his looked-for declaration of candidacy for Congress in the Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill 18th District.

SO, THE FIRST city date to watch is the May 10 city primary. The two council candidates with the highest vote totals in each of the nine districts will face a runoff in the city general election, June 7, which, incidentally, is the same date of the California consolidated presidential primary.

Other city offices up for vote are city auditor (John Mansell), city attorney (Walfrid Jacobsen), and city prosecutor (James T. Starr). Current rumble is that Jacobsen is the most likely to be challenged by other aspirants here.

No. 1 political contest in the 18th is for Congress where Republican Craig Hosmer has been king of the hill for four two-year terms. The 1960 primary, June 7, will be the first since abolition of cross-filing.

Since Democrats need not fear Hosmer being elected in the primary by winning majorities on both tickets—as was possible under cross-filing—they may field more people in the primary.

HOWEVER, ONLY long Beach State College's Dr. Wallace Moore has shown an eagerness to make the fight to date. He announced Oct. 16 that he would formally announce his candidacy Jan. 14. Pat Ahern has been dark-horsing around with the announcement idea and most political observers think he'll go for it.

No candidates yet loom big for the 18th's two Assembly Districts—Democrat Joe Kennick's west side 44th, and Republican Bill Grant's east side 70th. Potential Grant challengers include Lakewood Mayor Angelo Jacoboni, Atty. William T. Pillsbury and public relations consultant Larry Shea Lennon.

The GOP regards the 44th as a marginal district, one which a slight tide could recover from Kennick, but has produced no name for the task. There has been some rumor that Councilman Dooley might jump in here.

Jan. 9 is the date to watch on the 18th for Democratic opposition to Hosmer. That's the date of the district Democratic Council's endorsing convention.

SO MUCH for the local meat and potatoes. In the bigger game, here are dates of interest:

Jan. 4, Congress reconvenes. Jan. 9th 18th Democratic endorsing convention. Jan. 25, last filing date for Illinois primary. Jan. 28, last filing date for New Hampshire primary. Feb. 1, state budget session of the Legislature.

March 8, New Hampshire primary, the first of 16 in the nation. March 9, last filing date for California primary. July 11, Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles Sports Arena. July 25, GOP National Convention in Chicago. Nov. 8, national general election.

Destiny Seen in Child's Heart

EDITOR:

If through some miracle of compassion, Christ should return to earth on the nineteen hundred and fifty-ninth anniversary of His birth, we wonder if He would find mankind so much different than on the day the multitude cried, "Let him be crucified." Have nearly two millenniums of exposure to the lucid, yet simple teachings of the lonely white-robed Galilean, brought forth a greater realization of consciousness that God did make man in His own image?

Despite the preponderance of material evidence to the contrary, we are inclined to believe that man is slowly and surely beginning to recognize his close relationship with infinity . . . and that the image of God is universal and wears the robes of no particular secular creed.

As a nation founded on many of the lofty principles of Christianity it is fitting that we celebrate joyously the birthday of the One who taught us that free men can alone know the truth. And even though our social behavior, our philosophies and political theories often seem to run contrary to all reason and understanding, there is evidence to believe that man will some day merge his destiny with the universe.

We have only to look into the hearts and minds of our children on this particular day for renewal of our faith in the future of man. If we are willing to accept the confidence of these innocents of sublime faith, then we are ready to accept the challenge of destiny.

Union Is Most Disorganized

EDITOR:

So many, or rather too many people, particularly public speakers and writers, keep referring to the union as "organized labor." Nothing is more disorganized and confused than the union. It has to be. Anything based entirely upon the use and threat of violence to exist and grow, can't be organized in the true sense of the meaning.

Deprive the union of the legal use of strikes and picketing, as is every organization in America, and it couldn't exist for any purpose, good or bad.

A gangster mob is more deserving of being called "organized" than is the union. Its acts being illegal, it has no government or other such protection in using force. So if it wasn't somewhat organized, it would be unable to do anything of importance. But it does.

Probably America's biggest safeguard today is the union being such a disorganization. If it really was organized, along with its present power through having the monopoly on the legal use of force, called strikes and picketing, it would have had 100 per cent control of America more than 20 years ago.

Even to the union, it never can be organized until everyone is a member of it. That's why it continually uses or threatens the use of its power of force to get "union shop" and other compulsory membership contracts.

Anyone so foolish as to disgrace labor (working people) by referring to the union as "organized labor," reveals his duped or unthinking self. There are many workers (labor), too, who belong to the Democratic Party, Republican Party, NAACP, Communist Party, the several churches and lodges, etc. Would it be fair to choose one of them and cast a reflection upon American workers by calling it "organized labor?"

Pal Proves He's a Real Seadog

As far as Pal, a year-old German shepherd dog, is concerned, the world consists of an occasionally unsteady wooden floor from which the view is usually of limitless water.

For Pal lives aboard a ship. More specifically, he resides on the bridge deck of the Philippine freighter Manila, which called this week at Los Angeles Harbor on her maiden voyage.

THE DOG WAS born on the Cebu, another ship of the Maritime Co. of the Philippines line. The only time Pal has ever touched a distrustful paw on dry land was when he was transferred to the Manila.

Pal eats galley leavings and, as a true seaman, loves coffee. Owned by the Manila's master, Capt. Ramon R. Infante, Pal is trained to stay on the bridge deck, which he refuses to leave even on a direct order from Infante. The Manila's captain and crew feel there's only one difference between Pal and other seamen. He never asks for shore leave.

American Mail Line will give its Dartmouth Victory, purchased a short time ago from American President Lines, a new name, Alaska Mail, to give the 49th state recognition in the line's roster.

NATIONAL convention of the Propeller Club in 1962 will be in Seattle, along with the American Merchant Marine Conference. The convention will coincide with the Century 21 Exposition in Seattle that year.

MATSON LINE'S Mariposa leaves Wilmington Monday for the South Pacific on the line's 71st and final sailing of the year.

During 1959, the Mariposa and her sister ship, the Monterey, made 15 round-trip voyages, turning around at Australia. Matson Hawaii passenger ships, the Lurline and Matsonia, have made 54 round trips. The Lurline also sailed twice to Acapulco.

Next year, Matson liners will make 75 Pacific sailings, including 15 to the South Pacific, 59 to Hawaii and a year-end cruise to Acapulco.

Next year, Matson liners will make 75 Pacific sailings, including 15 to the South Pacific, 59 to Hawaii and a year-end cruise to Acapulco.

Incidentally, the Monterey, on the last day of its South Pacific cruise, features a White Elephant Auction which is becoming increasingly popular.

The auction's purpose is to allow passengers a chance to unload souvenirs they wish they hadn't bought.

THE FIRST OF SEVEN ships in a new regular shipping service between here and Formosa is due in Los Angeles Harbor about Jan. 6.

The 11,000-ton Hai Min will be followed by the Hai Yu, of 10,800 tons, in the new service being jointly operated by the state-owned China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. and the China Union Lines, a privately owned Chinese firm.

ED STANLEY has been re-elected president of Shipyard Workers' Local 9 in a recent election. There was only one other holdover, Frank Guillen, dispatcher, which may have some significance in the union's current strike against Todd Shipyards.

Other officers named were Lloyd A. Lewis, vice president; William F. Hooe, executive secretary; Tony Chavez, recording secretary; Emmet Davis, treasurer; Tony Bonofrio, trustee; Paul Gardiock, business agent.

A-Plant Built for Small Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed Saturday that a prototype nuclear power plant for a small submarine reached full power operation a week ago Saturday.

The plant, designed SLC, is in Windsor, Conn. It is the forerunner of a propulsion plant to be built for the Tullibee, the Navy's first nuclear hunter-killer submarine which is being constructed at Groton, Conn.

The SLC is housed in a section of a submarine hull. It includes a pressurized water reactor, propulsion machinery and controls needed to simulate operation in a submarine.

$22 Million Ford Engineering Center Being Constructed at Newport Beach

200-Acre Area,
Employ 4,000

By KEN CHILCOTE
Independent Press-Telegram
Business Editor

One of the Southland's most advanced facilities for scientific development and engineering is being built by Aeronutronic, a Division of Ford Motor Co., high on a bluff overlooking Newport Beach Harbor in the Costa Mesa area.

The $22-million engineering and research center will eventually house 4,000 personnel, most of whom will be senior scientists and engineers working on advanced programs of the "space age," according to Gerald J. Lynch, a Ford vice president and Aeronutronic general manager.

The modern research facility, geared to the current and future requirements of advanced technology, is being built on a 200-acre site, between MacArthur Blvd. and Jamboree Rd.

ALREADY COMPLETED and occupied are the Division's aerothermochemical lab and the computer operations buildings. Scheduled for occupancy in January is a second operations building similar in size (120,000 square feet) and construction to the computer operations building. This new building will be occupied by personnel of the division's space technology operations.

Occupancy of this building will mark the completion of the first segment of the master plan for the center.

Construction has started on

UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Recent aerial view shows progress on Engineering and Research Center of Aeronutronic, division of Ford Motor Co., being built at Newport Beach. In foreground is aerothermochemical laboratory, now occupied. Computer operations building is at upper left. Space technology operations building is white-topped structure at right. Ground will be broken next year for administration building.

a central services building (50,000 square feet) and an environmental test building (30,000 square feet).

AN ADDITIONAL operations building for the tactical weapon-systems operations is now entering the design stage and is expected to be completed late in 1960. It will be approximately the same size (100,000 square feet) as the space technology and computer operations buildings.

The accelerated personnel growth curve of Aeronutronic indicates another large laboratory building may be required in 1961.

GROUND WILL be broken in January for a four-story administration building to house the executive and administrative staff of the Division. The multi-story building will measure approximately 60,000 square feet, and will be located on a mesa north of Ford Rd. between MacArthur Blvd. and Jamboree Rd. It will be accessible from both thoroughfares. Construction on the modern structure is planned to begin in January with completion scheduled for late 1960.

Aeronutronic's Engineering and Research Center is not a manufacturing operation. Only prototype or engineering test models are produced at the Newport Beach site. Major manufacturing work will be carried out by the firm at another site, either in Orange County or in other parts of the United States as yet undetermined.

L.A. Factory Employment Rises 5 Pct.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Factory employment in the Los Angeles area in November was 5 per cent above a year ago, although down slightly from October.

John F. Henning, California director of industrial relations, said Saturday that manufacturing plants in the area employed 728,900 wage and salary workers last month, compared with 785,700 in October and 745,900 in November 1958.

HENNING SAID most manufacturing industries registered year-to-year increases. The electrical equipment industry alone employed 19,300 more workers this November than last year.

Aircraft, by far the largest manufacturing employer in the Los Angeles area, had about the same number as a year ago.

Employment in auto assembly, which was severely curtailed in November by steel shortages, was down by 20 per cent from the level of November 1958.

1,200 Families Made Homeless by Blaze

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—A fire raged through a refugee colony in the Karachi suburb of Nazimabad Saturday, razing bamboo and reed huts and leaving 1,200 families homeless in bitter cold. A 7-year-old girl died in the fire.

Blast Threat in Tank Car Wreck Fades

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Workmen cleared the tracks Saturday of the smoldering wreckage of a Christmas Day train derailment as the danger of further tank car explosions ended.

Two tank cars carrying manufactured gas exploded and burned following the derailment near here. No one was hurt.

In all, 28 cars of a southbound freight and one car and three units of a diesel engine of a northbound freight left the tracks. The gas cars, one diesel unit and another freight car burned through the night.

Santa Changes Gears in Hurry on Kiddy Car

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Santa left an electric kiddy car at the Manning Wick home in suburban Whitefish Bay. It was intended for 4-year-old Diane Wick.

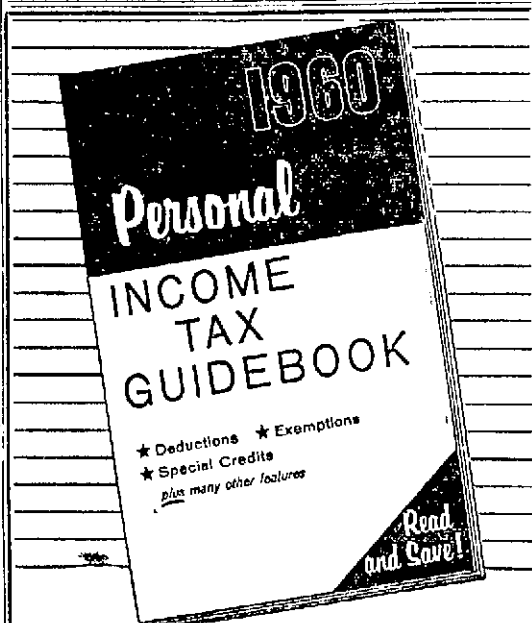

Diane's father spent an hour Christmas Eve carefully following instructions for putting the car together. When he was finished, he picked it up to hide it until Christmas morning. A nine-pound, six-volt battery dropped out of the bottom, landing on Wick's left foot. He required emergency hospital treatment for an injured big toe.

Santa changed signals. Diane got an unmotorized car instead.

16 Lost, 6 Saved in Ship Sinking

ATHENS (UPI)—The Greek cargo ship Risa Vlasi sank during a storm in the Adriatic Saturday with the loss of 16 crew members.

Six other crewmen were saved when the 3,000-ton vessel capsized a mile off Cape Lavrion, south of Athens.

Martial Law Ends at Packing Plant

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Minnesota Gov. Orville L. Freeman Saturday ordered an end to martial law at Albert Lea, but kept 100 National Guardsmen at the gates of the Wilson & Co. packing plant.

The 16 days of martial law were to end at midnight today. A spokesman for Freeman said, however, that the present force of 100 troopers would remain until authorities determined how many were needed.

Freeman thus bowed to a panel of three federal judges who ordered him to reopen the Wilson meat packing plant and lift martial law.

Albert Lea and Freeborn County law officers asked Freeman, however, to leave 72 guardsmen to help maintain peace when about 500 non-striking workers march past picket lines Monday morning.

Freeman had declared martial law Dec. 11 and sent 200 guardsmen to Albert Lea after non-striking workers stoned and spat upon as they entered and left the plant.

The plant is one of eight in the nation where United

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

100 Fight Iraq Patrols; 5 Slain

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—One hundred Iraqis were reported Saturday to have clashed with Iraqi border patrols while trying to flee into Iran.

Press reports said that four of the group trying to leave Iraq were killed, along with one border guard. Iranian border patrolmen apparently were involved in the clash, the latest in a series of incidents along the long frontier between the two countries.

The border is rigidly sealed and guarded by well-armed troops against flight by Iraqis who oppose the regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem. The country is in turmoil with waves of arrests reported. A trial opened in Baghdad Saturday for a number of persons accused of taking part in the attempt to assassinate Kassem last Oct. 7.

The fighting took place near Khanaqin, Iraqi oil town about 100 miles northeast of Baghdad, the reports said.

Ike Visits 4 Grandchildren

WASHINGTON (AP)—Like a dutiful grandfather, President Eisenhower drove to Gettysburg Saturday and spent about an hour with his four grandchildren around their Christmas tree.

It was the first time Eisenhower had seen the children since before his Dec. 3 departure on his overseas good-will trip. Today he will leave for Augusta, Ga.

"It seemed the logical thing to do," commented Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary.

The President had hoped to make the Gettysburg trip Friday, but was deterred by ice-coated highways.

Develop Small Mechanical Heart

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Two scientist brothers have produced a small mechanical heart which may add years of useful life to humans whose hearts wear out or break down. It would be enclosed in the patient's chest and operated by batteries strapped to his leg.

The prototype has been tested for short periods on dogs. It has not yet been used on humans. The device is slightly larger than a normal human heart.

A patent on the device has been issued to William J. Fry, director of the biochemistry laboratory at the University of Illinois, and his brother, Francis, a research professor at the laboratory.

"We believe that a mechanical heart capable of handling human needs for normal living for up to 30 years will be developed," William Fry said.

17 Perish in Peru Quakes

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A strong new earthquake struck southern Peru Saturday, leveling at least one village and adding to havoc and suffering wrought in Thursday's earth-cracking temblor. The series of quakes has killed 17 persons and injured 50.

Radio reports from the city of Avacucho, near the stricken mountain region 200 miles southeast of Lima, said the first quake killed at least 7.

Two relief planes sent out from Lima were unable to land at an airfield near Cangallo, south of Avacucho, because the first quake opened great cracks in it.

Soviets End Antarctic Trek

MOSCOW (UPI)—A 16-man Soviet antarctic expedition pulled into the U. S. Navy's South Pole base Saturday at the end of a 1,660-mile trek across previously unexplored territory of the frozen continent.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the expedition gleaned much information of great value in the hazardous three-month crossing by vehicle from the Soviet base at Mirny to the South Pole base.

Gift Shrubs Sent to Nikita by Ike

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow said Saturday night a gift of decorative shrubs from President Eisenhower to Premier Nikita Khrushchev has arrived in Moscow.

The shrubs were taken to Moscow aboard a special plane that earlier flew 44 gift trees from Khrushchev to Eisenhower.

Cold Conquered by Adenauer

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 84 next month, is recovering from a cold that has kept him in bed since Thursday.

Friends said the chancellor has no more fever but has decided to remain in bed. He invited his grandchildren to visit him Saturday night at his Rhine-side home at Rhondorf.

Gov. Rosellini to Speak Here

By BOB HOUSER

Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington will be speaker and guest of honor at the Long Beach Democratic Luncheon Club Wednesday noon in the Wilton Hotel Pageant Room.

The governor's appearance coincides with the Long Beach training visit by the University of Washington Huskies, whose fortunes he'll follow at the Rose Bowl Game.

A lawyer, former deputy prosecutor and a state senator, Rosellini was elected governor in 1956. In his four and a half terms in the state senate he championed public welfare, education and library legislation, and sponsored bills in behalf of labor, small merchants and veterans, among others.

ROSELLINI HAD his experience as a prosecutor after an appointment by Warren Magnuson, now a U. S. Senator. He won all but two jury trials in his six-year service.

He was Democratic floor leader during most of his time in the Washington State Senate. Among measures he introduced were an unfair practices bill for small merchants, a veterans bonus bill, one to establish a medical-dental school, a fair employment practices bill, improved teachers retirement, increased fire and police pensions and a proposal to strengthen state narcotics laws.

The governor chaired a state government reorganization group known as the "Little Kefauver Committee" which was generally credited with helping to clean up the city of Tacoma.

ROSELLINI LED a state ticket in 1956 which took Democratic majorities into the Senate (31-15) and House (56-43) for the first time in 12 years.

Rosellini measures enacted include creation of a depart-

North Forms Apportioning Battle Group

REDDING (AP)—Representatives of nine Northern California counties organized Saturday to fight the Southern California Legislative reapportionment movement.

Sen. Edwin J. Reagan (D-Weaverville) was chosen chairman of Californians Against Inequitable Reapportionment, Inc.

"THIS IS the most important step Northern California has taken in years," Reagan told newsmen after the session.

"Northern California counties unanimously support the idea of going all out to support this organization."

The organization was formed with one representative from each of the nine counties. All representatives are members of the Northern California Supervisors Assn.

REAGAN SAID it was planned to make the organization statewide to "fight reapportionment."

Bert Phillips of Burnt Ranch, Trinity County, was chosen secretary. Phillips is a former Southern California promoter.

Bill Minton of Redding, Shasta County executive officer, was named treasurer.

Counties represented at the meeting were Shasta, Tehama, Siskiyou, Modoc, Glenn, Lassen, Plumas, Humboldt and Del Norte.

Seize Dealer in Gun Death

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Nicholas Goodman, 55, a former blackjack dealer whose alleged cheating resulted in revocation of a gambling license, was booked Saturday for investigation of homicide in connection with the Christmas shooting of William Duffin.

Duffin, 61, co-owner of the Senator Club here, was killed by six bullets from a .22-caliber weapon early Friday.

Police said they arrested Goodman after learning that he had threatened Duffin at various times.

Auto Industry Chokes Off One Smog Source

One newly discovered source of smog from automobiles will be eliminated in next year's models through voluntary action by the Automobile Manufacturers Assn.

Louis Fuller, deputy chief of the County Air Pollution Control District office in Los Angeles, said auto industry research has discovered emissions of hydrocarbons from crankcase vent pipes equal one-third to one-half of the amount coming out of an exhaust.

Fuller said local research previously had known of such emissions but believed them to be insignificant.

"Refined techniques of research in Detroit brought the new cars to light," said Fuller. "We since have verified the findings."

The auto industry, said Fuller, next year will correct the situation by picking up emissions from the crankcase and directing them to the intake manifold where they will be burnt up instead of being allowed to enter the atmosphere.

Groucho the Pixie Bosses Quiz That Needs No Fixing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Groucho Marx at 64 is cracking into his 10th year as a TV quizmaster at a time when most quiz shows have crumbled in disrepute.

How does the old boy do it?

"Ours isn't a quiz; it's a comedy show," he explains. "And we've never been rigged."

He offers this as evidence: "We had two medal of honor winners on the show, and they didn't win a cent. Jockey (Billy) Pearson was a loser. We had a family of 19 who couldn't win."

Contestants in the regular quiz can earn as much as $1,200; none has. The average is $350. Winners of more than $500 can compete for the grand prize. The maximum of $10,000 was reached only once.

"We raised the ante to $10,000 when the other shows were giving away hundreds of thousands," Groucho says. "I'm sorry we did. Money isn't important to our show."

Groucho is.

His nimble wit, his irreverence, his ability to cut through sham and pomposity are the meat of the show.

HOW DOES HE characterize his own humor?

"It's filthy," he says in a typical reply. More seriously, he adds: "I guess it might be considered rebellious."

Those who wish to analyze this rebel can study his autobiography, "Groucho and Me." It offers a picture of a youth in crummy hotel rooms and lice-ridden theaters. Finally the Marx brothers climbed into the bigtime and starred brilliantly on Broadway and in Hollywood.

Groucho was always the leader in the Marx plots. It was he who sponsored their wild schemes, who deflated dignity, usually in the form of the bounteous dowager, Margaret Dumont.

However, Groucho found himself without an audience after World War II. The Marx brothers movies had run their course. Groucho's ventures as a single in movies and radio flopped. Then one of those brilliant show business accidents happened.

"Bob Hope was largely responsible," Groucho recalls. "I was doing a big, all-star aged and snapped up at a bargain $5,000 a week by a sponsor who couldn't afford a stiff price asked by Phil Baker.

AFTER 13 YEARS with the show on radio and TV, Groucho's work habits have reached a definite pattern. At 5:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, he leaves the Beverly Hills mansion where he lives with his young wife Eden and daughter Melinda. He arrives at the NBC Sunset and Vine studios at 6 and goes over the categories with the program producer. At 6:45, he walks half a block to the Brown Derby for dinner, returning to the studio at 7:45.

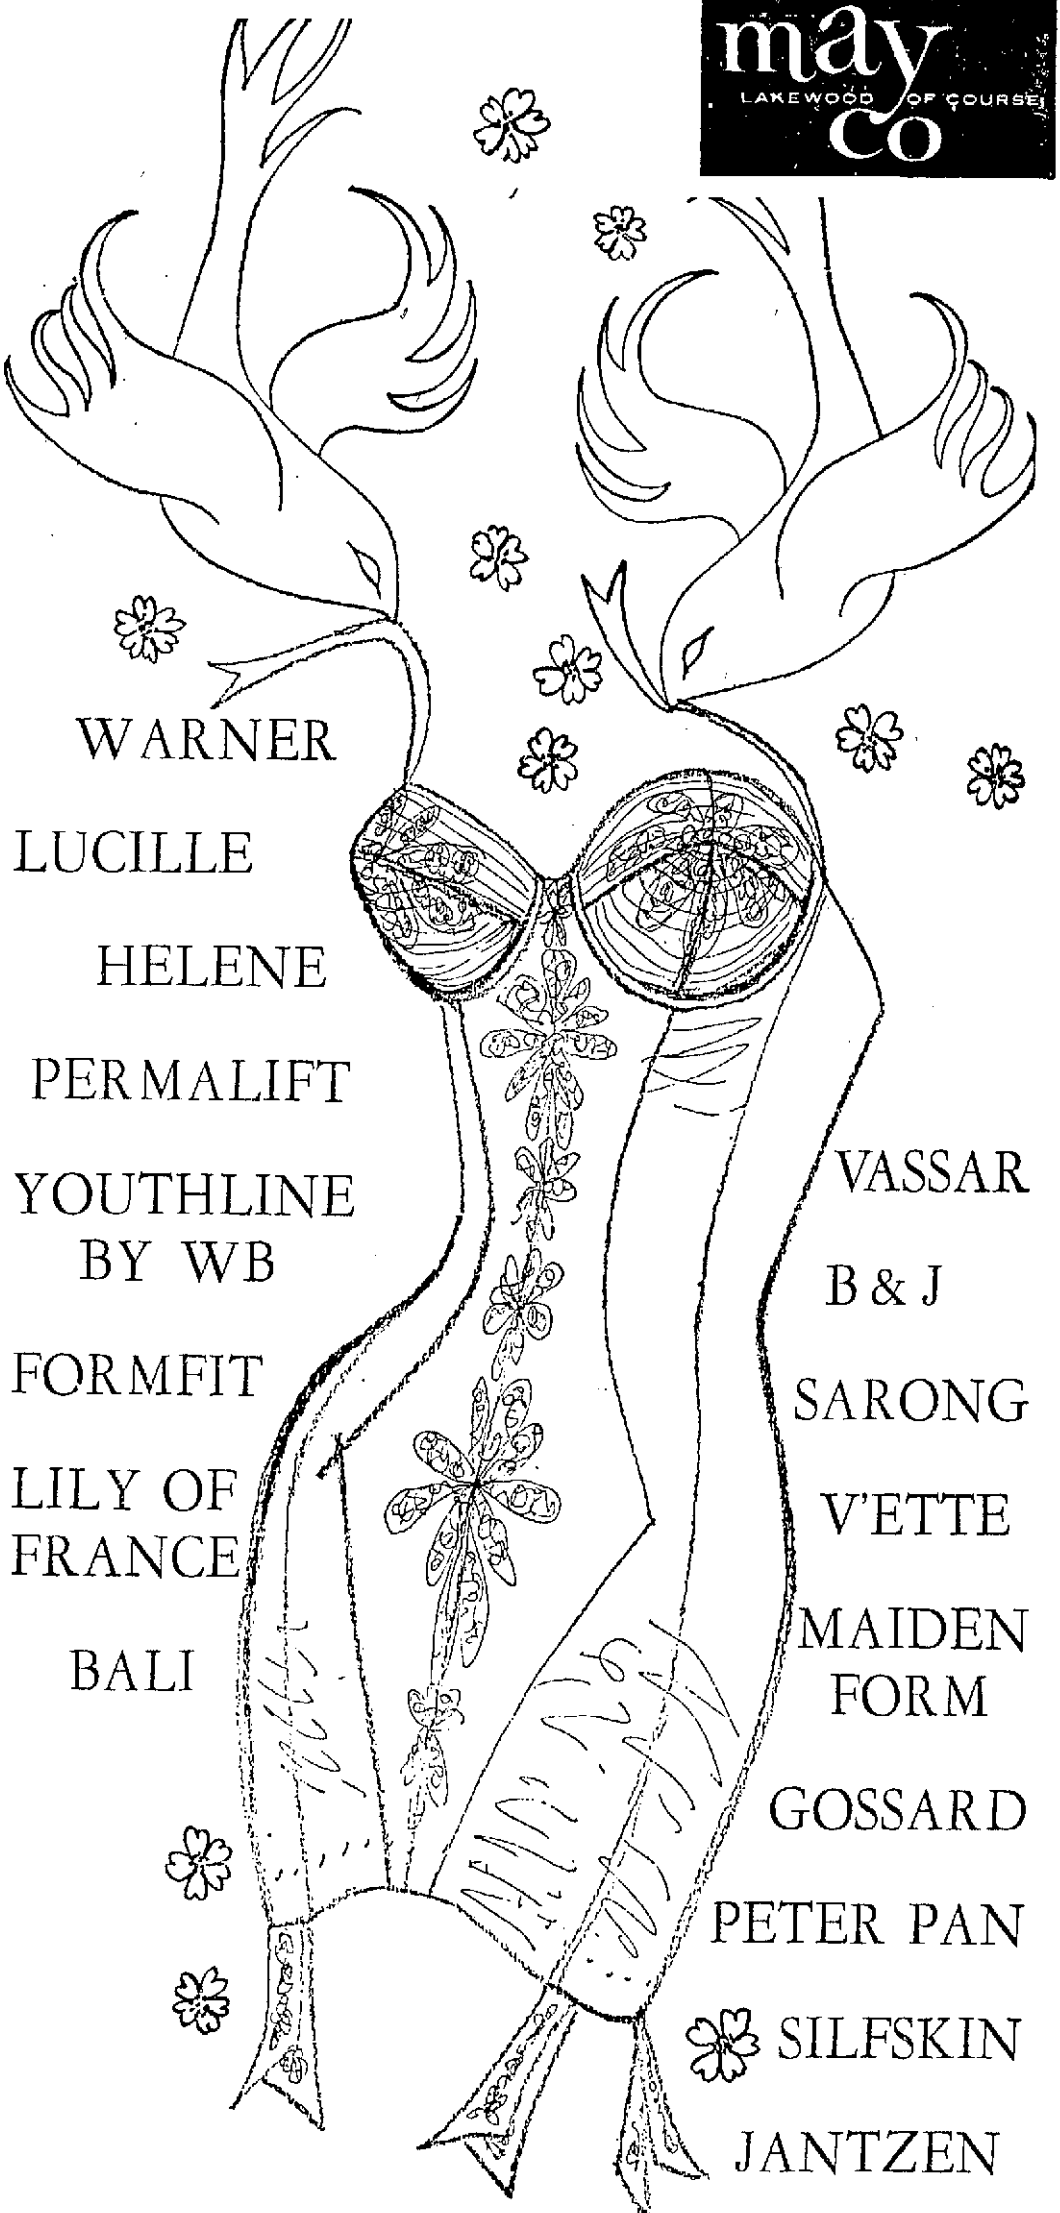

He dons makeup and is on-stage at 8:15, when he meets the contestants for the first time. They have been screened by Producer Guedel's staff, and Groucho is given a few notes about areas that might provide humor. But most of the laughter arises out of Groucho's poking and prodding of the contestants.

The filming is over by 9:30, and Groucho is free of his duties for another week.

"I still enjoy the show," he remarks. "It's always a challenge—a battle of wits, or half-wits, perhaps."

"This kind of schedule allows me to do the things I like to do, such as reading, listening to symphony music and watching some of the better shows on TV. At my age, I enjoy not doing the things I don't like to do, such as making movies and doing guest shots on TV. I'm inhibited by scripts. The only time I'm at my best is when I'm myself."

The continued high ratings for the show indicate that the public wants him to go on playing his favorite role—as Groucho Marx.

65 M.P.H. Maximum Speed to Be Strictly Enforced

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Starting next Friday, Jan. 1, it will be illegal to drive faster than 65 miles an hour on any California highway.

In some places the limit will be less.

The Highway Patrol says you'll be arrested if you're caught driving 66 miles per hour. The patrol also intends to enforce strictly the lower limits as posted.

"The law fixes the maximum legal speed at 65 miles per hour and that is exactly how the patrol will enforce it," says Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden.

THE 65-MILE top limit replaces the 55 m.p.h. "prima facie" law in effect since 1941. The old law said 55 was presumed legal on the open road, but that you could go faster if you could prove it safe.

It was hard to prove. The Highway Patrol didn't like the variable limit because it was indefinite and led to arguments.

After Jan. 1, if the patrolman can prove you're going faster than 65, you're guilty of speeding. No doubt about it.

California's first speed limit, passed in 1905, was one mile in three minutes — 20 m.p.h. It became 30 m.p.h. in 1913.

The prima facie limit came in 1923 at 35 m.p.h. It went to 40 in 1927, to 45 in 1935, and to 55 in 1941.

The "basic speed law," there since the beginning, remains in effect. It says you can't drive faster than is reasonable or prudent, and in no

Negro Singer Will Adopt Ashcan Baby

PARIS (UPI) — American Negro singer Josephine Baker started proceedings Saturday to adopt her 11th child—a baby boy found in an ashcan on a Paris backstreet just before Christmas.

The foundling, whom Miss Baker has decided to call Noel will live with her and her French husband, Jo Bouillon, at their southwestern France chateau.

HIS 10 BROTHERS and sisters-to-be range from 18 months to 7 years and come from such diverse nationalities as Korean, Venezuelan, Japanese, Colombian, Finnish, Israeli, Algerian Berber and Koffi (from the African Ivory Coast).

Her numerous adoptions have made Miss Baker almost as beloved in France as her singing, which started winning her millions of fans more than a quarter-of-a-century ago.

Actress Pleads Innocent Of 'Endangering' Daughter

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Sara Berner, best known for her portrayal of a telephone operator on comedian Jack Benny's shows, pleaded innocent Saturday to a charge of endangering the life of her 7-year-old daughter.

Miss Berner, 47, was arrested Christmas Day after she telephoned Van Nuys police and said her ex-husband was on the way to her home to kill her.

POLICE SAID when they arrived they had to handcuff her because she was acting irrationally.

The daughter, Eugenie, was taken to Juvenile Hall and later turned over to her father, Milton Rosner, 37.

Miss Berner entered her innocent plea before Municipal Judge William H. Rosenthal who set Jan. 25 for trial.

She was returned to jail when she was unable to put up $525 bail.

There are 123,000 miles more of county and city roads, where local authorities can set speed limits below 65.

The state is prepared to unveil 1,100 new speed-limit signs on Jan. 1, including 9x7-foot signs at all highway entrances to the state.

1958 Beauty Queen Tells Plan to Wed

DENVER (UPI) — Marilyn Van Derbur, 22, of Denver, Miss America of 1958, announced Saturday she will marry Gary Nady, 25, former Colorado University football star and head coach at Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa.

The handsome couple said they had not set a date for the wedding, but that they probably will marry in Denver next spring. She will graduate from Colorado University and Nady will receive a master's degree in political science next June.

Their romance began when Miss Van Derbur was a freshman on the Boulder campus in 1955. Nady had transferred to CU a year earlier from the U.S. Naval Academy. He was an end on the 1957 Colorado football team that won the Orange Bowl game Jan. 1, 1958.

Nady is on leave of absence from Parsons to complete work on his master's degree. He said he plans to continue coaching and teaching.

Jail Rioters Quelled After Burning Beds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police restored order at the Columbus workhouse shortly before 4 p.m. Saturday after prisoners had rioted for nearly an hour. One guard was injured seriously.

Several guards were held as hostages for a time. They were freed as police moved in.

The inmates burned mattresses in their cells, sending clouds of smoke pouring out of the workhouse windows. Firemen were called, and after dousing the mattresses with water, helped police in gaining control of the cellblocks.

Cause of the disturbance was not determined immediately.

Soraya Entertains New Beau —Industrialist of Krupp Empire

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (UPI) — Sultry ex-Empress Soraya of Iran, her ardor for Italian Prince Raimondo Orsini apparently cooled, Saturday rented a candle-lit lounge for a party and invited her new beau.

Only a day after Orsini canceled his plans to join her here for a skiing vacation, matchmakers at this Alpine resort were linking Soraya romantically with German industrialist Harald von Bohnen und Halback of the Krupp empire.

Friends said Von Bohnen, 42, had accepted an invitation to her party tonight at a fashionable inn. Orsini, 28, whose engagement to Soraya had been expected more than a week ago, flew alone to Beirut Friday night from Rome.

During a nightclub whirl in Rome, Orsini had wined, dined and kissed the 27-year-old Soraya, who lost her throne in Iran because she bore no male heir to the Shah.

The Shah, who married for the third time last Monday, pays her $8,300 a month as part of her divorce settlement.

Soraya, who is half-German and whose father is the Iranian ambassador to Bonn, began being seen with Von Bohnen, an old flame, on Tuesday—the day after the Shah remarried. They went on lengthy walks in the snow, to diner parties and to teas.

66,681 See Willie Win Five Races

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Willie Shoemaker played Santa Claus to his supporters Saturday in a record-breaking opening day crowd of 66,681 at Santa Anita by popping home with five winners—including the victors in both feature races.

The nation's 1959 riding champion whipped across two feature race goodies when he pushed Clandestine home first in the $22,000 Palos Verdes Handicap, then followed up with T. V. Lark in the $27,250 Breeders' Trial Stakes.

Long Beach-owned Warfare was scratched from the two-year-old Breeders' Stakes because of "high fever," but the race still was captured by a Long Beach horse, T. V. Lark is owned by C. R. McCoy, who lives in Long Beach and operates a breeding business at Paramount.

Clandestine returned $17.60, $6.60 and $4, while T. V. Lark supporters were rewarded with $10.60, $4 and $2.60—both stunning prices for Shoemaker mounts.

Willie the Shoe, who clinched his fifth U. S. jockey title last week, now has 339 winners this year. His other three triumphs Saturday were scored on New Policy ($5.40) in the third race, Promised Land ($3.20) in the fourth and Lonely ($8.40) in the finale.

"The quintuple" was Willie's second such trick at Santa Anita and only the eighth accomplished at the Arcadia track in its 25-year history.

T. V. Lark had raced in six non-winning events since the biggest victory of his career Aug. 1 when he snagged the $100,000-added Arlington Futurity. However, with the nation's top two-year-old, Warfare, in the barn, T. V. had a lark.

SHOEMAKER smuggled T. V. Lark behind Faye's Night Out and the favored Eagle Admiral for the first quarter-mile, saved ground in this position until he reached the stretch turn, then poured on the coal.

The winning march was three-fourths of a length ahead of Noble Nour, which was trailed by Fighting Hodge, Eagle Admiral and Faye's Night Out in the five-horse field.

Shoemaker's margin in the Palos Verdes also was three-fourths of a length and the victory pattern was the same as in the Breeders' Stakes. Willie nudged Clandestine, which never had won a stakes race before, behind Fleet Nasrullah, then when the stretch curve loomed he dug in his spurs.

FLEET NASRULLAH was a tiring second, while the favored Ole Fols was fifth in the seven-horse field, eight lengths in arrears. Four horses were scratched in this stakes—Seaneen, Sam's Shipahoy, Coup De Vent and Naik.

Trainer Hack Ross explained that Warfare was scratched because of a virus fever.

"I wanted to run him real bad," moaned Ross, "because he was fit and needed the race. But he came up with the same kind of flu that humans get and I felt I couldn't take the chance. It might have knocked him out for a long time. This way, we'll get him back to the races in the near future."

THE SURPRISING throng eclipsed the previous Santa Anita opening day record of 65,542, set on Dec. 26, 1949. It created a monumental traffic jam as cars were backed up more than a mile in every direction as late as the fifth race.

The infield mutual windows were jammed with lines 30 persons deep, while vendors hawked their wares.

Casanova Joins Cal Coach Derby

BERKELEY (UPI)—A new entrant was reported in the California coaching derby Saturday when an authoritative source said Oregon coach Len Casanova was under serious consideration.

Many names have been tossed about as possible successors, including Eddie Erdelatz, former Washington assistant Bert Clark, Cal line coach Dee Andros and now Casanova.

Owens Disappointed, Schedules Scrimmage

By DOUG IVES

Washington coach Jim Owens wasn't passing out bouquets Saturday after his Huskies "waltzed" through their longest practice session since coming to Long Beach—two hours and 15 minutes.

The Huskies apparently did too much "waltzing" and not enough football playing, because Owens voiced his disappointment over the sluggishness of his squad.

"I know we've had a

Badgers Ready—Bruhn

PASADENA—The University of Wisconsin staged its longest football drill since coming west for the Rose Bowl and Coach Milt Bruhn pronounced his first team "about ready" to meet Washington in the New Year's classic.

"You can call it a two-hour scrimmage," Bruhn said. However, the actual team scrimmage lasted only about 20 minutes, with the players spending the rest of the time on other variations of contact.

"I feel the first team is about ready for the game," Bruhn said after the workout at East Los Angeles College. "The second team is a little slower hitting its stride but we're hopeful it will when the time comes."

THE BADGERS staged two drills Saturday, but it will be the last such schedule for the Big Ten champions.

Bruhn said the team would go through one-a-day workouts starting Monday. Sunday, the team will hear lectures and watch movies of their Rose Bowl rivals after attending church.

The team continues free from injury. Halfback Billy Hubbs, earlier hampered by injury, ran well Saturday and co-captain Ed Zeman, who suffered a pinched nerve in his back, showed no ill-effects.

UCLA'S OGLESBY MAY MISS SHRINE GAME

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The West Shrine football team may have lost its second player in as many days.

Guard Paul Oglesby of UCLA suffered a wrist injury in a workout Saturday for the annual charity game Jan. 2 at Kezar Stadium.

Oglesby threw a block at a teammate and hurt his right wrist. He complained of severe pain and X-rays were taken. They showed no bones broken and doctors believed the injury was a severe bruise.

Fullback Ray Smith, also of UCLA, pulled a muscle in his right leg Friday and probably will not play. His fullback job was taken over by Jim Welch of Southern Methodist.

The East squad held an hour and 15 minute workout Saturday.

three-day layoff, but I hoped for more than I got," Owens lamented. "I was disappointed and I hope things are different in the scrimmage."

Veterans Stadium, Washington scheduled a scrimmage Wednesday, but rain forced its cancellation.

Owens hinted his Huskies had better do some head-knocking in the scrimmage or some heads will roll.

"We just haven't progressed like I thought we would; the scrimmage today is a real important one and I'm expecting a good performance by everyone," Owens added.

Owens was somewhat distressed that Wisconsin has got the jump on his Huskies. "They're ahead of us in practice and we'll have to get a move on to catch them now."

Washington tackled almost every phase of preparation needed for its clash with Wisconsin in Saturday's lengthy drill.

Most time was spent on offense, and Owens admitted "some new things" were added. The third-stringers ran Wisconsin plays against the Washington defense in a no-contact, 15-minute drill.

The extent of the contact work was a brief one-on-one drill which the Huskies perform at almost every practice.

Owens was happy at least on one account Saturday: that there were no injuries. "We've certainly been fortunate as far as injuries are concerned—we haven't had one yet."

Even though the workout wasn't satisfying, Owens reported no lineup changes. He indicated he would go with his regulars in today's scrimmage.

The Husky coach singled out all-conference guard Chuck Allen, tackle Bill Kinnune and end Lee Folkens as the best of the lot in the Saturday workout.

Owens said he wasn't sure how long the scrimmage would be, but indicated that it probably would not go over 15 minutes. The entire workout will last one hour and thirty minutes, according to Owens.

WON'T STAY DEAD

BIG 'MOST POPULAR' LEAD FOR POLY STAR

Willie Brown of Poly surged into a commanding lead Saturday in the "Most Popular Player" prep grid poll. Don Montgomery of Millikan moved into second place.

Saturday was the most productive voting day since the contest began five days ago. Only three more days remain in which to cast a ballot.

Votes should be sent to "Most Popular Player" editor, Independent, Press-Telegram. Letters, postcards or petitions are acceptable. No more than 25 names may accompany a petition.

Candidates are Brown and Montgomery; Elias Garcia, St. Anthony; Denis Richman, Wilson; Bob Jones, Lakewood and Tim Jackert, Jordan.

NFL PLAYOFF TODAY

Can Colts' Mighty Offense Subdue Stingy Giants?

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts and New York Giants come together today with the force of two express trains on the same track.

Rarely has a championship sports event matched such explosive ingredients as their return go for the kingpin of the National Football League. As teams, the Colts stalk on the stage as the most irresistible goal-line crosser of the 12-team league this season. The Giants shape up as the most immovable on defense.

Out of the abundance of individual stars, in the spotlight are quarterback Johnny Unitas of the Colts, elected the outstanding player of all during the recent campaign, and linebacker Sam Huff of the Giants, voted the best lineman.

ON TOP OF ALL that, there is the memory of last year's championship playoff between the same antagonists, which the Colts won in football's first overtime, 23-17.

Such prospective fireworks has sold out Baltimore Memorial Stadium's 57,557 seats, and will keep millions more with their eyes glued to television sets (KRCA, 4, 10:45 a.m.).

If the game has to go beyond the regular four 15-minute quarters because of a tie, the same sudden-death rules as last year's historic event will apply.

After a three-minute rest, they'll toss a coin for kicking off and start playing 15-minute quarters again. The first team to score will win.

THE GIANTS received the extra time kickoff last year and punted to the Colts, who drove 80 yards for the winning touchdown.

Gambling on today's 27th divisional playoff has hovered remarkably steady. The Colts, winner in the West with a 9-3 record, opened as four-point favorites over the Giants, conquerors of the East with a 10-2 performance. At last word, the Colts still were 3½ points favorites.

Aside from all the others in the game, the pinpoint of interest will be Unitas versus the Giants' defense. The rangy, stoop-shouldered quarterback is beyond question the focal point of which way the game may go.

Filchok to Coach Denver Pros

DENVER (AP)—Frank Filchok, former quarterback for the Washington Redskins and New York Giants of the National Football League, will coach Denver's entry in the new American Football League, president Bob Howsam announced Saturday.

Filchok, 43, has been coaching in Canadian professional football for the past several years, serving at Edmonton, Regina, Sarnia, Ont., and Calgary. He played at Hamilton and Montreal before taking up coaching. He was in the National League from 1938 to 1946. As an undergraduate, he was on the University of Indiana team.

Howsam also announced the signing of three players for the new Denver team. They are end Fred Hood, Northeast Oklahoma State; Bob Stransky, former University of Colorado back, and Bob Dougherty, formerly of the University of Kentucky.

Filchok was barred from NFL play after failing to report a bribe offer, but ultimately was reinstated.

Tough Life Prepared Gegner for Football

This is the year of the German football star in this country! On the East Coast is Syracuse's famed "Iron Cross" halfback, Gerhard Schwedes, while on the West Coast we have Washington's All-Coast lineman, Kurt Gegner.

Both Schwedes and Gegner were born in Europe during the strife-filled year of 1938. Strife seemed to be Gegner's middle name for the next 14 years, too, as the tale unfolded by Long Beach's Husky visitor will prove.

Gegner's parents owned a small flour mill in Yugoslavia and were content with life until the German army marched through that nation. That's when the Gegner family's troubles began. The Nazis took over the flour mill and promptly "drafted" Kurt's father into the army.

"Somehow or other, my family got mixed up on the wrong side of German politics," sighed Gegner from the comfortable confines of his present quarters in the Lafayette Hotel, "and it wasn't long before we were all thrown into a German concentration camp."

"I was too young to know much about what was going on then, but I remember we were always cold and very hungry."

After their Nazi troubles, the Gegner family took similar jumps from the Russians and life didn't begin to look beautiful for young Kurt until 1952, when he came to the United States.

"We were some of the very few fortunate people to come to America as displaced persons," commented Gegner, "because my parents had been born in America before returning to Europe in the '30s."

Gegner couldn't speak one word of English when he arrived in the U. S., but you couldn't prove it now. His command of the language would make Beans Reardon blush!

Kurt played football at a Seattle high school without any noticeable success. In 1956, he perked up and won a starting berth on the Washington frosh squad. He laid out a year, then gained 16 pounds to his present 205 and became a varsity starter at left tackle last season.

This year, in addition to All-Coast honors, Gegner was chosen by his Washington coaches as "Husky lineman-of-the-year."

Gegner never plays a bad game, a Husky coach commented to me a few days ago. "Our guard, Chuck Allen, may come up with an exceptional game—as he did against SC—but Gegner is the flower of consistency."

One more thing about Gegner: He almost didn't go out for football when he enrolled at the University of Washington!

"My mother didn't want me to play football," smiled Gegner. "She thought it was too rough!"

After goal line stands in concentration camps, I'm sure Gegner thinks football is as rough as a ladies' aid society meeting!

WASHINGTON'S biggest player, tackle Ben Davidson of Los Angeles, set an eating record last week that may never be broken. The 245-pounder stowed away eight (8) pounds of meat at one sitting when the Huskies visited a prime ribs' restaurant in Los Angeles.

"If the Huskies play like they eat, they'll kill Wisconsin," declared a restaurant spokesman.

The Washington gang consumed 207 pounds of beef at the restaurant, while the Badgers fell far short with a mere 156 pounds. (Hmmm, I wonder if that's what Coach Jim Owens was thinking about the next day when he spent two gruelling hours "working the Hollywood out of this team!")

HUSKY OFFICIALS received five bids for training sites in the Southland, before deciding upon Long Beach. They had offers from Santa Barbara and Santa Monica, while the Sheraton-West and the Ambassador Hotels in Los Angeles also wanted to quarter them.

Are they sorry with their selection?

"Are you kidding?" was the answer I received from one official. "This is great. Everything is A-1 from the training facilities at Long Beach City College and Veterans Stadium to our setup at the Lafayette Hotel."

"But nothing could have been greater than the Christmas party for the squad and their wives Friday night. This team will be talking about that party and those gifts for the next 100 years."

So will the Lafayette Hotel people who had to store the thousands of gifts until party time.

"I thought I was in the department store business for awhile," claimed manager John McKennon. "This hotel looked like one wing of the May Company!"

Vikings Rout Pierce, 94-61, in Barry Tourney Opener

By JIM HANCHETT

Long Beach City College rolled up its highest point total of the year Saturday night as it blasted Pierce Junior College, 94-61, in the first round of the Sam Barry Memorial basketball tournament at Glendale College.

Eleven Vikings broke into the scoring column as Coach Bob Hunt cleared the entire bench. The starting five played less than half the game.

The Norsemen made sure they wouldn't suffer the same letdown that cost them a 98-67 loss at Fresno last week.

as they ran away to a 12-2 lead in the first 2:10 of play. The Vikings used a fast break from the opening tip and they had a safe 20-point lead before they slowed down. With Casey Cox and Lyn Hodge controlling the rebounds, guard Bob Thomas and Jim Milhorn put Long Beach into a commanding 28-8 lead with 8:35 left in the half.

The Brahmas, paced by forward John Todd and guard Jeff Starr, rallied to narrow the count to 55-39 with 13 minutes left in the game, but subs Dave Herberston, Gary Regier, Dave King and Frank Gurzi each contributed a field goal to put Long Beach into a 69-39 lead with 11:17 left. Todd edged Thomas, 19 to 18, for high point honors.

Four other Vikings also scored in double figures. The tournament resumes Monday and Long Beach will play Cerritos, 60-57 victor over East Los Angeles, at as they had done in past games, Long Beach allowed San Fernando to control play by failing to penetrate the Matadors' zone defense. Stewart's shooting was the one bright spot on offense.

In the opener, the 49ers Frosh whipped the Matador Jayvees, 81-55, with Jack Bogdanovich scoring 22 points and Dick Montgomery 14.

The 49ers found little of the famed hospitality in this "S.F. Valley home" as the host Matadors were a much tougher foe than anticipated and the host officials were much sterner than desired.

Twenty-seven fouls were called against LBSC to 18 for SFVS.

Long Beach barely was able to cling to a slim lead throughout the final 10 minutes. The closest Matadors came was 56-53 with 1:40 left and 59-56 with 0:58 to play. Three good free throws by Dave Hubbard in the final moment helped the 49ers stay afloat.

HUBBARD connected on seven of eight from the charity line in tallying 13 points, second high to Ron Stewart's 16. Former Valley JC ace Jim Malkin paced San Fernando with 19.

The game actually was decided in Long Beach's favor when the 49ers broke open a tight first half with an 11-point spree that ended with the buzzer and was good for a 34-23 lead. The scoring came on a foul by Mike Woodward, a push shot from the key by Bill Florentine, a lay-in by Florentine after a neat pass from Ivan Schuler, two more fouls by Woodward and a full court drive by Randy Sandefur.

NORTHRIDGE — Long Beach State stretched its winning streak to eight with a 61-56 squeak over San Fernando Valley State at the Matadors' zone defense. Stewart's shooting was the one bright spot on offense.

In the opener, the 49ers Frosh whipped the Matador Jayvees, 81-55, with Jack Bogdanovich scoring 22 points and Dick Montgomery 14.

Richardson Selected L.B. 'Golfer of Year'

By JERRY WYNN

John Richardson of Lakewood, a petroleum engineer, former Canadian scaled it with ice hockey in his sinews pressively. His victims—Hick and golf in his blood, is Long man, Mickey Bemis, Bob Beach amateur "golfer of year" for 1959.

So outstanding was the record of the 38-year-old Long Beach City champion who blazed a 54-hole path of 18 birdies and two eagles. One round was a course-record smashing nine-under 63 at Skylinks, a record (though unofficial) which could well stand the test of time.

Richardson had one other sensational sub-par spree. While sparking Lakewood to the Southern California Public Links team championship, he blazed a 54-hole path of 18 birdies and two eagles. One round was a course-record smashing nine-under 63 at Skylinks, a record (though unofficial) which could well stand the test of time.

Neil White of Virginia Country Club also was singled out for an exceptionally fine year. Last year's honoree Ruth Miller, Johnny Lucas and Dick Clover of Recreation Park and Tom Hickman of Meadowlark were others commended.

JOHN CLOCK of Virginia, who becomes president of the United States Golf Association in 1960, was named to receive a special award for "meritorious service to golf."

Awards to Richardson and Clock will be made at the Long Beach Sports Night banquet at the Lafayette Hotel, Jan. 21.

Richardson began 1959 in championship fashion by shooting a 72 in the first round of the Los Angeles Open and seldom fell from the heights thereafter.

JOHN CLOCK
Award to USGA Prexy

golf coach when he attended the University of Southern California from 1938-42.

JOHN CAME to SC from his Calgary, Canada, home on a hockey scholarship. It proved a wise move on the part of the Trojans for he helped lead them to an NCAA Championship in 1940.

After World War II service as a lieutenant in the Canadian Navy on convoy duty in the submarine-infested waters of the North Atlantic, he returned to SC to study for a Masters Degree in petroleum engineering. He paid his way by playing pro hockey as a star right wing for the Los Angeles team of the Coast League.

Richardson's golf had taken a back seat to his hockey career and his game did not develop as it might have. A champion as a junior, the combination of infrequent play and poor chipping and putting nullified an outstanding natural golf swing.

"THAT RICHARDSON has the finest swing around," said the pros. "It's a shame he doesn't score better."

However, there was little the matter with his play when he reached the semi-finals of the 1952 State Amateur (he was "murdered" by eventual champion Gene Littler) and his presence was felt in most Long Beach area events.

Major improvement took place last year when he won both Lakewood and Palos Verdes club titles. This year he arrived.

"I've learned more about golf in the last two years than in the 15 before," explains Richardson.

"Most important thing was changing my grip. I've squared my hands on the club and it prevents my right hand from rolling over and causing a hook. It's given me confidence and helped my swing stand up much better under tournament pressure."

"Of course my short game has improved immeasurably, but I think the main reason I'm playing better now is just plain better thinking. I know more about golf now, and am trying to use what I know."

RICHARDSON'S hero among the pros is Sam Snead, who "hits the ball better than anyone else."

As for his own future, John hopes to play more in 1960 than before. On the calendar already is L.A. Open qualifying Jan. 4, and the L.B. Masters Championship early in March. His long-range ambition is to win the State Amateur and play in the U.S. Amateur.

Just now reaching his peak and with a future of considerable promise is John Richardson, Long Beach "golfer of year" for 1959.

Wisconsin Squad Holds No Grudge

Being the only Big Ten team to lose a Rose Bowl game to the West (to SC by a 7-0 score in 1953) since the current series was instituted in '47, does Wisconsin feel it has a score to settle?

The question was asked of Milt Bruhn, the Badgers' good-natured coach.

"That issue actually is pretty dead. This squad doesn't need any motivation or grudge factor. We want to win for ourselves . . . not because of somebody else's failure several years ago."

Bruhn was Ivy Williamson's line coach in the '53 game, and Milt was queried as to what happened.

MILT BRUHN
'Rose Bowl Great'

"Take a look at the line-ups of that game and they explain it as well as anything," he points out. "I bet eight to 10 of the Trojans went right into pro football. Only a couple of our boys made it, and I think just one, is still playing."

"We had a good offensive team with Jim Haluska and Alan Ameche, but SC was better both ways. The Trojans had a great defensive club that year."

Since this is Bruhn's second trip to the Rose Bowl representing a school that has voted against the post-season classic, Milt was asked his opinion of the game.

"I think the Rose Bowl is great," he declares. "I hope they continue it." He feels that a Wisconsin victory next Friday might make a difference in the school's feeling on the bowl question.

BRUHN FRANKLY admits this was a "must" year at Wisconsin. "We finished second with a 4-1-1 record to Iowa's 5-1 last season and we had the seniors (17) this time. We knew we had to win the title this year or wait awhile before getting another good crack at it," he explains. Wisconsin lost games to Purdue and Illinois and had to survive some bad scares to win its first outright conference championship since 1912. (The Badgers were co-champs when they played the Trojans in '53).

Thus, it was only natural to ask Bruhn that if he had to play the season over, would he do anything different?

"Yes," Milt says. "I'd certainly use more players. The boys were tired, real tired in the Illinois and Michigan games. I was pressing them too hard."

"I could have given them some rest elsewhere along the line. But you know coaches. We had the seniors and we weren't worried about doing a building job. We salvaged the title despite two losses because we had the advantage of having a veteran team that made few mistakes. We didn't play many sophomores like some of the other clubs."

"We ought to be in great shape for Washington, though. The boys are rested now."

WHAT GAME TOOK the most out of the seniors? The 21-0 loss to Purdue?

"No," Bruhn says. "That came early—in the conference opener. There was no real explanation for that one. Purdue got a two-touchdown jump on us and then never let us up for air."

"Actually, I think Michigan did the most two wear us down. We hit our peak in beating Iowa and Ohio State. Then came Michigan, and it was ferocious."

"Oh, we won all right, 19-10. But the Wolverines finally threw that third unit called the Raiders at us and they beat us up real bad physically. We felt the effects from that one the final three weeks of the season."

Was Illinois, which beat Wisconsin and Northwestern on the last two Saturday, really that good?

"Illinois is very good. It will be a big factor in the Big Ten race next year," Bruhn says. "It developed fast as the season progressed."

ILLINOIS NIPPED Wisconsin, 9-6, by scoring on the final play of the game. Asked how Illinois managed to mount the winning TD drive with a ground attack which ran right over the touted Dan Lanphear and the rest of the tough Badger defensive line, Bruhn explained, "again we were tired. I've played that game over 100 times and I should have substituted more. But then, with so much at stake, we felt we should stay with the seniors."

Bruhn refuses to rap the officials for stopping the clock twice to quiet the hometown crowd during Illinois' scoring drive.

"It's true they gained about 10 seconds which enabled them to get off the play that produced the winning score as the gun went off . . . but you can't criticize the officials' judgment," Milt declares.

"Ray Eliot was so stunned after that one he couldn't even talk for several minutes. Later he came up to me and said he'd beat Northwestern the following week and save the title for us. And he did, so everything turned out OK after all!"

Cadets Pace North Win

MIAMI (UPI)—Army's "lonely end" passing combination of Joe Caldwell and Bill Carpenter picked up a couple of valuable aides in Iowa's Curt Merz and Don Horn Saturday night in leading the North All-Stars to a 27-17 victory over the South.

A fumbled punt, a blocked kick and a pass interception gave the North the breaks it needed.

A crowd of 35,181 in the Orange Bowl watched Caldwell pass 27 yards to Carpenter for the first touchdown and then set up the next two scores with passes to Merz and Carpenter. Stumpy Horn bucked over for North touchdowns from the three and four and Penn State's Pat Botula went over for the last score from the Caldwell, who completed 12 of 18 passes for 167 yards, was voted the most valuable player on the North team. End Dan Edgington of Florida, who caught six passes, was selected the South's outstanding player. Army's Bob Anderson won a trophy as the outstanding sportsman.

The South trailed at halftime, 14-3, as the result of a 23-yard field goal by Gordon Speer of Rice. The South cut its deficit to 21-10 in the third period on a 49-yard march, Jack Cummings of North Carolina passing seven yards to Dan Edgington for the TD.

With 45 seconds to play, Fran Curci of Miami passed 20 yards to Speer, who ran the final 29 yards untouched to wind it up.

An inspired band of Western State College All-Stars outfought the professional Anaheim Rhinos, 10-0, to capture the first Century Club-sponsored spectacle before a small crowd Saturday afternoon at Veterans Stadium.

Dave Fenton kicked a 22-yard field goal as the first half gun sounded for what proved to be the difference, although Max Fields, the nation's third leading small college rusher in 1957, added an insurance touchdown after a blocked punt gave the Stars possession on the Rhinos four in the fourth quarter. Fields was the leading ground-gainer with 40 yards in 14 carries.

The first half, aside from Fenton's field goal, was strictly a defensive struggle. Both teams faced punting situations four times. The All-Stars gained only 59 net yards in the first two quarters, and the Rhinos but 71.

A pass interception set the stage for Fenton's last-second field goal. Halfback Darrell Roberts picked off a pass from quarterback Dick Larson on his own nine and returned it 76 yards to the Rhinos' 15.

AS EXPECTED, Larson and Gary Campbell, Whittier College's little all-America quarterback and the nation's small college passing king, staged a personal duel, throwing a total of 55 times between them. Larson connected on 13 of 33 for 112 yards, while Campbell could do no better than 8-22 for 93 yards. Prior to the game, Campbell had hit on over 60 per cent of his pass attempts.

Campbell, who had also rushed for over 650 yards, was held to a minus four yards rushing on 12 carries.

The Rhinos, averaging over 41 points per game before Saturday, could penetrate the Star's 20-yard line only twice—both times in the second quarter. An intercepted pass on the Stars' 19 set up the first "drive" which ended when Chuck Longo's field goal attempt was wide.

Underdog Blues Roll Roughshod Over Grays, 20-8

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The Blue, led by a field general named Lee, stung the Gray with passes and deceptive runs Saturday to win the 22nd annual Blue-Gray football game, 20-8, before 22,000 fans. It was the ninth win in 21 years for the underdog Blues.

Quarterback Jack Lee of Cincinnati gave the underdog Blue squad an air advantage and another Yankee quarterback, Ross Fichtner of Purdue, engineered the running game with slick handoffs and fakery.

Iowa State's Dwight Nichols, another passing star, threw a 16-yard scoring pass. Maryland fullback Jim Joyce—a standout runner all afternoon—cracked three yards for another touchdown and half-back Leonard Wilson of Purdue piled over for the third on a three-yard burst.

The favored Grays averted a shutout late in the third

The Blues took the second-half kickoff 53 yards in a dazzling eight-play series to their third touchdown. Fichtner started the march with a 21-yard pass to Wilson and Joyce, who did most of his ground gaining over guard, moved it to scoring position inside the 10. Wilson carried it over.

The first Blue score came on an 11-play drive that went 85 yards—the caper being Nichols' floating 16-yard pass to Northwestern end Doug Asad.

Moments later, the Blues took a punt on their 22 and Lee directed a 78-yard drive that took 12 plays. The key play was a 21-yard Lee pass completion for a first down on the Gray 24.

Joyce then barreled to the nine and two plays later rammed across from three yards out.

The South's strike by White went to all-Southeastern halfback Moore down the middle. Moore slashed over, dragging blue-clad tacklers with him. Texas A&M quarterback Charlie Miltstead faked a placement and threw to Moore for the two-pointer.

Fichtner was named the outstanding player.

Tough, Conservative Bowl Games in Prospect

(Compiled from UPI and AP)

Strong defenses and special incentives indicate hard, conservative football for this weekend's major bowl games. Stadium and armchair fans who like high-scoring duels have the best chance of getting their wish at the East-West Shrine game.

National champion Syracuse collides with fourth-ranked Texas in a showdown test of its vaunted defense in the Cotton Bowl. Despite the fact the Orangemen lead the major schools in scoring average (39 points per game), to tal offense (451.5 yards) and rushing offense (316.6), it was the toughness of the defense which carried Syracuse to its first unbeaten record.

SYRACUSE'S pacesetter figures in total defense (96.2) and rushing defense (19.3) proved second lowest in modern times.

The powerful line led by all-America Roger Davis at guard and Fred Mautino at end faces exceptional speed in the Longhorn lineup.

Incentive? Syracuse has lost its three previous bowl appearances and would like to atone for its 61-6 lacing by Alabama in 1953, particularly. From its unbalanced line, wing-T attack, Syracuse combines great power and deception.

The Longhorns have a 5-2-1 mark in past post-season encounters.

Though the well-balanced attack features passing by halfbacks Rene Ramirez, Jack Collins, Bobby Gurwitz and Bart Shirley as well as the quarterbacks, Texas is good at playing a strategic, close to the vest game. Twenty-one of its 30 touchdowns have come on runs.

Defense is the keynote of recent Mississippi-Louisiana State meetings and the Sugar Bowl rematch of LSU's 7-3 midseason verdict figures to be no exception.

The Tigers won that one on all-America Billy Cannon's

89-yard punt return. Cannon then helped his mates smother an Ole Miss ball carrier a yard from the goal line at the final gun.

Coach Johnny Vaught's Rebels, powered by all-America fullback Charley Flowers, have a clear edge offensively.

On defense, however, LSU is second in total defense nationally, second in rushing defense and third in pass defense. Mississippi is third, third and fourth, respectively.

Unless Missouri plays an inspired game, Georgia may have the best chance for a runaway in the Orange Bowl.

Georgia's strength lies in balance and a hard-nosed line. Quarterbacks Francis Tarkenton and Charlie Britt are outstanding. Georgia has a 3-1-1 bowl record, Missouri is 0-5.

Gator Bowl foes Georgia Tech and Arkansas play conservative, low-scoring ball. Georgia Tech has the bigger line. Tech's bowl record of 10-2 is best anywhere.

The West leads the East in the Shrine game 16-14-4, but the East is a slight favorite.

Duffy Daugherty calls his Easterners "as fine a squad of college players as you'll see anywhere."

THE EAST has power with fullbacks Bob White of Ohio State and Bob Jarus of Purdue, breakaway speed from Northwestern's Ron Burton and Iowa's Bob Jeter and fine quarterbacks in Michigan State's Dean Look, George Izo of Notre Dame and Pitt's Ivan Tonic.

The West clearly favors passing. Don Meredith of SMU and Jim Walden of Wyoming will do the throwing, and Chris Burford and Ben Robinson of Stanford, Gail Cogdill of WSU and SMU's Hank Christopher are the catchers.

Halfback Dick Bass of COP and Jack Spikes of TCU are "keep-em-honest" runners.

Dodgers Receive Four 'Men of Year' Awards

Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi and Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers Saturday were named to receive "Men of the Year" awards by the Sporting News, national baseball weekly.

Four of the seven awards, two in the majors and two in the minors went to men in the Dodger organization.

Bavasi was named major league executive of the year and Alston manager of the year.

The minor league's manager of the year award went to Pete Reiser of the Dodgers' farm club at Victoria in the Texas League, and Frank Howard, the Dodgers' slugging star, was chosen the minors' player of the year. Howard played for Victoria and Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

Early Wynn, veteran Chicago White Sox righthander, was picked major league player of the year.

At the executive level in the minors, the choices of the Sporting News for its awards were E. W. (Eddie) Leishman, general manager of Salt Lake City in the Pacific Coast League, and Clay Dennis, general manager of Des Moines in the Three I League, for the lower-classification league.

The manager-of-the-year award was the second for Alston, who also was cited by the Sporting News in 1955.

In seven years with the Dodgers, Alston has guided them to three flags and two world championships. In 14 years of managing major and minor league clubs, he has won six pennants, finished second four times, third four times and out of the money just once.

Honor Parsons at Saugus Today

Wild Bill Cheeshour, Indianapolis veteran from Tucson, and Johnny Baldwin, the bay area speedster who won a recent feature at Gardena, are among the favorites for "Johnnie Parsons Day" at the 100-lap USAC midget auto race this afternoon at Saugus Stadium.

More than 40 drivers will be on hand to honor Parsons, the 1950 Indianapolis winner who is retiring after the eight-event card at the paved San Fernando Valley oval. This final race of the season will decide the new Pacific Coast midget champion.

Heading the list of entries for a chance at J. C. Agajanian's purse of $2,000 against 40% of the gate are such Indianapolis drivers as Rodger Ward, 1959 "500" winner; Earl Motter, Ray Crawford, Johnny Boyd, Duane Carter, Danny Oakes, Cal Niday, Dempsey Wilson, Jimmy Davies, Bill Homeier, Shorty Templeman, Johnnie Tolan and Parsons.

A win would move Cheeshour up into the top 20 in the final Pacific Coast standings. Included in today's 40 entries are 18 of these 20, including the four contenders for the crown won last year by Bullet Joe Garson. They are Motter, Billy Cantrell, Oakes and Davies. The missing pair are the late George Amick, who is third, and Tony Bettenhausen, who is 20th.

Also going are four "500" rookies, Jim Hurtubise, Johnny Moorhouse, Ed Jackson and Wayne Weiler, as well as Anaheim's Chuck Hulse in Ernie Alvarado's midget roadster from Glendale.

Qualifying begins at 1 p.m. and the first event starts at 2:30.

ROCKET GAME POSTPONED: WET GROUNDS

The Long Beach Rockets' scheduled Winter League game against the Westwood Merchants has been postponed until next Sunday because of wet grounds.

It will be the Rockets' final game of the league season. Despite a 4-5 record, Manager Jack Graham's club has a chance to finish second in the home division and thus earn a spot in the post-season playoffs.

The Dodger Juniors lead with eight wins and one loss, followed by Pasadena, Ontario and Huntington Park, each with 4-4 records.

Unitas, Huff Duel in NFL Title Go

without a touchdown pass in 37 straight regular season games, and his 32 heaves over the goal during the past season were a new NFL high.

The Giants, of course, stick confidently with their own veteran quarterback, Charley Conerly, who after 12 years finally earned top distinction this season on the basis of average yards gained per pass.

But the Giants aren't as dependent upon passing for scoring as the Colts. The New Yorkers scored 13 of their 31 touchdowns by passing while the Colts tallied 33 on aeri-als alone.

The Giants' running attack centers around Frank Gifford, Alex Webster and Mel Triplett. Gifford is a triple-threat in the sense that he also throws and catches passes.

Baltimore's answer to Gifford is halfback Lenny Moore, a long-range gamebuster on his running—either after a pass or straight handoff from Unitas. Moore also throws an occasional pass.

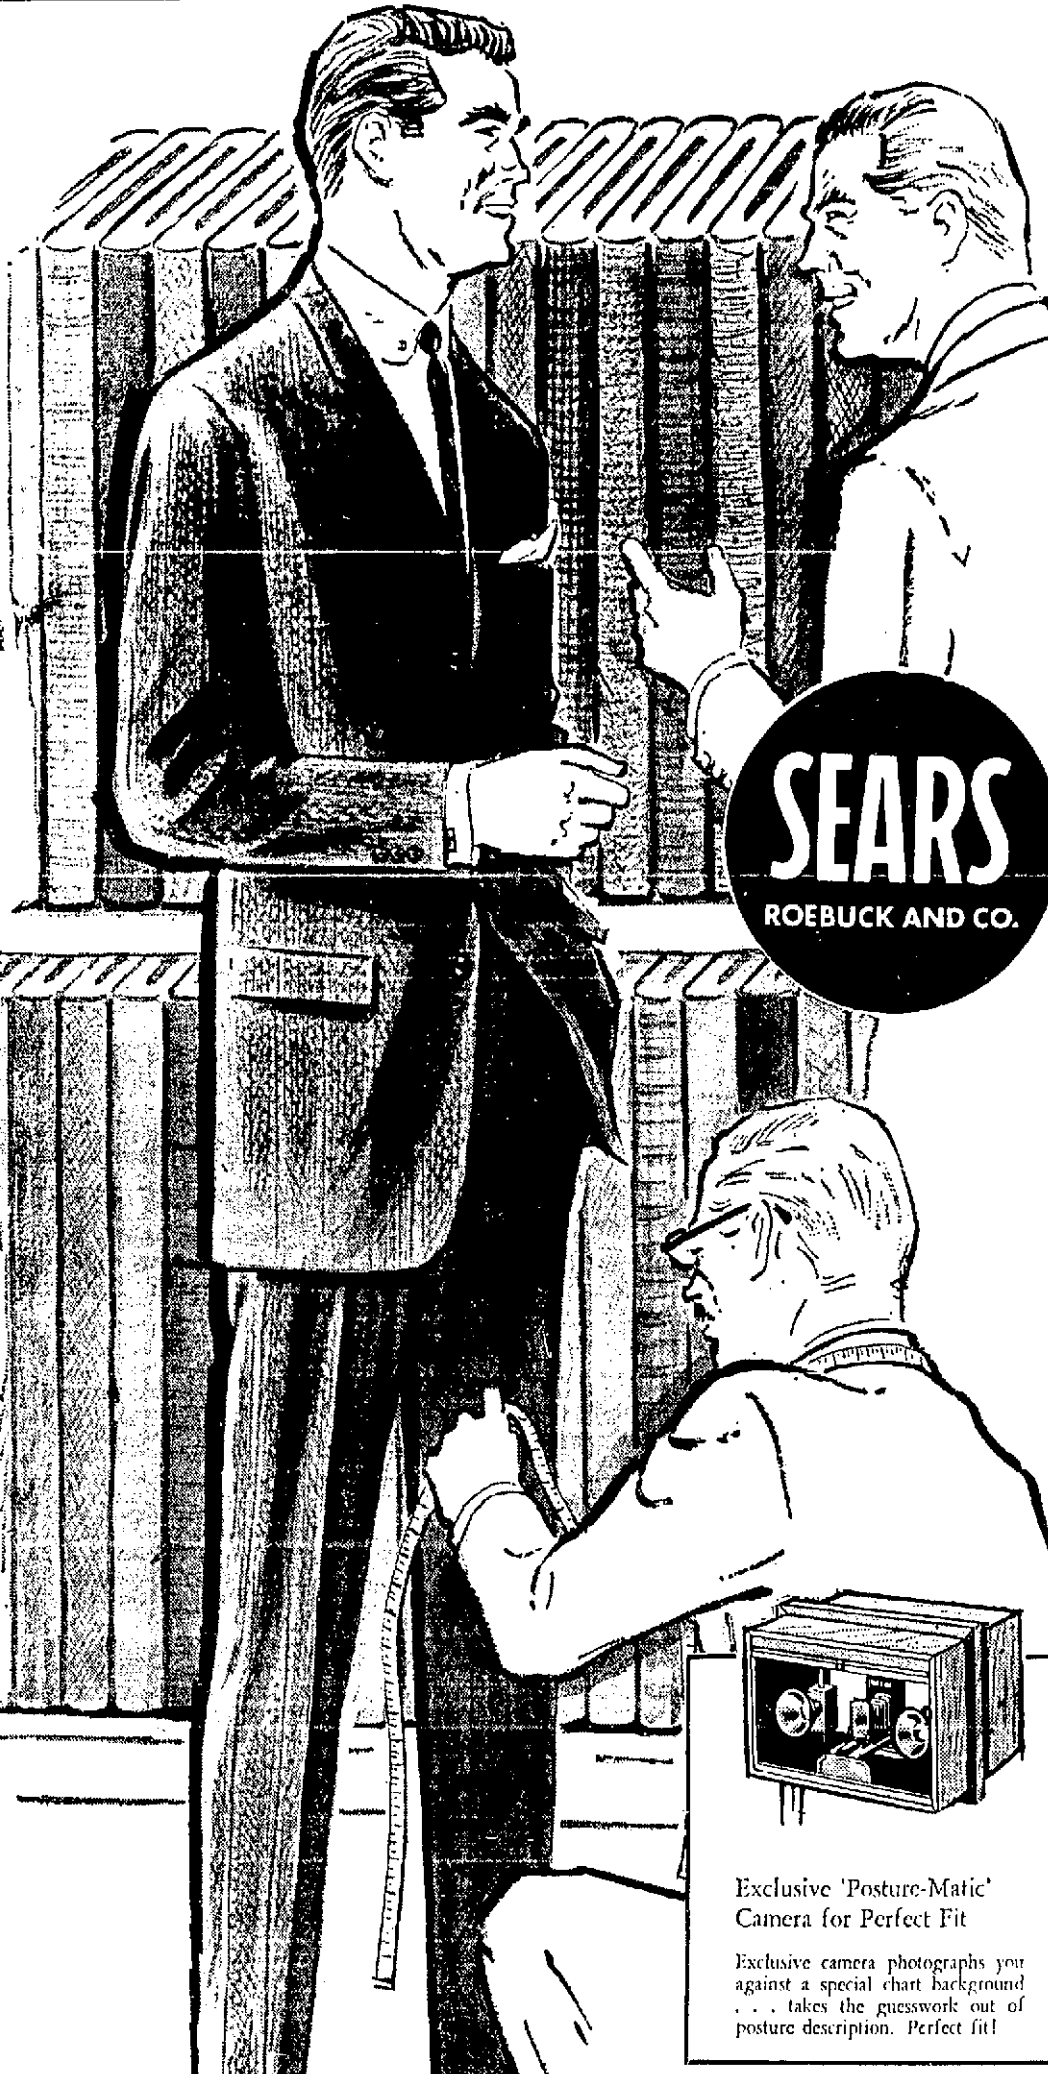

Conerly's favorite target besides Gifford is end Bob Schnelker.

Nixon Calls for Increased Education for Negroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon Saturday called for added efforts to give Negro workers the education and training they will need in the coming decade.

"Today's pessimistic estimates with respect to the availability of trained Negro workers during the next decade can be reduced through education and training," Nixon said, adding: "These estimates constitute a challenge to the nation's educators, vocational guidance counselors and employers, as well as to Negro students and parents."

NIXON MADE his comment as chairman of the President's Committee on Government Contracts, which submitted its sixth annual report to President Eisenhower.

The report, released by the White House, predicted a substantial increase in the non-white labor force if present trends continue and said: "This increase will be concentrated in the younger and older Negro worker groups, both male and female."

"Employers who will be looking for male, white, and under age 45 workers will be in trouble in the next decade. These sought-for types of workers simply will not be available in the numbers required."

Eisenhower established the committee in 1953 to monitor the standard clause in government contracts forbidding discrimination in employment on government projects on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin.

The committee reported that from July 1, 1958 to Sept. 30, 1959, it received 244 complaints alleging discrimination by government contractors. Negroes were involved in about eight out of every ten of these.

The committee said it intends to concentrate on integration of Negroes into the white-collar-job category, where it said the greatest increases in employment are expected in the coming decade.

IN STRESSING the importance of education, the committee quoted recent Census Bureau figures indicating that 80 per cent of white children ages 14-17 are attending high school while 65 per cent of Negro children in the same age group are enrolled.

Nixon said added efforts must be made to help Negro parents keep their children in school.

"But," he added, "theirs is not the only responsibility. In the interests of the national economy as well as Negro workers, it is up to our educators, vocational guidance counselors and employers to see that the Negro youth has the opportunity for the kind of training that will prepare him for the types of jobs which we know will call for the greatest numbers of workers during the next ten years."

New Year to Expand Local Yachting Horizons

LONG BEACH POWER SQUADRON, representative of kindred groups for local boating enthusiasts, applauds city's development of largest municipally owned marina in the world. With its completion in 1960, Long Beach will emerge as one of most important yachting centers on West Coast—with more need than ever for small boat handling education, prime purpose of United States Power Squadrons. Long Beach squadron members, from left, William Hardcastle (on whose cruiser, "Happy Hours," this striking picture was taken), Squadron Commodore Leroy Everett, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Stan

Bean, are among those who aid in conducting group's highly rated safe boat handling classes, given free to the public. Ownership of a boat is not a requirement to take course—but love of the sea and, more important still, respect for it, is! Next elementary piloting classes begin Feb. 8 at Jefferson Jr. High; Feb. 10, Hamilton Jr. High; Feb. 11, Millikan High. Anyone wishing to enroll in 12-week course may sign up in school's cafeterias on these dates at 7:30 p.m. Biggest single event for local squadron in 1960 will be hosting annual district USPS conference March 19.—(Staff photo by Roger Coar.)

'TO A JOYOUS NEW YEAR!'

Not quite certain what all fuss is about, 18-month-old Edward Lenahan contemplates joyous toast proposed to his portrayal of "Little Mister 1960" by Ebells Juniors (from left) Mmes. Burt K. Marter, Neil Buchanan, John W. McCutcheon and Vernon

Lewis. Little Edward is sure to be snoozing soundly in his crib Thursday evening as his toast proposers and their escorts greet real, true New Year with a gala New Year's Eve Breakfast Ball in Lakewood Country Club.—(Staff photo.)

Festive Breakfast for Ebells Juniors

Inspired by the overwhelming success of similar undertakings the past two years, Ebells Juniors are deep in plans for their third annual New Year's Eve Breakfast Ball.

A silver, red and gold theme will be carried out Thursday night at Lakewood Country Club as merry-makers arrived to dance, to welcome 1960 joyously and then sit down to early morning buffet breakfast.

Each table will be centered by a large silver wine bottle with clusters of glittering red and gold grapes entwined around the base. Silver magnolia leaves will form bases for the centerpieces.

Dancing will be enjoyed throughout the evening to the music of George Laughlin's orchestra. A high light will be awarding of a blue fox shrug to a fortunate guest.

LARGE AND smaller scale pre-dance parties will attract guests of members playing host that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. McCutcheon will entertain in their home, 6500 Bacarro St., for Messrs. and Mmes.

Harry Stafford, Bill Seils, Loren Welty, Glenn Giffen and Howard Mewes. Mrs. McCutcheon, Ebells Junior president, will be wearing a blue and lavender print silk chiffon dress with jeweled straps.

Another happy gathering will take place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gardner. Mrs. Gardner will greet her guests while wearing a white crepe Grecian-style gown. They include the provisional group, and Messrs. and Mmes. Leonard Brock, John Snider and Doug Watland.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lockett, 6441 El Jardin St., will stage a pre-dance party in their home for Messrs. and Mmes. Burt Marter, N. V. Oddo, Michael Murphy, W. Bruce Murray, J. L. Hayden, E. R. Kirkpatrick, John Dixon and Carl Moller. Mrs. Lockett has selected as party attire, a silver brocade ensemble by Vyrah.

ANELECTRIC Santa Claus and reindeer will welcome guests to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gezelius, 1119 E. 45th Way. Bidden are Messrs.

Mrs. Les Worden will wear black chiffon when she and her husband give a cocktail party in their home, 590 E. 67th St., for Messrs. and Mmes. Phil McGonnell, Norman Bawen, Lee Meenzhuber, Jim Ritchie and Ray Green.

THE GAILY decorated home of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Sewak, 824 Terraine Ave., will be setting when they entertain a large group of friends prior to the dance. Co-hostess will be Mrs. James C. Hateley Jr. Mrs. Sewak will wear a black pure silk gown with light gray overskirt.

Mrs. John B. Dixon will wear a gown of cerise velvet when she and her husband

BACK TO normal and smooth skating again for awhile, I hope, I hope, I hope! However, for Delta Gamma alums and colleagues, one of the big parties is yet to come. They'll gather for traditional post-Christmas brunch at Virginia Country Club Tuesday ayem, 10:30-ish.

Sally (Mrs. Robert) Goddard is chairwoman of the committee composed of Louise Reed, Marilyn Lelico, Ruth Wood and Margaret Stone. Hmmm. Stone, Reed and Wood. If we weren't so tired from the holidays we'd work out a gag on that combination.

Actives to be welcomed by used-to-bes will include: From Cal, Linda Luper, Rae Demler and Margaret Montero; from U. of Colorado, Margaret Gould and Judy Ritner; from UC, Santa Barbara Marie De Bronac; from USC, Sue Moore; from Arizona, Sue Perry, from LBSC, almost the entire chapter, headed by Patti Lees, president.

Incidentally, there are two mother-daughter combinations in town and present with their daughters to prove it will be Midge Luper and Marian Ritner.

ALL Les Nason wanted for Christmas he got. You might say he un-got 'em because what Les wanted most was to have his stitches removed following some not-so-serious repair surgery on an old appendectomy scar. He sweet-talked the hospital into letting him go home Monday. Wife, Fran, on vacation for a couple of weeks, says he can't drive for awhile and is completely dependent on her to get him where he's going. "Can you think of anything that would spur him on more for a speedy recovery?" she asks. Frankly, no.

THIS IS collegiate time—even better than summer because everything is condensed into two weeks of intense merriment. Dan Dunlap, home from his freshman year at Arizona, had open house. Monday with his parents, Dorothy and Dan Sr., assisting. Real fun feature of the evening was the fact that four collegians present attended Dan's first birthday party. They are Jan Van de Water, Bill Barbee, Sue Kesler and Cynthia Combs.

A few others of the jolly mob were Pete Drake, Janie Fakes, Jodie Davis, Mary Anne Steele, John and George Trammell, Charlie Ulrich, John Barbee, Susan Parks, Mary Nell Taylor, Charlene Voorhees, John Burrell, John Avery and Mike Driscoll. Several of the parents assisted.

ADD TO home-for-the-holidays parties for collegians, the one Sharon Hunt, UC Berkeley, has for a crowd of old friends from Wilson High days. Egg nogs, fun and laughter plus a whole lot of catching up on personal history since last seen for such returnees as John Keippe, Jennifer Adams, Jim Burchfield, Katie Davidson (all home from Stanford), Jeff Lake (U of Oregon), Mollie Brooks (Colorado), Caroline Price, Penny Bryant, Sally Springer (all UCLA), Susan Welch (Scripps), Jennifer Losch (Mills), Duncan McIntosh (LB State), Seibert Pearson and Margie Matlock (both from Oxy), Sandra Dickey and Barbara Nishkian (both USC), and Charles Durnin (Pomona). Assisting the hostess were her parents, Betty and Lloyd, David Richmond, Ann Tankersly and her sister, Pam, and brother, Jim.

CHRISTMAS Week is a time for closest and oldest friends and with this in mind, Donna and John Hal-bert are having a few dearest and nearest over for informal visiting Wednesday—and as many trips to the egg nog bowl as taste buds indicate. Which is apt to be quite a few because this is really old-fashioned egg nog being prepared from one of those recipes everyone wants a copy of after having sampled same.

OVER THE hills and far away to Larchmont, N.Y., is Christmas trip treat for Caroline and Harry Moore who are spending the holidays with son and daughter-in-law, Jane and Harry Moore Jr. and the twins. Major activity—not counting the doings of last Friday and next—will be assisting the juniors move into a glamorous new home before returning to our town.

HERE FOR the holidays from Sacramento, Ann and "Strop" Stroppini were guests of honor when her sister, Linda Brown, and husband, Gordon, entertained Wednesday for an intimate gathering of family members and friends. The tinkle of ice and the happy staccato of holiday greetings began turning the air to merriment at 8 p.m.

EIGHT couples ate very well indeed Saturday night, thanks to hosts Marian and Vern Hinz. Thoughtful Marian, aware that turkey and ham have just about worn out their welcome after all the holiday feasting "travelled" to Italy for her groceries; served hot spicy lasagne to her guests. Invited to share the evening were Thelma and George Geiger, Donna and John Halbert, Audrey and Neil Phillips, Pearl and Milt Saeger, Ruby and Carly Bemis, Leona and Kermit Whitman, Arlene and Warren Percaux and Deenie and Walt Newland.

SOMETHING like months ago Ebell Jrs. started planning their annual birthday luncheon meeting, to take place at Virginia Country Club on Jan. 8. Long-range party details were planted while the last rose of summer was still on the vine by Beverly Logan, Millie Glenn, Connie De Rosa, Margery Brown, Dottie Cook, Barbara Dean, Adrienne Kingsbury, Bev Logan, Kitty Miller, Joan Sharp, Flora Wagoner, Jackie Welty, Jeanne Munter and Mary Johnston.

SENDING holiday spirits soaring for guests were the two parties Shirley and Bill Gillis hosted—one Saturday, 't'other Sunday—to enable friends to see the Naples Pageant of Lights boat parade against the luxurious background of cocktails and buffet.

WHEN even the sound of car doors slamming has a festive ring it must be Christmas—which it was Friday at Nancy and Myrl Ott's home as they entertained informally at cocktails and buffet for about 20 "dropper inners and outers."

1960 WILL get a buoyant send-off at Margaret and Barrie Stimson's when they entertain a few friends, about 24 (at last count) for a TV watch-the-game and buffet supper afterwards. Very informal and a lovely day for relaxing beside the football pool.

WITH AN eye to fun and proper holiday nutrition, Betty and Bob Frankentfield entertained at a cocktail buffet Saturday night in honor of houseguests, Margot and John Clements from San Francisco.

Invited to share the gastronomic gaiety were Liz and Bob Barmeyer, Pearl and Milt Cooper, Liz and Ronnie MacKenzie, Louise and Phil Voigt, "Bud" and Muriel Trosley, Corinne and John Roodie, Chuck Lester, Joan and Greg Hoskins, Betty Lou and Art Ebricht, Martha and Jack Morgan, Nancy and James Rohls and Linda and Ed Artman.

IT WAS three nights before Christmas and all through the house you never heard so much fun going on! At June and Leigh Dugmore's home, 955 Catalina Ave., Seal Beach, to be exact, Tuesday last. An old-fashioned green tree, trimmed with popcorn and peppermint sticks, put guests in the mood right from the moment they entered. Dessert and bridge followed the tree greeting for Grace and Jack Carol, Dorothy and Bill Price and JoDena and Len Herendeen.

HOLIDAYS are hooray-days at Joan and Ed Beebe's house, the family all together again with arrival in town of Seldon and Sherie Beebe from his studies at Boston University School of Medicine. Arrived last Saturday and will be leaving New Year's Day—unless a better flight time can be arranged.

EXCITING week for Dorothy and Karl Hawthorne. Have a new grandchild—Bill and Peg Still's third girl! Leslie, born last Sunday in Pasadena's Huntington Memorial Hospital. Then Thursday of this week Dorothy's sister and husband, Marjory and Kent Bell arrived for holiday visit from San Francisco.

Alicia Poole Says Vows

Five-hundred guests attended the formal wedding ceremony in Lakewood Community Methodist Church which united Alicia Ann Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Poole, Long Beach, and Lt. (jg) Kiel Landua, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landua, Brenham, Tex.

The Rev. Adam Morten of Los Gatos, who married Mr. and Mrs. Poole and christened Alicia, officiated; he was assisted by the Rev. R. Kells Swenerton, minister of the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was exquisitely gowned in Chantilly lace over satin. Tiers of billowing tulle and lace fashioned the bouffant skirt. Delicate pearls and sequins outlined the graceful Sabrina neckline and enriched the scalloped chapel train, and a crown of seed pearls and iridescent wedding veil which framed her face. Her bouquet was a shower of feathered carnations and stephanotis circling a white orchid corsage.

AFTER THE nuptials, the bridal pair was feted at a reception in the Commissioned Officers' Club, Terminal Island. Hostesses and assistants included Mmes. O. E. Cole, Roy Gaskin, Leland Cunningham and George Nielsen; Roberta Hawthorne, Carolyn Nance, Dixie Roark, Connie Lu Berg, Ilene Medevic, Connie Carey and Karen Jackson.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Carmel and San Francisco and are now at home in Long Beach.

The bride, a senior at Long Beach State College and a member of Delta Zeta, is a graduate of Polytechnic High School. Her husband was graduated from Brenham High School and Rice Institute, Houston, Tex.

Susan Anne Upson Weds

Softly glowing candles shed their light on the beautiful marriage ceremony uniting Susan Anne Upson and Wallace Alan Herring. The Rev. Dr. James H. Hughes officiated at the double-ring rite in Atlantic Ave. Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vera Swanson Upson, 3749 Weston Pl., and the late Arthur C. Upson. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Herring of Los Angeles.

Escorted to the altar by her uncle, A. W. Swanson, the bride wore a gown of white bouquet taffeta, fashioned with belled skirt springing from a snug basque bodice and flowing into a wide court train. Chantilly lace, re-embroidered in pearls and sequins, edged the oval neckline. Her veil of silk illusion cascaded from a French crown of beaded flower sprays and her bouquet of stephanotis, miniature white orchids and lilies of the valley was centered by a white orchid. She also carried an heirloom handkerchief of lace carried by her maternal grandmother at her wedding.

ATTENDING THE bride were Carol Crosby, maid of honor, and Mmes. Donald Martin, Harlow Richardson, Misses Marcelline Clayier and Bonny Wells, bridesmaids. All wore gowns of gold taffeta and carried white spider chrysanthemums with gold.

The bridegroom asked Richard LeGrue to attend as best man. Ushering duties were assigned to the bride's brother, Gerald Upson, and Glenn Bummer, Marshall Cox II, Donald Krant and Rallie Rallis.

Mrs. Wallace Alan Herring

A reception for the wedding's 400 guests followed at the church with Mmes. James Edson, Ronald Ankrom and Misses Sharon Dargavel, Nellie Bell, Patricia King and Patsy Carter as hostesses.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Northern California and now are at home in Long Beach.

The new Mrs. Herring was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach State College where she was affiliated with Alpha Phi. She is a teacher in Garden Grove School District. Her husband received early schooling in Los Angeles and is a graduate of Long Beach State College, currently working at that school toward a master's degree. He is a counselor at Los Padinos, Downey.

Pythian Sisters

Long Beach Temple 63, Pythian Sisters, will conduct a stated meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Machinists Bldg., 728 Elm Ave. Leah Dunham will be chairman.

Afternoon Rite Joins Pair

Faint touches of blue contrasted effectively with the all-white bridal attire chosen by Madcan H. Lane for her recent marriage to Jack M. Horner Jr. in Booth Chapel of First Congregational Church.

Family members gathered to witness the double-ring afternoon rite uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Lane of Gresham, Ore., with the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horner, 4549 E. Carson St.

The bride's gown was of white crystal-ette and lace over pale blue net. She carried a white orchid on the white Bible given to the bridegroom by his godfather.

BLUE AGAIN was repeated in the silk satin dress worn by Mrs. Richard Erickson, matron of honor, Anthony James Horner served his brother as best man.

Luncheon in the home of the bridegroom's parents followed the vow exchange.

The new Mrs. Horner teaches at Jordan High School. She is a graduate of Pacific University at Forest Grove, Ore., which her husband also attended. He received early schooling at Wilson.

Ham Treat by Voights

One of the most interesting local Christmas customs is the champagne ham served by Dr. and Mrs. Philip Voigt to friends who drop in for holiday-time visits. Traditionally prepared by Dr. Voigt from an old German recipe which has been in his family for many years, it requires six pages of instructions and ingredients.

Beginning with fresh pork, the meat is marinated in champagne and many special spices to cure it for at least a week before it is cooked.

Distinguished Guests Here

Distinguished visitors in Long Beach during the Christmas holidays have been Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allen and their children, John, Patricia, Barbara and Ginger, here from Fort Collins, Colo., where Allen is mayor of the city.

Much of their time here has been spent with Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ellithorpe, 144 Rivo Alto Canal. The two men, friends from childhood, were Boy Scouts together in Minot, N. D.; later played football for North Dakota State College. Both insist it was ability, not pull, that enabled them to make the varsity squad. Howard's father was director of physical education at the college and head football coach. The Allen family has enjoyed the use of an apartment in Belmont Shore during their stay in Long Beach.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

Well, not much to talk about during vacation at Long Beach State, but we would like to note accomplishments in two different areas.

One is the work of Circle K, service club for school and community, which is sponsored by three Kiwanis clubs in Long Beach.

Among the credits of this group are such items as serving at the polls during student body elections, standing guard on Homecoming floats, ushering at football games, decorating for the Christmas Sing, and planning the Campus Blood Drive.

Home towns of Circle K officers seem to circle the campus. President Bob Patcha comes from Huntington Park, recording secretary Doug Scott from Wilmington, treasurer Carroll Goldsworth from Compton, international trustee Fred Estrada from Santa Ana, district governor (California, Hawaii, and Nevada), Bill Waters from Paramount, while home town flavor is supplied by vesp Bob Clisby and corresponding secretary Dick Stanley.

Dean Clarence Bergland is adviser to the 32-member group which is in its second year on campus.

THE OTHER was last week's Christmas Concert which afforded a packed house much, much pleasure. The college chorus, the madrigal singers, and the a cappella choir—all under the direction of Frank Pooler—combined for an hour of sheer entertainment which ended far too soon.

We imagine each of those present had his own favorites, but we especially liked the madrigal singers' version of "Wassail Song" and the choir's "Ideo Gloria."

Ol' Placer Miner's vocabulary, running as it does mostly to zone defenses, off-tackle slants, and earned run averages, is too limited to enter into the technical praise which the concert deserves, but we want to say this:

"Mr. Pooler, we enjoyed your program immensely. If the '59 Christmas Concert is a sample of LBSC vocal offerings to come, make sure you save us a seat 'cause we don't intend to miss out!"

Delphian Society Unit to Meet Wednesday

Tau Delta Lambda Chapter of Delphian Society will meet Wednesday in Los Altos Library under the leadership of Mrs. James Matson.

The day's subject "American Women," will be presented by Meses. Jack L. Keck, Martin Boe, John E. Griffith, L. H. Johnson and Glenn Miller.

Happy New Year -- Last One Was Dandy

By ILKA CHASE

This is the year in which for the first time the human voice echoed around the world from outer space when President Eisenhower uttered his historic 58-word message sent from the Atlas and recorded at Cape Canaveral.

The Western Hemisphere's most notorious beaver, Fidel Castro, became dictator of Cuba at 32. Rigged trials of those who opposed him were held in an atmosphere of carnival and horror and today he is a thorn in the flesh of the United States.

The bitter brutality of the Chinese Red communes shocked all free peoples, and in England a gentle bull won a reprieve from the slaughterhouse to which his sweet nature had at first doomed him, the argument, reflecting the current mode of sadism, having been that his docility might ruin the strain.

Charles de Gaulle, about whom Churchill is said to have remarked that of all the crosses he had to bear during the war the hardest was the cross of Lorraine, became the first President of the Fifth French Republic, and our vice president was a smash hit in the great Nixon-Khrushchev debate at the U. S. Fair in Russia.

The first deputy of the Soviet Union, Anastas I. Mikoyan, appealed for a hat peace between his country and ours and went shopping in an American supermarket, leaving it richer by $9.29.

KHRUSHCHEV had a tantrum when he couldn't go to Disneyland, in the capitalist world the House of Morgan merged with the Guaranty Trust Co., and Queen Alexandra's fashion of high-choker jeweled necklaces came back with a glitter and a sparkle, a blaze and a bang.

Audrey Hepburn suffered two fractured vertebrae in a fall from a horse, Debbie and Eddie were divorced, Liz and Eddie were married, and true love triumphed over position and wealth when Michiko Shoda, an attractive young Japanese commoner, wed Akihito, her country's crown prince, and when a fresh young Swedish girl, Anne Marie Rasmussen, serving as a maid in the household, married Steven, scion of the Rockefellers.

IN BELGRADE, an honorable thief stole $2,600 and a month later sent back $2,275 with a note, saying that when he stole it he hadn't realized how much money there was. Having taken what he needed he returned the rest.

The U. S. Senate split wide open on naming a flower that should be the national symbol, the four leading candidates being the rose, carnation, corn and grass.

Three famous men, unique in their fields, died: Willie Hoppe, the billiards champion; Frank Lloyd Wright, the world's most controversial architect, and a remarkable Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles.

The best autobiography to appear in many moons was Moss Hart's "Act One." Jumbo, the lady elephant, attempted to retrace Hannibal's march across the Alps and was cheered like a prima donna on the way. Juliette Greco was presented to Princess Margaret at a command performance, looking as if she had gone out in her nightgown, her hair uncombed, Europe had its hottest summer in 80 years and Toots Shor's saloon shattered, leaving homeless such stalwarts as John Daley, Jackie Gleason and Don Ameche.

THE ENCHANTING actress, Kay Kendall died, there was an appalling rise in juvenile delinquency, and Hans P. Kraus paid $182,000 for a 13th-century illuminated copy of the Apocalypse.

The exteriors of the New York subway trains were washed for the first time in 55 years, Ingemar Johansson of Gothenburg, Sweden, became the world's heavyweight champion and the TV scandals rocked the nation.

The cranberry trouble rocked the cranberry growers, and further research seemed to link again lung cancer with cigarette smoking. Birth control shaped up as the big political issue for 1960. Farewell 1959, Happy New Year to one and all.

'Infant Christ' to Be Staged at Royce Hall

Seven soloists and a supporting cast of 60 singers will be featured in Hector Berlioz' sacred trilogy "The Infant Christ" to be presented by the Los Angeles Bureau of Music, Department of Municipal Art, Monday night at Royce Hall on the UCLA campus in Westwood.

Scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m., the presentation, co-sponsored by the UCLA Committee on Fine Arts Production, will be open to the public without charge.

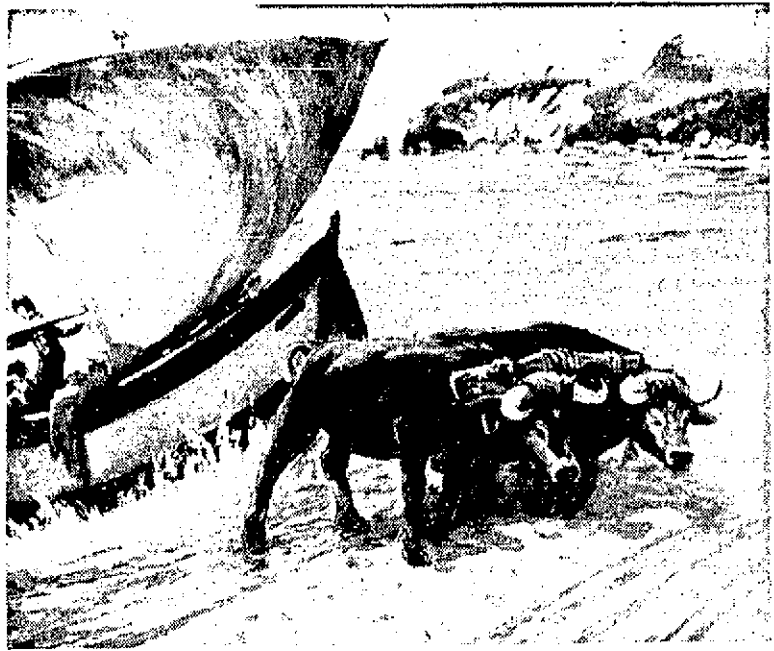

Conducted by Carlton Martin, supervisor of adult choruses for the Bureau of Music, performers in the colorful production will include the Los Angeles Symphonic Chorus, the Civic Arts Orchestra and nationally-known professional singers and dramatists.

Designed and directed by Glynn Ross, this year's staged and costumed version of the Berlioz masterpiece, which follows the fortunes of the Holy Family through the flight into Egypt, will mark its third Christmas season presentation in Royce Hall.

The cast was selected after weeks of auditioning and rehearsals and will include Maralin Niska in the role of Mary; Keith Wyatt as the Narrator; Ned Romero as Joseph; Eugene Curtsinger as the Centurion; William Felber as Polydorus; Roderick Ristow as King Herod and Jack Vander Laan as the Ismaelite Father.

Benefit Concert

The 150-voice Mormon Choir of Southern California will present Handel's "Messiah" Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in Philharmonic Auditorium, Los Angeles. The accompanying orchestra will be composed of members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Proceeds will be donated to the building fund for the Los Angeles Music Center.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

I think I am going to sell my television set!

Here it was Christmas and I was all aglow with the festive spirit of that glorious season. Everything was alive with activity—houses blazed with many colored lights; shoppers laden with gift packages bustled about in good-natured jostle; little children sat on hundreds of Santas' knees, while nearly every vacant lot was full of sweet-scented Christmas trees. And I, too, should forget the meaning of it all, Handel's Messiah was sung in 75 churches all over Southern California.

What has all this got to do with my selling my television set? I will tell you.

TWO SUNDAYS before Christmas it was announced that "Hall of Fame" sponsored by Hallmark, would present over NBC a program entitled "Christmas Festival" which would pre-empt "Meet the Press" and "Chet Huntley's News." How fortunate, I thought, that I am free to enjoy what surely will be an outstanding program.

THE SINGING of the young children from Oberkirchen, Germany, was thrilling; the skating episode was fanciful and delightful. And the tale of the Scrooge-like miser with Walter Slezak and a darling boy actor made its point forcefully.

And then to close the "Christmas Festival" came the last act, the real plum in the pudding! Judith Anderson was to narrate the Story of the Nativity. Wouldn't this intrigue one?

I PULLED up my chair a bit closer. Judith Anderson's beautiful voice began the story of Christmas—the story of Jesus of Nazareth. Would that it had been ONLY the READING of this Biblical account, beloved of millions!

But suddenly there appeared upon the screen what seemed like crude crayon drawings, which were described as "painted on light by Andre Girard."

These grotesque and ugly images grew steadily worse until the forms and faces of the Holy Family were hideous and the Wise Men and Angels seemed to leer.

SO OUT of keeping with story of Jesus of Nazareth were these drawings that I cried out in anguish. I have sent a night letter of protest to the sponsors. If they cannot give suitable background to a theme so deeply religious as the Christmas story, then let them in heaven's name, give us OTHER subjects.

We are come by a goodly heritage—let us guard it zealously.

I wish for my readers—a Happy New Year with Peace on Earth.

Ol' Ted, the Teacher,
Mighty Surprised!

By TED KREC

For the past three semesters, I have had the pleasure of teaching a course in Advertising Layout for Long Beach City College, Business and Technology Division.

I called this a pleasure, and that's exactly what it is, because never before have I been involved in such a rewarding and satisfying endeavor.

I'd like to tell you about this class today—I really think the members are worthy of special mention.

These are not kids who HAVE to go to school; they are adults who have CHOSEN to go to school.

No truant officer is going to be banging on their doors if they don't show up. They attend because they WANT to. They want to learn something new.

WHEN MEMBERS are absent, it isn't because Elvis Presley or Ricky Nelson is appearing at a local theater—it's because they have to work an extra shift or they have sick children, reasons such as these.

This is why I think these people deserve special mention. It isn't easy after working all day to resist the temptation of an easy chair and a television set and drag yourself out to a three-hour night class.

Don't misunderstand me, this tribute applies to all working people who attend night classes, but I'm aiming it at my class in particular because this is the one I know about first-hand.

There are 15 students in my class, and their backgrounds are as varied as their personalities.

To begin with, there's Andy Dart. He's in engineering sales. Bill Hardie is a clothing salesman. Bill Harmon works for a salad dressing concern. George Hayden, a Scottish-born lad, is a welding pipefitter.

Bill Hayden, his brother, is a linotype operator. Helmut Heckmann, a native of Germany, works at automobile importation. Dorothy Jewell has written for our Southland magazine. Karen Krancus is "Miss Welcome to Long Beach." John Morrison is a printer for these newspapers. Doug Pettit is a real estate salesman. His wife, Ellen, is a housewife. Bill Riley works in aircraft. Dave Sedgwick is a national advertising man for these newspapers. Betty Taylor is a secretary and her husband, Jack, works for a department store.

SEE WHAT I mean? They're a mighty interesting group. Certainly their backgrounds are varied, but their interests are the same. And the most amazing part of it all is that attendance has been excellent and I haven't given any member of this class a grade lower than B all semester! I've never seen a class progress as fast as this one.

This is a mighty fine program sponsored by B&TD and I give a big tip of the bowler to Dr. Keith James, the progressive guy who steers the Distributive Education Dept. He's always open to suggestion.

But let me tell you about last Thursday night. The class met for the final time before the holidays and darned if these folks didn't bring Ol' Ted a present. Teaching the class and seeing it progress is reward enough, but they brought me a present!

I think it was the nicest thing that ever happened to me.

Game Try Falls Short

South made a game try for his contract but he couldn't quite reach. After winning the opening heart lead he played the ace of spades, ruffed a spade, led a trump to dummy's nine and ruffed a third spade but failed to drop the king. A trump was now led to dummy's ace but the trumps failed to break and South finally had to go down two tricks.

Six diamonds would have made easily via the route of ruffing two clubs and North and South each blamed the other for getting one trick too high.

NORTH'S contention was that he had put the hand in six and South should have passed. South contended that he had much more than he had shown and that North had overbid all the way through.

I am inclined to agree with South. North's first bid was a jump in spades. Then he cue bid the heart suit and finally leaped all the way to six diamonds. Unless South wanted to be a ventriloquist's dummy he really could afford one independent bid of his own at that stage.

On the other hand North should not be blamed much. The grand slam did not make but there had been a mighty good play for it. All South needed was a spade break, a doubleton king of spades or a diamond break. It just happened that none of those things came off.

Old-Fashioned Fete for Charles Fishers

An old-fashioned family party was order of the evening Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, 325 Euclid Ave., bid relatives to join them for an informal session of carol singing, visiting and holiday refreshments.

Center of attention were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stroppini, who are here for a month's vacation with their two sons from their home in Sacramento. The Stroppinis arrived here Monday.

Golden Year Organ Music
Fete for Duo Challenge to Hi-Fi Units

Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Holk will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at an open house today at the home of their son, Melvin L. Holk, 1559 Linden Ave.

Married in Grand Forks, N. D., they later homesteaded in Alberta, Canada, then moved to Spokane, Wash., before coming to Long Beach 39 years ago to make their home.

Prior to his retirement in 1953, Holk served the Pacific Electric Railway as motorman in the passenger service and as engineer in the freight service.

The goldenweds also have another son, Elmer M. Holk of Camarillo, and four grandchildren.

Recordings of organ music will prove challenging to new high fidelity systems. The Public Library suggests the following records be borrowed for this purpose as well as for the opportunity to study superb organ works: Bach, "Organ Works" (14 volumes of Archive Production); Bohm, "Selections From His Works" (ex-

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Al Beach Practices What He Preaches

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P. Food Editor

Here's a switch!... he had to come home from World War II in order to go abroad. The Air Force kept today's Chef of the Week, Albert A. Beach, "grounded" as it were. Since then, he's made several trips around the world. In fact, that's his business. As manager of a world wide travel service, he is the authorized agent for both trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific steamship lines, all domestic and overseas airlines, tours, cruises and hotel reservations. The C. F. Beach Travel Agency, established by his late father 36 years ago, has representatives in all parts of the globe from Cairo to Rio.

BEACH WAS born in Los Angeles but reared in Long Beach. Wilson High and Long Beach Junior College preceded his entrance to US Berkeley from which he graduated with a bachelor's degree in business administration and transportation. He met his wife, Sybil, while attending schools in Long Beach. No newcomer to the travel business, Beach maintains that to know where, how and why you're "book-ing" others, you should have been there yourself. And thus he has just completed a five-week survey flight around the world gleaming first-hand information on accommodations and sightseeing possibilities.

A Downtown Rotarian, Beach is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and he and his family are active in the First Presbyterian Church. He belongs to both the Tuna Club of Avalon and is a past president of the Southern California Tuna Club.

TRAVEL photography and hunting, perhaps take precedence over salt water fishing, hobbywise; but during the summer he can often be found teaching angling techniques to his two children, Marianne and James, ages 8 and 6.

As a cook, he's trying hard. Actually his recipe today is the result of his brand new interest in foreign foods, especially cooking with wine. He brings it to you right from the head chef of the Nile Hilton Hotel in Cairo, Egypt.

Why Grow Old?

Pimples and Blackheads Are Common Offenders

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A clear, glowing complexion builds self-confidence while one which is marred may cause a woman to be very self-conscious. Blackheads and pimples are two of the most unusual offenders.

As is true of so many defects in beauty, prevention is easier than cure. Usually blackheads make their first appearance between the ages of 12 and 20, the peak being about the age of 17. During these years the glandular system is in turmoil and the little oil glands in the skin are abnormally active.

I OFTEN have asked dermatologists what can be done to prevent or banish these little pests. Sometimes the young person does not live near a skin specialist or cannot afford to be treated by one. Frequent washing of the skin, several times daily, always is recommended. Soap and water must be used to remove the excess oil from the skin. Otherwise this might combine with dirt and grime to clog the pores and form blackheads.

Many specialists also recommend the soap and water treatment for pimples. A complexion brush is fine when preventing or treating blackheads but experts like a wash cloth better for pimples because a clean one can be used each time. Otherwise infection might spread. A drying antiseptic lotion should be applied to pimples.

IT IS MOST important to take care of the conditions which lead to blackheads or to treat them when they first appear. If they do not get too strong a hold, they will disappear when the boy or girl is older. When blackheads are picked at and squeezed, infection is apt to occur. Then the simple blackhead becomes a pimple.

Even fairly severe cases of acne sometimes improve tremendously during the summer because of exposure to sunlight. A sun-lamp is helpful in fighting both blackheads and acne.

Cutting Harmless

Because hair is not composed of living cells, it may be called "dead," which is why cutting it does not hurt.

Dear Abby

Call a Relief Pitcher!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have four children and two of them are still in diapers. The oldest just turned 5. My husband works a split shift and sleeps most of the time when he's at home.

I am with the children 24 hours a day. I would like to know if I am the only mother who is just about out of her head. The children drive me wild at times. I would like a few hours one day a week to be by myself. To see a movie or just get away from the house.

How do you make a husband understand that you love your children, but you need a little break once in a while? Or am I wrong?

BROWN EYES IN TEARS
DEAR BROWN EYES: You are NOT wrong, so don't compound your problems by feeling guilty. EVERY mother needs "a break" away from her children occasionally. (It's good for the children, too.) If your husband can't take over to give you this necessity, (not "luxury"—necessity) swap an afternoon with a friend, relative or neighbor, and arrange it yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is 74 years old, and believe it or not he still thinks the "grass is greener on the other side of the fence." I am 69. What do you do in a case like this?

DEAR SONIA: Don't worry. A man his age could never jump the fence.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument

Pi Beta Phi Alums Will Honor Girls

A festive holiday brunch is planned by Pi Beta Phi alumnae from 10 a.m. to noon Monday in the home of Mrs. J. Pitblado, 3912 Corritos Ave., honoring local actives and pledges home for the holidays.

Among those to be in attendance are actives, Ruth Neal, UCLA; Janie Nesmith and Patricia O'Brien, University of Arizona, and pledges, Misses Carol Lynn Clark, Caroline Thurmond, Sally Springer, and Phyllis Stribley, UCLA; Sheila Price, University of Arizona, and Judith Ashton, Oregon State.

Hostesses for the occasion are Mmes. James Hellman, R. B. Hesley and W. B. Melchoir. Reservations may be made with Mrs. H. B. Crosby or Mrs. E. R. Straten.

once and for all? Is it considered OK for a girl to put her make-up on and comb her hair at the table? There are four of us who want to know.

DEAR GIRLS: It is "OK" to apply a little lipstick (quickly) while sitting at the table. But powdering the face and combing the hair—never!

CONFIDENTIAL TO FRAN: Your husband is overdoing the footloose and fancy free-load routine. It's a rare businessman who has to be out entertaining customers seven nights a week for five weeks straight.

WHAT'S YOUR problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Executive board members of Woman's City Club will be hostesses at a benefit holiday card party in their clubhouse, 1309 E. 3rd St., Tuesday. The event, open to the public, will begin at noon with a snack bar luncheon.

Bridge and canasta will be played during the afternoon; many gifts will be provided for distribution. Mmes. Sam Landworth, Earl T. Nickerson, Eva Marquardt and G. G. Morris are in charge of arrangements. Tickets will be available at the door.

"Act I" is the informative book on the life of the author and the American theater which currently tops non-fiction best-seller lists. Swadling, librarian at Main Branch, also will review "Face in the Mirror," a new first novel by an 18-year-old Israeli girl, Yael Dayan, which tells a wistful, searching story of life in modern Israel.

HEADING the day's luncheon committee will be Mmes. Grover Krieger, Morris Krieger, Louis Rosen and Irving Schneider. Mrs. Stanley Morris will conduct the business session and the speaker will be presented by Mrs. Julian Rosen. The public is welcome and reservations may be made at the Temple Israel office.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Sounds Like 'Two-Timer!'

DEAR MOLLY:

I have been married more than 20 years, and my husband and I have been separated more than a dozen times in the past year and a half. Finally I have sued him for divorce because he said he wanted me to, although he continues to come back.

He wants to make me his slave and the other woman he's seeing his mistress. And I don't like that. But maybe it's all my fault because of something that happened to me before we were married. He has questioned me over and over again about that, but I never told him the truth.

I think that's the cause of our trouble, don't you, Mrs. Mayfield?

DEAR CONFUSED:

Surely something that happened before your marriage 20 years ago couldn't possibly have any bearing on your present relations.

However, go ahead and tell him about it whatever it is. If he flies into a rage, then you'll know that he really doesn't love you anyhow and only wants an excuse to play around with that other woman.

NOTE TO TEENAGER: Tears often make the stream down which eventually the boat of love floats.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I am a freshman in high school and in love with a boy who was recently discharged from the Army. He says he's in love with me, too. But he doesn't show it. He says it's the personality. Please tell me, Molly, what I can do so he will love me more and show it.

SPLIT PERSONALITY. DEAR SPLIT PERSONALITY:

Let me see—you must be 14 now. If I were you, I'd see lots of boys under circumstances of which your parents approve. I'd do everything to make myself charming, lively, interesting. I'd develop small talk and serious talk. I suspect he'll then really begin to show his affection—but don't let him show it too much.—M. M.

Following appearances in Mexico, he will return to this country as guest conductor with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra March 25 and 26.

Newlywed Pair Living in Lynwood

At home in Lynwood after their marriage in St. Joseph's Catholic Church are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Spradlin. The bride is the former Evelyn Elaine Faris of Long Beach, daughter of Mrs. William T. Faris, Rapid City, S. D. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Michael, Long Beach.

For her wedding Miss Faris selected a dress of white Chantilly lace over satin styled with a round neckline and full-length, bouffant skirt with ruffled cathedral train. Her veil fell to shoulder length from a crown of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pastel pink rosebuds nestled in a shower of stephanotis.

MAID OF HONOR Lorraine Perruso was gowned in mint green iridescent taffeta designed with princess lines, and carried a forest green velvet muff adorned with white roses.

The bridegroom's brother Robert Spradlin, was best man; Richard Spradlin and Larry Goodman seated the 150 guests.

After the nuptials the bridal couple received in the patio at the Michael home, then left for a honeymoon in mountain areas.

The bride received her education in Rapid City and was graduated from St. John's McNamara School of Nursing in that city. Her husband is a graduate of Lynwood High School.

Boil Apples Quickly

When cooking apples bring them to a boiling point quickly, and cook quickly, as a darker color and a loss of flavor result from slow cooking.

Taffy Flavor

To give a taffy flavor to a peanut butter spread, mix one part unsulphured molasses with three parts peanut butter. Spread over bread or crackers.

NEXT WEEK

When the year 1900 dawned, Long Beach was little more than a village, asleep on a beautiful strand, but the next 10 years marked a remarkable growth. Historian Maymie R. Krythe tells about those years next week in an article called "The Decade That Launched the City."

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on KINCAID and KINKADE—A. V., Torrance; E. K., Artesia.

A. V., E. K.: KINCAID and KINKADE were formerly Cinnicead, a Gaelic expression for a conspicuous cliff in Scotland. Cinnicead translates as "rocky summit at the head of the valley." The proximity of the family's ancestral manor house to this rocky apex prompted usage of Cinnicead as a euphonious surname. Modern derivative spellings are Kincaid, Kinkade and Kinhead. The family coat-of-arms has an ermine stripe across a red shield. Above the stripe are two gold stars; below it are a black, 3-towered castle and a red diamond. Descendants were residents of August County, Va., in the early 1800s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on ALBRECHT.—Mrs. J. B., Long Beach; L. A., Fullerton.

A. F., P. M.: Heaton, a village in Yorkshire, England, was the location of the HEATON forerunner. The Anglo-Saxon words "Heah-Ton" or "High Farmstead" became Heaton in popular usage. The earliest known ancestor was in the entourage of Henry de Lacy, a famous Earl of Lincoln at the time of William the Conqueror in 1066. The Heaton owned two lordships of manorial estates in north Wales from the 11th century onward. Their coat-of-arms has three silver buck deer heads on a diagonal black stripe over a silver shield. Royal records for the year 1212 list Adam de Heton.

Dear Miss Rule: Would like genealogy on ALBRECHT.—Mrs. J. B., Long Beach; L. A., Fullerton.

J. B., L. A.: The ancient German baptismal name Adal-Berht, meaning "noble and famous," developed into the surname Albrecht. The Albrechts achieved a coat-of-arms in the south German Duchy of Wurttemberg, where where they lived in the Middle Ages. Their unusual shield has a silver sickle between two silver mountain climbers' crampons on a red background.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have the origin of BRENTON.—W. B., C. D., G. B., Long Beach.

W. B., C. D., G. B.: The name BRENTON exemplifies the remote ancestor's home location, "Brent-Ton," which in early English referred to "Steep-Hill Farm." The Brentons were natives of Hertfordshire. Their coat-of-arms has a red chevron between three black heraldic birds on a silver shield.

Have Fun With Holiday Dis-Cards

By Maymie R. Krythe

NOWADAYS, Christmas greetings are really big business and billions of cards are used annually in the U.S. After the holidays, the big question that remains is what to do with all these cards.

Most of them are so artistic and distinctive that we hate to discard them. However, since many persons can't store them, the result is that countless cards are tossed into waste baskets. Fortunately, such greetings aren't a complete loss; for later many return to us in the form of new paper, cardboard, wallboard, or roofing material.

Also, numerous beautiful Christmas messages escape such fate and are collected by philanthropic individuals and organizations to be sent to missionaries in distant lands. There, the cards are welcomed because of their beauty, gay colors, and interesting designs. Many foreign children, who would otherwise have little beauty in their daily lives, really appreciate getting these American messages.

HERE IN OUR own country, thousands of cards are used in making scrapbooks to entertain young patients in hospital wards. Also in such institutions, the castoff greetings are important in occupational therapy; for often young patients cut out the pictures or figures and use them in various ways.

Many American mothers have hit upon ingenious ways of letting their boys and girls use discarded holiday cards. Some enjoy cutting out heads or figures of Santa Claus, angels, and other seasonable subjects; then they paste them on bulletin boards, windows, or doors for festive decorations.

From bright parts of Christmas messages, children can fashion simple tree ornaments, such as chains; or they can cut out semicircles (about three inches in diameter) and form cones by overlapping the edges and pasting them together. After gluing pieces of cord or ribbon to the inside of such cones and pulling them through holes in the top, bell-like decorations are formed to attach to branches of yule trees.

Or, children may fold pictures (about four by five inches) and after cutting slits in them, make little lanterns. The sides are pasted together, handles added and a "different" ornament is ready for the tree.

YOUNGSTERS ALSO may make simple presents from old Christmas cards, such as calendars, by combining an attractive scene and a small calendar. Also, cut-out holiday symbols such as bells, stars, and trees may be used for place cards; over lamp shades or waste paper basket decorations. Bookmarks are easily made from the long narrow cards currently popular. Another use is for clever tags for Christmas gifts.

One mother had invented an enjoyable pastime for her family, using discarded Christmas cards. One child deals them all out; then scores are kept as to the number each holds of such categories as bells, Santas, candles, stars, trees, wreaths and other symbols.

Many other uses may be found for these "dis-cards" and their beauty is an incentive for the imagination to go to work.

Boxes for Yule gifts come to life with decorations cut by the author from cards that bore holiday greetings into her home in past seasons—Christmas "dis-cards."

The Great Cycleway

By Enola Chamberlin

NEW YEAR'S DAY, 1900—just 60 years ago this week—saw the famed Tournament of Roses sharing honors with a brand new wonder-of-wonders, the Pasadena to Los Angeles Cycleway which opened as the only elevated freeway for bicyclists ever constructed.

Great advantages were inherent in this new route of travel which soared 50 feet above ground level in places and followed as near a straight-line course as possible. The only drawback was that it was not completed and went only about 1 1/4 miles out of Pasadena.

But it was a great day nonetheless. Soon this smooth path, wide enough to hold four cyclists abreast and with a motto of "No stops, no crossings"—would extend to the Plaza in Los Angeles. Rights of way were already held by Horace M. Dobbins, now a San Pedro resident, who was president, promoter and owner of the cycleway. The prophets of the day had the cycleway booked all the way to Santa Monica.

DOBBINS HAD devoted a lot of time securing those rights of way. In those days property could not be condemned and purchased for public use. In fact, his efforts on the cycleway project brought about this legislation. He had worked years before the first spade of earth was turned for construction on May 1, 1899.

The first contract had been let to W. J. S. Edwards for excavating. Three tallyhoses of invited gentlemen were present at the ground-breaking ceremony on a hill south of Lincoln Park. Congressman Russell J. Waters made a speech. A flag unfurled its colors. Walter S. Meeck, editor of the Pasadena News, grabbed the plow handles, clucked to the four horses and ploughed two straight furrows along the grade stakes, marking the right of way. This hill was cut 40 feet to make the grade which was to be 1 1/4 per cent for all of the nine miles except 2,000 feet which would be 3 per cent.

The cycleway, was written up from coast to coast and in England it became the talk of the hour. There was talk in other cities, especially Chicago and London, of building like installations there. Chicago planned an eight-mile run along the north shore. England would connect London with Brighton.

Harper and Reynolds Hardware took the contract to supply two carload of nails for Dobbins' project. Patten & Davis Lumber Co., of Pasadena, was awarded contract for 1,250,000 feet of Oregon pine.

Some authorities said that on this green-painted smooth track cyclists could enjoy the very poetry of wheeling. A Pasadena editor likened his first ride to flying. Others called it a greased rainbow to connect Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Protected on both sides with strong, high wire and illuminated every 200 feet, the cycleway was most unusual.

ALAS FOR DREAMS! Although Dobbins, who was one-time mayor of Pasadena, formed a company and sold stock, money was not forthcoming to complete the installation. From its beginning with its toll house (rides cost 10 cents for both ways)—near the Hotel Green Annex on Vineyard St. to the old Raymond Hotel site on Columbia St. was as far as the course was completed.

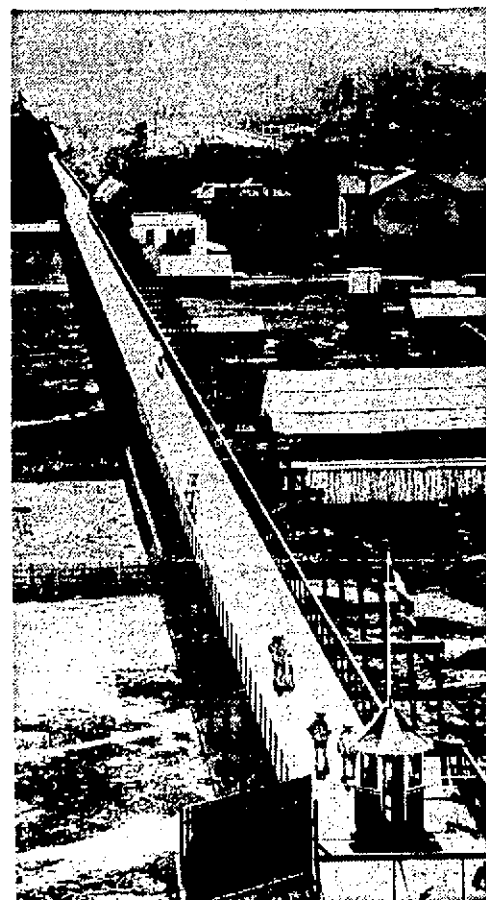

Later, the city of Pasadena wanted a tract of land between Raymond and Fair Oaks south of Vineyard for a park and asked Dobbins to consent to the dismantling of the cycleway at a fair price. He did. The project had been in operation less than a year.

But Dobbins held the rights of way and aspired to organize a company to build an electric elevated or "air-line" along them. Although this plan did not materialize, these rights later became the basis for the bus system in Pasadena. And that was not the end for Dobbins in the transportation world. In 1909, he was influential in the work of the Pasadena Rapid Transit Company of which he was president.

HOW OBSOLETE Dobbins' cycleway would have become within even a few years brings a smile to his face as he looks back today at this this home at 3640 Carolina Ave., San Pedro. He can stand at the window of his home and look down upon the harbor, the ships and the water traffic—which reveals another facet of his interesting career over a span of 91 years.

"I love boats," he says. "I have built them and sold them. I want to build another."

And to this man who looks constantly into the future, who wanted to take the bicycle, when it was important, out of the ruts and dust and into the sky, the modern dream of the monorail rushing overhead across the Southland must be a thrilling portrayal.

First section of a great cycleway that was to link Pasadena and Los Angeles shown here.

Rules of the Road

In meeting, keep to the right, in overtaking and passing, the left.

Find a way around pedestrians.

Yield right of way to up riders.

Never ring bell except to give notice of approach.

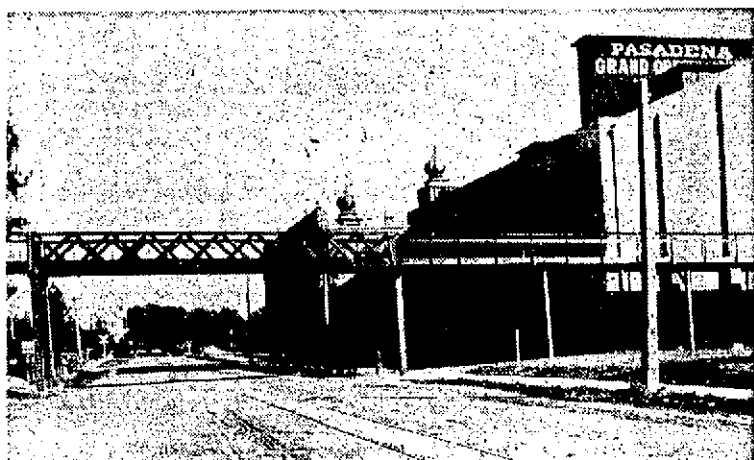

Never vary your course suddenly without assuring yourself that no other rider is close to you.

Ring your bell to warn pedestrians or riders ahead of you, but do not expect them to get out of the way.

Do not ride too close to a novice. In meeting one give him plenty of room.

Cycleway as it curved north from Raymond Hill. Great future was predicted by some, who saw the forerunner of modern freeway reaching to Santa Monica.

At Pasadena's Grand Opera House the cycleway soared above the street on a bridge that was to cross Arroyo Seco, but project was never completed.

Little Bo Peep, Red Riding Hood, even Tarzan—they all attended this big party...

H-a-a-apy New Year!

By John Camden

"I HAVE your costume ready, dear," said my wife last night while we were enjoying family togetherness watching a TV western. "But I do wish you'd grow a beard to make it really authentic."

"Sorry, no," I said. "Furthermore, I don't see why we can't have a New Year's Eve party without your insisting that everyone dress up like monkeys."

"But it's a Beatnik party, dear," she said, "and..."

"Shhh, you guys," said my small son.

"...remember how much the costumes added to our party last year?"

"That's a matter of opinion," I said.

I thought to myself that it certainly didn't seem nearly a whole year since last New Year's Eve...

IT WAS JUST ABOUT this time last year that my wife brought home four or five costumes on approval in readiness for our New Year's Eve party.

"You've just got to go as Bugs Bunny," she had said. "It goes so well with my Mickey Mouse outfit."

"Look, I've agreed to a costume affair, but can't my get-up have some kind of—well, dignity—to it?" I asked. "Do I have to look ridiculous?"

"Well, try on this lazy cowboy costume for me," she said. "I'll put on the Bugs Bunny outfit to show you how cute it is."

A few minutes later I discovered how difficult it is to argue with a wife who is dressed like a rabbit.

"I still think you should go as Bugs Bunny," she said, waving a paw in my face.

WE FINALLY COMPROMISED on an Arab sheik outfit which provided a nice contrast to my wife's mouse suit; i.e., there was so much of mine, so little of hers.

My wife is an ahead-of-time planner, if nothing else. Believe me, that party was planned down to the tiniest detail, with games, dancing, and refreshments scheduled at precise intervals of time. The routine, carefully typed and tacked inside a kitchen cupboard for easy reference, read like this:

9:00-9:30—Guests arrive, have a glass of punch, and are given rules for game No. 1, the balloon dance.

9:30-10—Balloon dance with prize

I didn't want to wear a costume at all, and refused to go as Bugs Bunny, but I was an Arab and my wife was Mickey Mouse as we greeted party guests.

for the best couple. (Note: a balloon dance consists of having couples tie a balloon to each ankle with object of the game trying to step on balloons belonging to other couples while everyone is dancing. Last couple to have unbroken balloons or ankles is the winner.)

10-10:15—Give guests another glass of punch, and announce rules for next game, charades.

10:15-11:15—Charades.

11:15-11:30—Gives guests another glass of punch.

11:30-11:50—Dancing.

11:50—Pass out noisemakers and hats ready for use at midnight.

Allow 15 minutes for midnight celebration.

12:15-1—Dancing.

1-1:45—Refreshments and coffee.

1:45-2—Guests depart.

BY 8:30 ON New Year's Eve the kids were tucked away in a back bedroom with a TV set, peanut butter sandwiches, milk, candy and potato chips; I, in costume, was making last-minute repairs on the record player; and my wife, also in costume, was rearranging the punch bowl and cups on the dining room table. A few minutes later she discovered we were out of beer, a beverage which her brother-in-law, Harry, drinks to the exclusion of everything else, particularly punch, and I was requested to run to the liquor store and get a small supply. There wasn't time to argue, so I took off my elaborate turban, wrapped my flowing robes around me, and got in the car. The liquor store was crowded. Rather than make explanations about my appearance, I spoke to the clerk in a thick, foreign accent, got the beer, and was back home by 9.

At 10:15 the first guests arrived: brother-in-law Harry and his wife, Louise. Harry was dressed in black velvet, little boys pants with lace blouse and Louise looked like Mae West. When my wife offered Harry a glass of beer, he waved an out-sized lollipop back and forth and stated, "Beer! Not until I've tried some of good old John's famous punch," and promptly drank three glasses.

OUR FRIENDS Jan and Bill, both dressed as clowns, arrived shortly thereafter, followed by Ben and Alice, who came as Bo Peep and Red Riding Hood. Then another couple, Jack and Cynthia (who outweighs her husband by about thirty pounds) came as Tarzan and a harem girl. By the time Mell and Helen arrived, everyone had helped himself to punch several times. Mell, dressed in an old tuxedo with a mop atop his head, and Helen, looking like a naughty French maid, hastily downed two glasses of punch, and the party got under way. It was then about 10:45.

"Well, time for our first game," my wife announced as she gave everyone another glass of punch. "Here's what you do..." She brought forth an armful of balloons and started to hand them out.

"Who wants games?" said Bo Peep throwing several into the air and puncturing each with a cigarette. "Why don't we dance? I haven't danced in years!" He grabbed the French maid and waltzed her around.

"He loves to dance and I don't dance," said his wife, Red Riding Hood. "I just love to sit and talk."

"That's the way with me," said the lady clown. "I've been rushing around taking advantage of the sales and haven't had time to sit down and do just nothing."

CYNTHIA RE-ADJUSTED her harem skirt over her 38-38-38 figure and sprawled comfortably over a nearby hassock. "Those sales are terrific," she said. "Why I found the best bargain in men's pajamas..."

"I still think you should be Bugs Bunny," said my wife, putting on the costume to demonstrate. It's hard to argue with a wife in a Bugs Bunny outfit.

The Silver Track That Turned to Gold

By Jack Teele

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, on Christmas Day 1934, there came on the Southern California scene a great counter-balance for Santa Claus and his reindeer . . . Santa Anita and its horses.

And although one giveth and one taketh away, both Santas continue to flourish.

Santa Anita first opened its present Arcadia racing plant on Dec. 25, but, in recent years, each meeting has opened on the day after Christmas. Yesterday, its Silver Anniversary meeting was begun.

This now traditional day-after-Christmas opening prompted famed horse-playing comedian Joe E. Lewis to comment:

"I keep hoping that some day Santa Anita will sell Christmas gift certificates!"

CHANCES ARE THAT the track never will carry out Lewis' suggestion, for business has boomed without any such lure.

Since 1934, Santa Anita has conducted 22 race meetings. There was no racing for three years during the war when Nisei were housed on Santa Anita grounds.

In those 22 meetings, a total of $1,764,400,000 has been wagered. Let's make this total more meaningful.

If every person in the United States (latest census: 178,780,000) wagered $10, the total would just barely exceed Santa Anita's 22-meeting figure.

Or, as heavy loser Lewis claims: "This figure represents, give or take a few dollars, a total of 882,200,000 bets of $2 each by Joe E. Lewis."

But the 25-year history of Santa Anita cannot be told in dollars and cents alone.

SINCE THE DAYS when Lucky Baldwin's rancho became a modern racing plant, a great story of horses, jockeys, stakes, fans and racing progress has unfolded.

Recently, Santa Anita polled 75 nationally famous turf writers to determine the greatest horses and races in Santa Anita history.

Voted the greatest of the horses was Seabiscuit, who knew bitter disappointment and sweet success at Santa Anita. The list included:

1. Seabiscuit, 2. Round Table, 3. Noor, 4. Swaps, 5. Stagehand, 6. Bug Brush, 7. Mark-Ye-Well, 8. Determine, 9. Silver Spoon and 10. (tie) Hillsdale and Terrang.

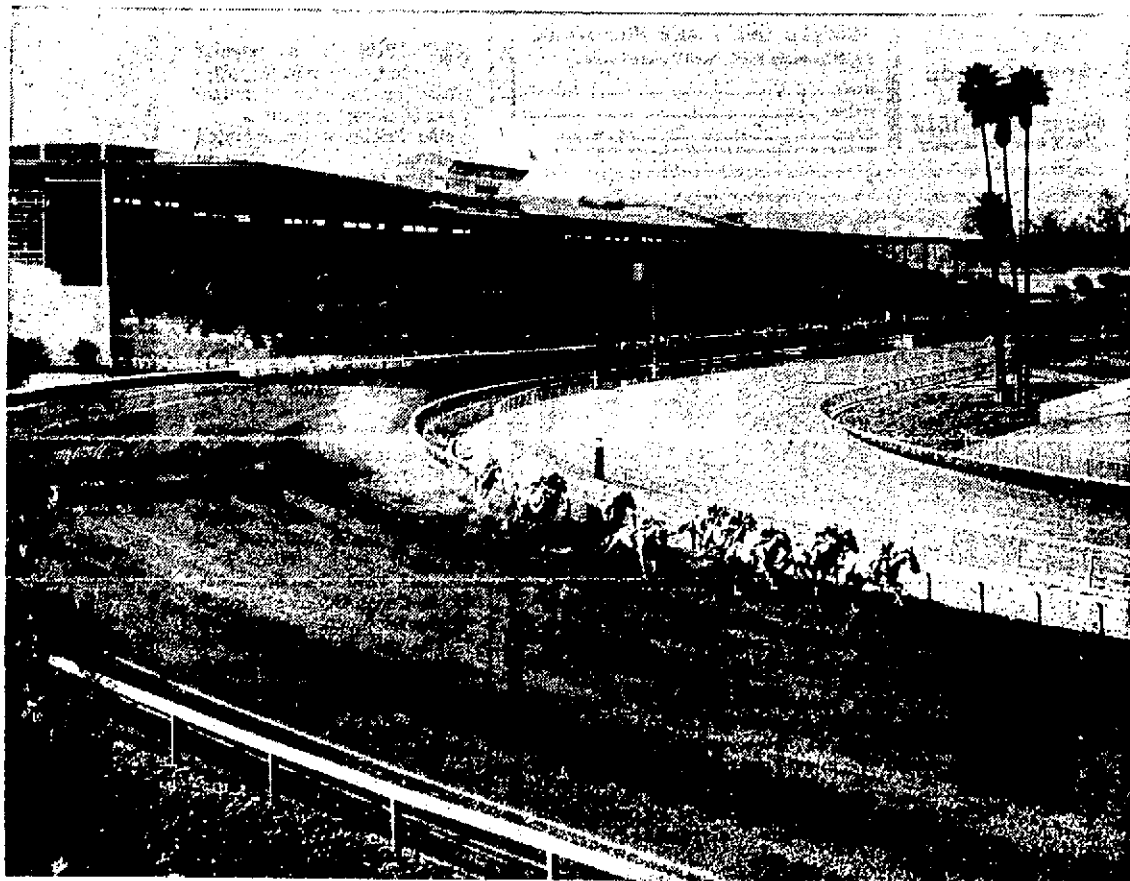

The list did not include all-time great Citation because "Cy" never won a stakes race at Santa Anita. In two tries, he was beaten by enormous weights and a horse named Noor.

VOTED THE GREATEST race was Seabiscuit's victory in the 1940 Big 'Cap. The Biscuit's triumph in the big race came when he was an aging seven-year-old and climaxed his comeback to racing. Two earlier tries in the Big 'Cap, saw Seabiscuit beaten by a nose both times. In 1937 he finished second to Rosemont and in 1938 he was second to Stagehand.

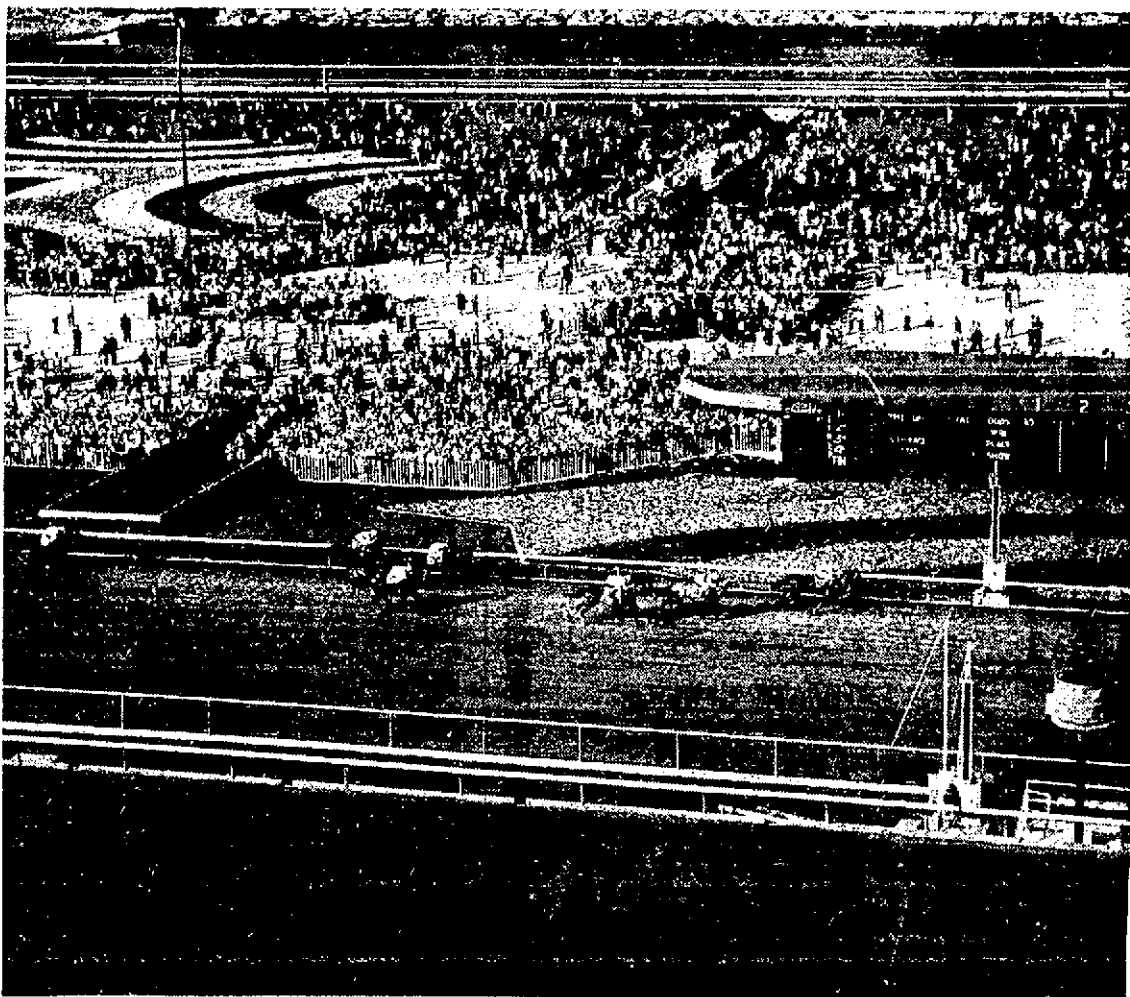

Among the jockeys to compete at Santa Anita are such greats as Jack Westrope, George (The Ice Man) Woolf, John Longden and Eddie Arcaro.

But none of these has enjoyed the success at Santa Anita that has come to Willie Shoemaker. Yesterday, The Shoe began competing for his 10th

There They Go! Into the first turn the horses begin to string out in a race at Santa Anita's fabulous horse plant, now celebrating its Silver Anniversary. Some of the greatest of horse-racing history has been written at the track.

Here they come! Down to the finish line pounds the field. And the hearts of the bettors beat in tune with those thudding hooves as each sees his or her fortunes of the day being made or broken. So it has been for the 25 years.

The Octopus Goes to the Table

By George Full

OCTOPUS is a popular food, either as a patty-fritter or chowder in north-west U. S. restaurants.

Ben Fricke, a transplanted Midwesterner, a big man in his 60s, is the octopus fisherman of the area. He catches them for restaurants and for aquariums. He has to be husky to battle octopuses, which range from 60 to 150 fighting pounds.

The Frickes, Eve and Ben, operate the Frontier Resort, a four-cabin-set-up at Dungeness, post office Sequim, Wash.

Dungeness is a spot on the Washington peninsula on Vancouver Island opposite Victoria. It is a natural harbor protected from rough water of the straits by a spit of land eight miles long parallel with the shore. A U. S. Coast Guard station is at the far point.

The spit is a catchall for shipwreck cargoes. Dungeness homes are built from logs, lumber and even pieces of fine mahogany found in the driftwood piled on its beach.

GRAVEYARD SPIT, a bulge of land connected with the spit, extends toward the mainland. It received its name from the massacre of an Alaskan Indian tribe by local tribesmen.

Hunters' Point, another projection of land, extends from the mainland parallel with Graveyard Spit.

Thus, to reach the octopus fishing grounds one first must round Hunters' Point, run between it and Graveyard Spit, then round Graveyard Spit and continue three miles to the point where the U. S. Coast Guard is located.

Upon arrival at our fishing grounds we are met by tourists in motor boats with cameras set to picture our operations.

Anyone who has traveled the Washington Peninsula has observed many menus featuring Dungeness crabs. At low tide, crab fishermen may be seen, metal washtubs strapped to their backs, scooping crabs into nets and thence into the tubs.

OCTOPUSES FOLLOW their food from the outside straits, rounding Coast Guard Point into Dungeness Bay. Our fishing traps are placed on the sloping shelf inside the point 100 to 200 feet from the shore in 100 feet of water.

Trap lines are a half mile long, buoyed at each end and sunk with a concrete-loaded pickle barrel at each end of the lines. From 18 to 20 trap boxes are spaced at intervals along the line, each box fastened to the main line by a 12-foot rope.

The trap boxes, made of cedar shake wood, are 18 inches wide and 3 feet long, with small drainage holes at the base and half-way down the side. Each has an 18-inch opening at the top and is closed to the bottom.

THE OCTOPUS with its captive crab or having finished its dinner (an octopus consumes only one crab a day) will seek a hiding or resting place—thus the trap box.

Equipment includes a 16-foot boat with a 12-horsepower outboard motor, a captive box with box 3 feet deep, 4 feet wide and 6 feet long, and a boat pulley to ease the upcoming load.

We proceed along the three trap lines, each with 18 to 20 traps, lifting each trap box to the captive box. The trailing audience of tourists clamor for position and appeal to Ben to hold up a captured octopus for pictures. Ben accommodates.

The real task of holding and controlling the catch comes after placing our fifth or sixth big fellow in the captive box. Heads are near the top of the box and tentacles with suction cups the size of a half-dollar or occasionally a dollar keep coming over the top of the box searching for a means of support to raise them out of the box.

RAISING THE LID of the captive box to dump a new catch in an already crowded box results in one or more attempts at escape. And if the newly captured fellow offers

Prescription for Happy Living

Photos by Joe Risnover

Rock is cleverly used in the living room of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Gregory, even to the point of furniture replacement. Rock contrasts with softness of carpeting.

TAKE a typical house in a given neighborhood, customize it to suit individual tastes and needs, live in it and enjoy it, and it becomes a perfect home. Such is the prescription for the home located at 3317 Lees Ave., which Dr. and Mrs. Carl Gregory bought a few years ago.

It has a basic floor plan typical of many of the surrounding ranch homes in the area; but clever, often daring changes in design and decorating, conceived and executed by Dr. Gregory—with able assistance from son, Gregg—have given it an individuality all its own. At the outset, the garage at the front of the house was remodeled into a family rumpus room and the front of the structure, including the driveway, had to be remodeled accordingly. A semi-circular driveway, interspersed with desert foliage, gives ample parking space for the family cars.

The driveway leads up to the front door which opens to a large patio area. Located on the left of the front door are twin garage doors that, with the flip of a switch, open also onto the patio where cars may be parked when the family is on vacation.

UPON ENTRY, one encounters a feeling of indoor-outdoor living with three rooms viewing the patio through glass doors. The rumpus room is first on the right and probably is the most lived-in room of the house.

Dr. Gregory felt that a family rumpus room should include essentials for everyday living as well as conversational decorative items for company entertaining. Thus the rumpus room features appliances and built-ins which are sometimes overlooked. A solid black slate floor is as smooth for dancing as it is easy to clean. To the left, as one enters, is a rock planter which affords a view of the living room beyond. Next in line is a raised fireplace which offers practical, charcoal broiling service indoors as well as giving beauty and warmth to the room. Next to the fireplace is a black, U-shaped bar of formica which seats six or eight comfortably. This is completely equipped as a small kitchen, with full-sized dishwasher, sink, numerous cupboards, and necessary time-saving appliances.

Central point of interest in the patio is a large, circular fireplace. Patio is accessible from three rooms of the home. Raised garage doors are seen at right.

Raised fireplace, strategically placed next to the bar offers indoor charcoal broiling as well as warming, beautifying room.

The opposite wall of the rumpus room has sliding doors in natural wood which open to a spacious closet and cupboard area, large enough for both temporary and permanent storage.

White leather chairs give a feeling of modern, casual comfort, and the subtle use of treasures picked up from all over the world lend sophistication to the decorating scheme. For example, what seems to be a round black coffee table with distinctive design is, in reality, a replica of an Aztec sacrificial block, and the small center crevice serves as a useful ashtray. Wall decorations, in keeping with the theme of the unusual, consist of swords with historical backgrounds, collected from various countries.

ROCK HAS LONG been used as a wall or fireplace embellishment, but in the Gregory's living room it has become a furniture replacement. A visual dream became a reality when Dr. Gregory hauled huge chunks of rock from the desert and, with it, created a corner stage in the living room. The raised rock platform is large enough not only to hold a couch and coffee table but to provide Japanese-style floor seating space for guests. Furnishings are cut to a minimum, and only pieces which serve a definite purpose are used. An extra-narrow dropleaf table, placed inconspicuously against a similar colored partition can be opened to seat ten when formal entertaining takes place.

Indirect lighting, some hidden in a rock center, is used instead of conventional decoration. A pleasant contrast of feeling is created between the hard rock surfaces and soft carpeting which covers the rest of the floor.

The den is furnished for practical, everyday use. Hanging bookcases, placed above chair level, allow wall space for a couch and end table. An outsized L-shaped desk, made of solid oak, provides a large working area, with two steel file cabinets near at hand.

BECAUSE THE HOME is situated on one side of the lot, the patio area is functional as well as attractive. A large, circular brick fireplace is the central point of interest. Hanging from a rod implanted in the fireplace is a black kettle which once saw service with the Forty-Niners. A quaint grass shack designed by Mrs. Gregory, seen at the far end of the patio, serves as a tool shed. An illusion of depth of the whole area was created in an interesting way: Dr. Gregory raised the perspective of the patio when it was being built, i.e., from the street to the far end of the lot there is a slight upward slant.

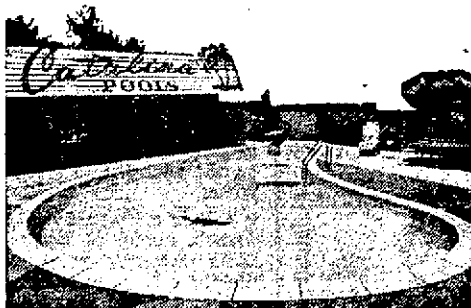

Limited space seems to be a challenge to the creative genius of Dr. Gregory, for future plans include the addition of a powder room, enlarging one bedroom, and making the small remaining portion of back yard into a Roman bath salon!

In conversion of garage to rumpus room, doors were shifted to left and now open with flip of switch to spacious patio area.

BOOK REVIEWS

When an Eccentric Finds Love

LOUISE HALL THARP, author of "The Peabody Sisters of Salem," continues to fill the exciting picture of 19th century New England with "ADVENTUROUS ALLIANCE" (Little, Brown, $5), a book which deserves a place on the bookshelves of every home.

This is a biography of the Agassiz family of Boston — Louis Agassiz, great and slightly eccentric Swiss naturalist, and his gentle wife, Elizabeth Cary. It describes deeds and accomplishments of the pair, and at the same time unfolds a heart-warming love story.

The couple — diverse personalities who achieved a wondrously happy marriage — met in 1847 in Boston when Agassiz was embarked on a lecture tour. He already was world famous for his study of glaciers and fossil fish.

Elizabeth Cary's life had been spent on quiet Temple Place surrounded by Boston bluebloods who, according to legend, talked only to each other and to God. She was catapulted into a household that included not only her high-strung genius husband but his three children by a previous marriage, a variety of helpers, plus fish, snakes and turtles. The young wife found herself in many odd locations, including a dugout canoe on the Amazon.

Two monuments commemorate the pair: Agassiz Museum of Comparative Zoology in Cambridge, and Radcliffe College into which the widow poured much time and devotion.

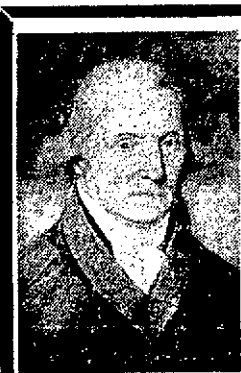

You'll find Louis and Elizabeth Agassiz one of the most interesting and worthwhile couples you have read about in many a New England moon.

"THE MAN AND THE BOOK NOBODY KNOWS" by Bruce Barton (Bobbs-Merrill, $4.50): Something more than a generation ago Bruce Barton, advertising company executive, son of a famed clergyman, wrote "The Man Nobody Knows," about Jesus, and "The Book Nobody Knows," about the Bible. This seems to be the age of rewriting old favorites, so Barton has rewritten the two volumes into one, handy-sized, and aimed for a brand new era. To Bruce Barton, Jesus was not the sad-faced "meek and lowly son of God." He was a red-blooded man, a respected carpenter, a popular dinner guest — he changed water into wine, didn't he? — and a forceful leader who with 12 humble men built an organization that changed the world. Barton touches on important other figures of the Bible, portraying them as men and women facing problems.

REVEALING portraits of leaders of that turbulent era stretching from pre-Revolutionary days to the year 1810, makes a revealing book of "PROSPECTS OF A GOLDEN AGE" (Prentice-Hall, $7.50), by John Dos Passos. One of his word portraits is about George Washington, pictured above as he appeared in his later years.

temptations and feelings akin to our own time. He also analyzes the structure of the Bible, why some books were included, others discarded, and how the whole was translated.

"EASY PREY," by Josephine Bell (Macmillan, $2.95): If, after a near-tragic accident you did a little sleuthing on your own and discovered your babysitter — the girl who occupied your spare room, too — had been sent to prison as a baby-killer, what would you do? That's the problem facing the frantic Rex and Mavis Holmes. The problem is solved, but not until deathly violence enters the scene to practically panic the reader.

"CALAMITY WAS THE NAME FOR JANE," by Glenn Clairmonte Sage Books. 2679 S. York St., Denver 10, $3.75: History pictures Calamity

Jane as a hard-drinking, cigar-smoking, fearless-riding woman of the plains who was a dead shot and physically fit to withstand all manner of hardships — a female with an endless vocabulary of cuss words. This is all true. Mrs. Clairmonte, a Downey writer who also wrote "John Sutter of California," pictures her as a frontierswoman of great kindness and courage whose name was synonymous with trouble and sadness. Born Martha Jane Canary in 1852, she was a sister of the notorious Belle Starr, and she was once married to Wild Bill Hickok. Mrs. Clairmonte has gone into Calamity Jane's life in more detail than any other writer.

"S.O.P.H.I.A." by Pierre Boulle (Vanguard, $3.95): The author of "The Bridge Over the River Kwai" returns to Southeastern Asia in this penetrating novel of lives that go to pieces in the jungle rubber plantations of Malaya. Boulle knows his locals because a few years before World War II, he went to Malaya as a rubber planter. "S.O.P.H.I.A.," or it can be spelled without the periods merely as "Sophia," is Society for the Overseas Promotion of Horticulture, Industry and Agriculture. It dominates the lives of the lonely Europeans surrounded by Asiatic coolies, demands subservience, attempts to control employees' thoughts and even their private lives. Boulle develops his plot with unforgettable characters: Maille, young French engineer who mostly from boredom has an affair with the distraught wife of his superior; M. Chalette, stiff-necked managing director of the company; Jean Dassier, who once lapsed from duty and never is allowed to forget it. Boulle's icy wit, disciplined intellect and masterful story-telling ability are at their best in this, a book practically as good as "Kwai."

ONE OF THE NATION'S leading obstetricians introduces a just-born infant to his mother and the staff who helped him into the world. The doctor is Alan F. Guttmacher, author of "BABIES BY CHOICE OR BY CHANCE" (Doubleday, $4.50), and chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City, and a professor at Columbia Medical School. In his book he discusses population control, contraception, abortion, infertility and artificial insemination.

Crepes With a Touch of Flame

Orange Crepes Suzette will brighten any New Year's party and win a cheer for the hostess. See article below for recipe.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

AMID SHOUTS of Happy New Year, the tooting of horns and the showering of confetti, there can also be some loud cheers for the hostess. Listen for strains of "For She's a Jolly Food Fellow" when the guests are asked, "Orange Crepes Suzette for monsieur et madame?"

A touch from the most elegant and expensive French restaurants is brought to your own entertaining when you serve these delicate little dessert pancakes. Flavored with a festive orange sauce and flamed dramatically, this dessert turns a dinner into an occasion!

And though they sound ultra-fancy, crepes are not difficult to make, particularly when the recipe calls for orange muffin mix!

CREPES SUZETTE is one of those dishes with multiple tales of origin. One gives the honor to a French actress, Suzette, who carried pancakes on stage daily in a play at Comedie Francaise.

Another version credits a court favorite of Edward VII as the Suzette of pancake fame. They say a restaurant chef became flustered at serving royalty and accidentally set the sauce aflame; then quickly named it as a fiery tribute to Mlle. Suzette!

Recipes of famous chefs have called for several liqueurs to be used in the flaming—brandy, Cointreau, Grand Mariner, kirsch or Curacao. Sugar cubes dipped in lemon extract will also flame.

Your crepes will bring you fame, too, whether served at a holiday breakfast or brunch, or as a special dinner dessert.

Orange Crepes Suzette

Beat with rotary beater, 1 envelope Orange Muffin Mix, 2 tbsp. cooking (salad) oil, 2 eggs, and  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup water. Pour batter from tip of spoon into 3-inch pools onto hot griddle. Bake until puffed and full of bubbles, turn and bake on other side. Fold in half or roll up. Keep warm in low oven between towels. Make Orange Sauce (recipe below). Serve 3 or 4 crepes on each plate with some of the sauce. Five to six servings.

Orange Sauce: Melt  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter in skillet or chafing dish. Blend in 3 tbsp. sugar,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup orange juice and 1 tbsp. grated orange rind over low heat. Add  $\frac{3}{4}$  to 1 cup fresh orange sections (3 oranges).

Beauty Added

Port of Spain, Trinidad, a tourist magnet in the Caribbean, is to become even more beautiful in the next year, according to the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board.

The city will spend $10,000 to add trees, benches, fences and other beauty spots to the many parks and squares throughout the metropolis. In addition, there will be a new municipal tennis court, a new playground and wide improvements in sidewalks and other amenities.

Recently completed is an intensive street-lighting project which has provided the main streets of Port of Spain with brilliant, modern illumination.

New Year's

A few minutes later my wife called me into the kitchen for a conference. "It's just awful," she said. "All the women are in one corner talking like mad, and the men are out in the rumpus room telling stories. No one's playing games or anything. What'll we do?"

"Leave everybody alone," I said. "They're happy. Let's join them."

I was in a heated discussion with Tarzan about Washington's chances in the Rose Bowl, when I felt a tap on my shoulder.

"It's ten of twelve, dear," said my wife still trying to get back on schedule. "Here are noisemakers and hats for your group. And a glass of punch."

AT MIDNIGHT there was a short bedlam of horn blowing, wife-kissing, more horn blowing, and Happy New Year wishes.

At 1 o'clock the bell on the kitchen range sounded. My wife stood up and asked if anyone was hungry.

"Starved!" everyone agreed.

The cold ham, baked beans, rolls and coffee disappeared in a matter of minutes.

"Best party I've ever been to," said Bo Peep. "But we haven't sung yet!"

Tarzan and his mate seconded the motion and everyone gathered around the piano. It got a little noisy, so I closed all the windows. As we were singing "Little Grass Shack" the harem girl did a hula—which brought forth requests for dance music, so the singing stopped. I saw my wife glance at her watch and shake her head slightly as she put on a stack of records.

Maybe it's because I've never mastered Latin dancing with French maids, but along about four a.m. I began to feel my age. I guess Harry—good old Harry—felt the same way, for he was the first to suggest that the party break up, with a cup of coffee for the road. By 4:30 all the guests had left after assuring us that they'd never had so much fun before. I went into the kitchen to help my wife straighten things up.

"WELL, I SEE the punch is all gone," I said. "How about a little brandy night-cap for the two of us. I feel surprisingly clear-headed." I went to the cupboard in the dining room where the Special Occasion bottle was kept. Pushing aside three unopened bottles of vodka, I picked up the brandy, then nearly dropped it when a startling revelation hit me: I had completely forgotten to add that certain ingredient to the punch which had apparently contributed so much to the gaiety of the evening. It had contained nothing stronger than ginger ale.

I poured two small glasses of brandy, and toasted my wife, "Happy New Year, darling!" I said. "Ha-a-a-py New Year!"

There are some things a man can't tell even his wife or his best friends.

"I have asked a friend to buy me a good wrist watch when he visits Switzerland. Can you tell me a good make and approximate cost? Round model, water and shock proof, steel case?"

YOU SHOULD be able to get a good man's watch for about $30 (the U. S. price would be about double). If you get the self-winding kind, it is not as shock-proof. Drop it on the floor and the winder usually breaks and costs about $25 to fix it.

The works for practically ALL Swiss watches are made in one town that specializes in this work. The difference in price is the casing which is done by the manufacturer. Since Swiss watches are highly competitive, the price will be about the same for the same quality watch.

In the bracket above, Omega and Rolex are well-known names. The Gubelin firm makes a handsome watch at about this price. The self-winding type are about $60. Prices go up mainly when you get gold casing.

"Can we get a good guide book to Hawaii?"

I know a couple are in the works. But at present island guides have not been very good. Best I've seen so far is a new one put out by the AAA—you have to be a member to get it, but it is free. Where to shop, driving, hotels, etc.

"A warm winter resort, but INSIDE the United States..."

I LIKE Phoenix, Ariz., and Palm Springs, Calif. Prices are fairly stiff in the plush resort hotels in the winter season. But there are motels where you can do all right. Chambers of Commerce in both places will send you a pile of literature and airlines run specially priced trips into both.

The restaurants in both towns are excellent. Days are warm (but nights are likely to be chilly—so bring an overcoat).

"The hotel rates in Europe seem terribly high..."

Right. In the major capitals, you can always find the national tourist bureau.

They will give you a list of medium-priced hotels and pensions (that's a guest house; what we used to call a boarding house, but you'll find them quite nice).

One suggestion: Americans always demand a private bathroom. If you'll forget that and use the bathroom in the hall (as the Europeans do), the price will come way down. It's not such a hardship as you think. Walking is good for you.

"Any suggestions for shopping in Mexico?"

One of the BEST shopping countries. Prices are high in the tourist sections of Mexico City. But you can get everything made in the republic in that town.

I would strongly recommend this book: "In Mexico, Where to Look, How to Buy, Mexican Popular Arts and Crafts." By James Norman. Published by Morrow. Price $4.50—and worth all of that. An excellent, easy-to-read study of just what it says it is.

The Going Is Tough

YOU CAN put it down as a leadpipe cinch that this and next weekends will be the heaviest the commercial carriers have ever experienced in this country.

So? So, if you're wanting to travel somewhere — back home after a holiday visit to the Southland, or make a trip at this time—your chances are practically nil. Unless you have been smart and made a reservation well in advance.

Authority for this statement comes from none other than the National Association of Travel Organizations, which represents all segments of the U. S. travel industry. NATO says airlines, bus companies, railways and steamship companies have marshalled all their equipment to provide hundreds of thousands of extra seats to insure that as few people as possible will be disappointed in transportation arrangements.

"Even then," said a reliable travel agent in Long Beach, "the supply of seats will not begin to catch up with the demand for several days after the first of the year. Possibly about Jan. 6 will see conditions begin to loosen up.

There are reasons for this, of course. The fact that Christmas and New Year's fell on Friday provided an obvious inducement for people to travel to see cherished relatives and friends at the most festive of all seasons—simply because they would have more time together. For those without strong family ties or who simply like a change of scene, the Christmas and New Year's weekends offered more time for activities.

Haven for Hefty

Kiowa Lodge on the shores of Lake Elsinore has won nationwide acclaim as a haven for the hefty — overweight womenfolk, that is: a place where they can go to get away from table temptation and shed excess bulges that do nothing for their figures.

Sid Stoller, who took over the establishment in September, is continuing the fine reducing program begun some years ago by his predecessor, Sam Dictor, ex-Michigan State footballer. Careful attention to diet and exercise, with reference to years and physical condition, and an interesting program make up the lure of Kiowa—and it's an all-woman resort as far as the guests are concerned. Many famous personalities have been reducing guests there, but prices have been kept moderate.

And don't forget—the airlines haven't — that holiday celebrants may travel farther this year not only because they have more time, but also because the new jets—flown by an increasing number of airlines to an increasing number of destinations—take them farther more quickly.

Railways serving Southern California—as always—have added heavily to their facilities to serve visitors attracted here by such attractions as the Rose Bowl parade and game at Pasadena. The Rail Travel Promotion Agency says that family groups are taking advantage of family fare plan savings, plus reduced dining car costs on many railroads.

So? So, if you're stuck and can't get where you're wanting to go for a few days, don't blame the carriers. They're doing their best. Blame yourself for not making your advance reservations, and having those reservations verified.

THE SAN DIEGO to Acapulco Yacht Race, with 40-odd entries, will put San Diego's midwinter yachting season off to a spectacular start on Jan. 17. Classified as one of the major yachting events of the year, this one draws entries from the entire Pacific Coast area. Best vantage points for spectators are the high bluffs of Point Loma or from spectator excursion boats which follow the yachts to their starting positions.

ROME, WHERE tourist facilities are often heavily taxed, already is booked to capacity for the 17th Olympic Games next Aug. 25-Sept. 10, says Al Beach of C. F. Beach Travel Service. Beach checked the situation carefully while in the Italian capital on a world travel survey flight.

IF YOU'RE shopping around for vacation ideas, and time and money are complicating factors, Scandinavian Airlines System has one answer with a Caribbean Circle Tour, a 19-day air cruise of island and mainland Edens for a deposit of only $68.90. Traveling via Guest Airways, veteran of the Caribbean area, you roam through Port of Spain, San Juan, Havana, Port-au-Prince, and even Caracas, Venezuela's modern capital, and Kingston, in a tropical setting. Mexico, too, including Mexico City and Acapulco. Your travel agent will give you the details.

GOING PLACES by the Sloanes

SHOULD YOU feel frustrated by what looks like a limited selection of budget choices on your winter vacation menu, here are some encouraging facts to indicate that costs are not always what they seem.

There are no less than seven classes of service available on scheduled airlines, involving 12 groups of fares. Between New York and Miami alone there are six—four of them coach. The deluxe first class jets cost almost 2½ times as much as the cheapest overnight flights.

The railroads in every part of the country offer a langle of tariffs and special fares that it would be hopeless to go into here. Traveling abroad, there is even more variety.

Besides round-trip discounts and excursion packages, all airline and some steamship tickets allow for free stopovers at ports of call along their routes. All you do is buy a ticket from your starting point to your farthest stop and live it up in between anywhere the carrier can take you.

THE BOOM in the airline business has led to some little-known competitive gimmicks that betoken savings for travelers. The snubbing of the International Air Transport Association by some hard-driving new airlines, particularly in Latin America, has resulted in fare wars subsidized by the various governments.

Another factor in air travel is the supplemental and charter carriers who are prospering on price conscious travelers.

ALL RESORTS need not be expensive. The best draw the most people and competition works wonders. It's frequently less expensive at the mecca than at the inns along the road.

Every resort has its fine hotels, others that would be fine by less demanding standards and still others that simply pale in all this reflected glory. In each there is a spread in quality, of accommodations and rates that ultimately offer the visitor wide selection.

THE CANNY shopper will find that some rooms are cheaper because they face the street instead of the sea or the shade instead of the sun, or because — poor things — they have no balconies.

He's quite likely to find the best available in the older places is better and cheaper than the bottom of the barrel at the glamour spot he thought he could squeeze into his budget.

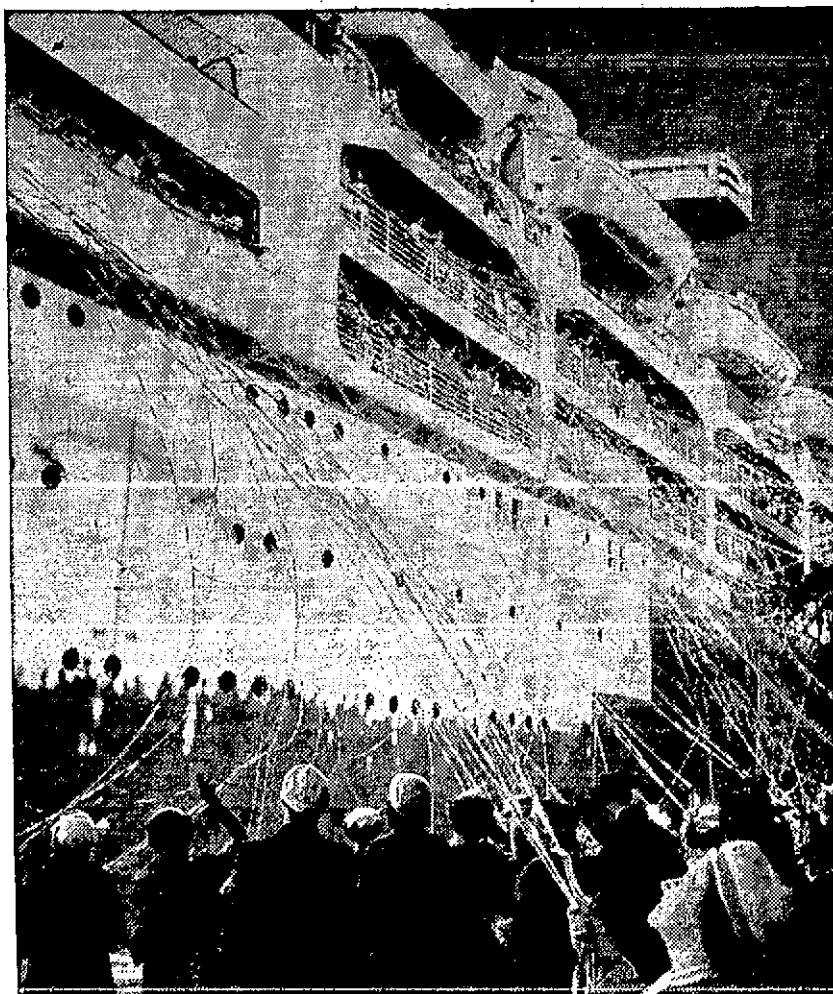

And almost any place he may be delighted to find a room with a kitchenette that will pay off with enough savings, not to mention the satisfaction of home cooking.

All he has to do is ask the right questions about transportation and accommodations first.

Should you have children not in school it may cost you less to take them. What with family plans, half-price tickets for small children on the carriers and the nominal additional charge for hotel rooms, the cost of taking them can be less than that of feeding and having them cared for at home.

Sailing from Los Angeles January 21!

Two-week cruise to Mexico and Hawaii—from just $19 a day!

Here is Orient & Pacific's most exciting cruise of the winter season. Seventeen golden days on S.S. ORONSAY—the largest cruise liner in the Pacific. Calls at romantic Acapulco, Hilo and Honolulu. All for less than you'd spend at a resort hotel at home!

THIS sparkling Orient & Pacific cruise is like three vacations rolled into one. A visit to Mexico. A vacation in Hawaii. And a delightful English holiday at sea!

Your itinerary

You board Orient & Pacific's 28,000-ton ORONSAY in Los Angeles on Thursday evening, January 21.

After a weekend at sea, dancing, swimming and meeting new people, you arrive in Acapulco Monday morning for a day and night of shopping and sightseeing.

Next, your course is westward across the Pacific to Hawaii. You have a day in Hilo (Feb. 1) and the following day and night in Honolulu. You return to Los Angeles on February 7 in time for Sunday dinner. Your fare—as little as $330.

What your fare includes

Orient & Pacific liners are the largest in the Pacific. They offer you a choice of comfortable accommodations—in either tourist class or first class. Each class has its own swimming pool, wide reaches of open decks for sun and sports, orchestra, and cafés. Each offers great meals prepared by chefs trained on the Continent, brilliant entertainment, and the sparkling service of English stewards.

If you want to take a cruise and spare your budget, go tourist! The main differences between the two classes are that the cabins (all air-conditioned) are somewhat smaller, the atmosphere more informal, and you save more on the fare by going tourist.

You can do the whole cruise for as little as $330 tourist class, $440 first class!

How to Shoot Your Pet

Pretty kitty poses for Walter Chandoha and is an example of photographs which have won him recognition on national scale.

By The Shutterbug

ABOUT THIS time each year, I rediscover why Walter Chandoha is the nation's top photographer of cats and dogs. The annual Cats and Dogs Calendar published by the Berkshire Press of Cambridge, Mass. recently made its appearance. During 1960 Chandoha's cats and dogs will pop up every week in new poses to remind us how appealing pet pictures can be.

Despite a file of more than 30,000 cat pictures and 10,000 dog photos, Chandoha still keeps shooting new pictures. He even has enlisted the help of his friends in Huntington, Long Island, who keep him posted on all expected litters in the area, so he will have plenty of new kitten and puppy subjects.

HERE ARE a few Chandoha pointers for better pet pictures:

Know the animal's usual routine and take advantage of the time when it is normally playful, sleepy or eating. Each of these activities makes interesting pictures and it can be entirely natural action. Set up your camera at the spot in advance and be ready for the moment. If the particular spot is bad photographically, see if you can't arrange a more attractive or cosier spot for the pet.

For action pictures, an assistant can be very helpful while your attention is on camera handling. Your wife or child can act as handler, distracter, as a barricade to escape, or as retriever.

Take advantage of a pet's curiosity about a new toy or object or a lure tied to a string which is dragged slowly across the scene.

Make strange sounds

vocally or by crumpling some cellophane in the hands and be prepared to catch the instant of alertness if the strategy is successful.

USE TID-BITS of food as an inducement. Smear some on objects to get an animal's momentary attention and be ready to shoot the reaction.

Chandoha readily admits that on some occasions all forms of strategy fail to produce a good picture. Put the equipment away and try again another time, he advises.

"With patience, a few of the tricks mentioned, and lots of shooting when the animals are cooperative," he assured me, "most camera fans will wind up with pet photos they'll be proud of."

PET PARADE

Much More Than a Houn' Dawg

By Eleanor Avery Price

IT IS OFTEN said that a dog offers a clue to the personality of its owner. If this is true, then one might well wonder what in the world Mrs. Clarice Gill, owner of the Gilclar Kennels, 1509 E. 53rd St., is doing with a yardful of five generations of basset hounds unless, beneath the mournful miens and properly dolorous attitudes of her pets, there exists sparks of genuine gaiety, not to say a few twinkles in their eyes. Mrs. Gill is about as gloomy as a lovely spring morning.

Still, to Mrs. Gill, who has been breeding bassets in this area longer than any other person, bassets are her pals just as they are the pals of an ever increasing number of happy people. It seems that many dog shows bench an entry of around 50 or so. And, just for the record, the basset's appearance of down-faced resignation is really just great dignity, a mighty nice characteristic in any dog. The basset also had a heart of gold and a great deal of individual personality.

ALTHOUGH HIS running gear is crooked (never out at the elbows) and his body is long, low, and heavy, the bas-set is every inch a worker. He really enjoys hunting even though he is moderately slow. Many sportsmen appreciate this slowness for they can keep up with the dog and follow him easily. They also appreciate his value in going into dense cover. The basset is second only to the bloodhound for his nose. The heavy

Owners of bassets who are obedience-minded have a bit of a problem. A basset never gets ruffled, he keeps his mind pretty much on the business at hand, and his memory is good. Usually he is particularly fine at the long down (the longer the better), and he does very well heeling. But the sight of the hurdle and the broadjump used in advanced training causes the hound's face to fall into further gloom.

It isn't the going-over that upsets him, for he has powerful springing muscles (witness the number of pet bassets that lounge on their owners' beds). It's the coming down that isn't any fun. Although he has gristly packed phalangeal bones (front paws) the diameter of coffee cups, his front legs simply are not made to take the shock of landing his heavy body. So, until rules regarding height and breadth of jumps are better regulated for the basset, there will be no U. D. tacked onto your dog's name unless you are gifted with unlimited patience and the ham in your basset overcomes his better judgment.

The name "basset" is derived from a French word, "bas," which means close to the ground.

NEW OFFICERS of Lake-wood Dog Obedience Club are Joe DeBeck, president; Carl Rinebarger, first vice president; Dick Van Horne, second vice president; Barbara Popina, secretary, and Ruth Morrison, treasurer.

resistance in releasing him from the trap, there is trouble.

One or two monsters loose in the boat means a lot of fast work for us. One must move fast and keep the captive on defense, ripping loose tentacles with hooks in both hands and using our feet as well.

We let only one octopus escape in two months and this was when two got loose in the boat in rough water.

In such instances, we make a run for shore to fight them on shore or at least in shallow water.

We had to destroy one octopus. This fellow had set all his tentacles on hold places in the boat, some difficult to get at. One tentacle was wrapped around Ben's arm drawing blood. We had to kill the octopus with knives.

THE USUAL TOURIST awaits our return, with cameras ready to record

Santa Anita

Santa Anita also has introduced a major share of the inventions and innovations that have marked racing progress.

The photo finish, magnetic control starting gate, jockey crash helmets, on-grounds parking areas, newspaper graded handicaps and public address system for calling the races all were introduced by the Arcadia track.

PERHAPS THE most fantastic innovation, however, is the one Santa Anita put into use last year. To dry a muddy racing strip, the track now uses a jet airplane engine mounted on a truck. The exhaust from this engine provides a mechanical version of a warm desert wind and the track is dried.

But racing fans probably have less concern for the jockeys, horses and inventions than they do for their fellow bettor, a partner in the all-out war to "beat the races."

Something of an all-time Santa Anita hero is the unknown horse soldier who last year made a $5 win wager on a horse named Silver Dust, who won at odds of 112-1.

This person never cashed his ticket. "He probably lost it," the track explains.

transferring the catch from the captive box to live boxes. Each octopus is placed in a separate compartment of the live box and held overnight in fast moving clean water before slaughter.

Octopuses are handled by the head, all fast handling. The idea is to catch them unawares.

If the beast can entangle a person in its tentacles sufficiently to bring any part of the person under its body at the point where the tentacles meet, it can bite with its beak.

An octopus beak is as sharp as a parrot beak and several times longer.

The octopus has three hearts. The ink sack, as large as a good-sized plum, has a substance so potent that when dispensed in water it blackens an area 15 feet square.

The octopus uses this as a means to escape. The glands are shipped to a Southern California university for use in cancer research. The eyes are round, pinkish in color, the size of a large marble. The magnifying quality of the eyes is startling. When the octopus eye is placed over fine print, the print is magnified many times.

THE MALE OCTOPUS is distinguished from the female by the second left tentacle which does not have suction cups.

An octopus can change its color from red to dirty orange.

After an octopus is killed, its tentacles move for hours, searching for a hold spot and the beak grinds in biting fashion long after it has been taken from the body.

The slaughtered octopuses are transported in iced containers. Upon arrival at the market the octopus is run through a heavy sand bath water to remove the slime, then skinned, exposing white, clean meat. The tentacles, body and inside of the head that has the appearance of a white hood eventually become fritters and chowder.

$36 a Day

A motorist and his wife vacationing in the U. S. by auto will average $36 a day, the American Automobile Association says. Driving 300 miles per day, they will spend $9 on car operation, $10 on meals, $9 on lodging, $1.50 on tips, $2 on tolls or admissions $4.50 for souvenirs and incidentals.

Planters Add a Note of Beauty

ONE OF the outstanding advances in architecture is business men's awareness of the value of having plants in front of cold, cement building walls and commercial display windows to add a touch of the garden. Where practicable, planter boxes adjoining the wall of a building, or raised beds walled in by retaining walls, serve as excellent areas for shrubs, or low growing plants, or plants that blossom for long periods of time.

Some of the plantings may be low shrubs that tend to sprawl and cascade over the wall. Others might be bushy. In some cases, roses or camellias are used for lots of color.

Be that as it may, the soil needs to be well prepared for these specific areas due to confinement of roots, rapid drying, and heat reflection from south or west exposures.

Drainage must be good. The soil should contain some organic mulch material that tends to hold moisture but has some body to it. An outdoor type planter mix and mulch, or organic-humus material should be mixed with the soil, using two parts of the mixture with three parts soil.

Homes, too, often have outdoor planters that are a unit part of the house wall. The same soil preparations are needed for these, too.

Narrow areas call for small-size plants to grow within the planting area, whereas larger areas accommodate larger plants. One of the interesting narrow planter box plantings we saw in front of a beauty shop was Sansevieria. Usually, these "snake" plants are treated as indoor house plants, and seemingly thrive on neglect. In this particular case, they were growing outdoors in front of the window in an east exposure where the sun shone on them for three hours or so a day. Yet, the plants were thriving.

Had larger plants been set there, they would have looked out of place, would have outgrown their space and would have needed to be butched back with hedge shears. As it is, the sansevierias looked neat and trim.

THERE ARE two floribunda roses we believe would take west or south wall exposures and should prove colorfully attractive. One of them is Circus, a multi-colored rose. Properly fed, it should produce flowers almost the year round. The other is Garnet, small, double and deep red in color. We've been told several times, the flowers last almost a week when cut for bouquet.

Shrubs like Xylosma with their shiny green leaves and arching branches, and Abelia grandiflora with arching branches, bronzy foliage and white, bell-shaped flowers blooming throughout the summer, are husky shrubs growing five to six feet. They tolerate hot south and west exposure, too.

Two of the low growing shrubs that spread and cascade are prostrate Rosemary, and Carissa the Natal plum. Of these two sun loving plants, prostrate Rosemary stands more cold, develops sturdier roots, gets by on less water, and furnishes foliage for condimental use.

Frequent foliage baths during the hot summer months cleans the foliage, also discourages pests from setting up housekeeping areas on these plants.

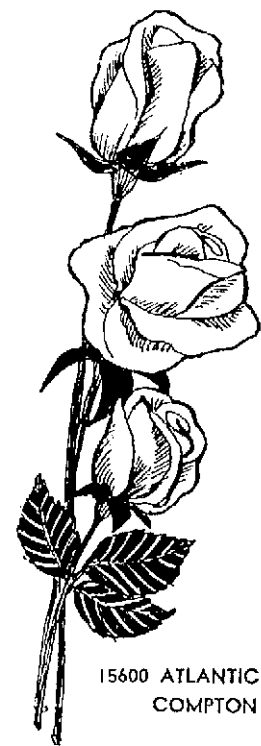

Because the plants are in a prominent area, they'll need more attention as to pruning.

By Dorothy Jonson

Dormant or winter spraying has become a practice throughout the entire country. It was begun by our grandfathers who knew the importance of spraying to prevent insect life and fungus which would be otherwise bound to materialize with the first warm days of spring.

Science has advanced and we have materials that can be safely used after plant life has begun to function and the tender little new leaves begin to come out. There is a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion complete in one bottle that requires only the addition of water to make a perfect spray. It is safe to use as a clean-up spray later, but it is also the finest thing you can possibly use as a dormant spray if you follow this long-established custom. Choose a suitable day anytime through the dormant season. Watch the weather reports so that you don't get your spray on trees and shrubs just before you have a frost. Cleanliness is as important in the garden as it is in the home.

 Roll Out That Carpet

RED CARPET treatment?
 Of course. But that's not all the customers get at Forest Smith's Clover Room, 4132 Woodruff Ave., near Carson St.

In addition to equipping the restaurant with a swank wall-to-wall red carpet, new owner Smith has completely redecorated the place with nine large red booths, five new tables, gold-framed mirrors, tall modern lamps and polished wood paneling.

Formerly known as Pat's, the Clover Room was purchased by restaurateur Smith several months ago. He and his general manager, Dale Awalt, spent many weeks on the redecorating project, working out a design which insures maximum convenience, comfort and excellent service for their patrons. Long known to the dining-out public, Smith has operated numerous Southland restaurants during the last 20 years. Besides the Clover Room, he currently owns the El Pescador, Lancers and Orangefair in Orange County.

THE NEW MENU at the Clover Room offers a complete dinner section that deserves rave notices. These dinners, priced from $1.60 up, are very generous and skillfully prepared. Included are soup du jour, crisp salads served in tremendous individual wooden bowls, potatoes, French bread, beverage, and large helpings of ice cream or sherbet. Among the entrees are broiled top sirloin with onion rings, $2.95; veal scallopini au marsala, $2; chicken fried steak, country gravy, $1.75; roast tom turkey, $1.95, and swordfish steak with lemon butter, $1.70.

The a la carte side of the menu includes top sirloin, $2.75; chef's special steak sandwich, $2; fish and chips, $1.35, and shrimp and scallops, both $1.50. The entrees are accompanied by soup or salad, French fries or baked potatoes. All are delicious.

MAO vs. KHRUSHCHEV

Mao and Khrushchev appeared somber at Peiping parade last October marking Chinese revolution.

THE BIG

by JACK ANDERSON

Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

NO QUESTION MARK casts a more challenging shadow over the 1960s, the decade into which we step next Friday, than that rising out of Red China. The free world's statesmen are peering anxiously through the bamboo curtain for clues to the future. Across the somber steppes of Siberia the Russians, too, are watching their Chinese comrades with suspicion.

In this country our best brains have been concentrating on the Chinese question mark. Searching studies have been made by such "brain factories" as the RAND Corporation for the Defense Department and Conlon Associates for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The State Department has assigned its ablest analysts to scrutinize every available fact about China. Here are some of the chilling conclusions at which these experts have arrived:

- The Chinese population, now at 650 million, should hit the billion mark during the 1960s. Their comrade-in-chief, Mao Tse-tung, is willing to sacrifice 325 million of them for victory over the West.

- Those who don't die for the state will be forced to work as slaves of the state. Already millions have been herded into vast slave labor camps called communes. By sheer manpower, Mao hopes to catapult China into the industrial age.

- Although Mao's "great leap forward" recently has taken a backward direction, the experts agree the setback is only temporary. They predict not only that the Chinese will pull themselves up by their sandal straps but that their rise will be the most spectacular the world has ever seen.

Tightening the Grip

- Mao has tightened the Communist vise upon China. For a short spell he relaxed discipline and promised freedom of expression. "Let 100 flowers blossom" was his phrase. But when the flowers sprouted anti-Communist thorns, out came the sickle to hack them down and the hammer to pound them into the earth.

- The Chinese Caesar is aggressively spreading his influence beyond China's borders at the expense of his Soviet allies and his own people. He is accepting Soviet aid with one hand, doling out Chinese aid with the other. The balance sheet shows that he has distributed more aid than he has collected. Yet 40 crowded Chinese cities face famine this winter.

- Mao is stirring up his own subversion around the world. He has shipped American weapons, captured in Korea, to rebel groups as far away as North Africa and Latin America. He is even recruiting un-decover agents, organizing spy networks, and subsidizing extremist movements outside his Asian sphere.

Such activity is in direct competition with Russia, which has always controlled the Communist tentacles throughout the world. Mao's assignment from Moscow was merely to win Asia over to communism. He not only stretched his mission beyond the Far East, but his converts look to Peiping for the party line. In Iraq and Algeria rival Communist groups are torn between Peiping and Moscow.

Outwardly, of course, blustering Nikita Khrushchev and bland Mao Tse-tung preserve the facade of friendship. Both are committed to the Marxist dogma of comradeship and solidarity. But all their statements of mutual support cannot disguise the fact that serious differences divide the two titans of communism.

There is a clash of personalities as much as of policies. Revolutionary though Mao may be, his manners are those of a Confucian scholar, and he regards Khrushchev's behavior as barbaric. He also looks upon Khrushchev as an upstart in the Communist movement, a mere bureaucrat who licked Stalin's boots before he inherited them. Mao organized and led his own revolution, including the arduous "Long March" into the Chinese hinterlands, with little help from Russia.

Conflict of Interests

Khrushchev, for his part, is impatient with the implacable Mao, whom he distrusts and dislikes. So long as China is largely dependent on Russia for her military and technical progress, Khrushchev believes Mao should take orders from the font of real power: the Kremlin.

But Mao, who has stubbornly refused to accept satellite status, made two moves in 1958 that caused consternation in the Kremlin.

First, he adopted the commune concept that had been originated by Trotsky, and had become heresy in Communist dogma. Khrushchev himself had taken the reverse line by giving more freedom to Russia's farmers. Yet Mao plunged ahead with the experiment in defiance of the Kremlin chief.

Second, Mao gave silent encouragement to the Stalinists whom Khrushchev had driven out of the Kremlin. Molotov, the ringleader, was banished to Outer Mongolia, a geographical error that put him within easy commuting distance of Peiping.

It was to break up this axis and to check on the communes that Khrushchev hurried to Peiping in the summer of 1958. What he learned about Mao's ambitions gave him a severe jolt. He saw in the communes and in Mao's ruthless discipline a determination to overtake Soviet production.

For three days the pair bickered behind closed doors. They emerged scratching each other's back. Mao paid formal homage to Khrushchev's leadership and agreed to withdraw his nose from Kremlin politics. Khrushchev, in exchange, recognized Mao's right to take his own "road to socialism." They agreed that Russian and Chinese communism should not meddle in each other's internal affairs. For a movement that has blindly followed the Moscow line, this was a revolutionary dictum indeed. The effect was to raise China from satellite to commonwealth status.

Russian expert shows Chinese how machinery works. Russians now fear Chinese may outstrip them.

Mao's latest intransigence began after Khrushchev and Eisenhower agreed to exchange visits. The Chinese leader had used Uncle Sam as the Big, Bad Imperialist to scare his own people into more sacrifice and to extract more military aid from Russia. The idea of an East-West thaw did not appeal to him at all.

Pouting in Asia, Mao gave only lukewarm endorsement to the exchange idea, the minimum that Communist etiquette demanded. He left to Chen Yi, a lowly man on the Chinese Communist totem pole, the task of commenting coolly that the Ike-Nikita talks "might decrease tension." Students asked whether it was a good idea to permit President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon to "spread lies" over the Communist radio. This open challenge to Khrushchev's judgment was broadcast over Radio Peiping.

There is a suspicion, too, that Mao had something to do with timing the Red guerrilla forays into Laos. That the guerrillas began stirring up trouble on the eve of Khrushchev's departure for Washington could have been Mao's way of clouding Nikita's glory.

The dispute with India over a few hundred square miles of uninhabitable mountain top was clearly Mao's doing. It almost upset the Kremlin's painstaking efforts to keep India neutral. Perhaps the Chinese were trampling on Soviet-Indian relations to drive a better bargain with the Kremlin. More likely, Mao hoped to blow a cold wind from the high Himalayas upon the mellow climate Khrushchev was creating below.

For the first time in any border dispute, Khrushchev failed to support his Communist ally. He said: "We regret the incidents on the Indian-Chinese frontier and we hope they will not be repeated. We hope the difficulties will be solved by negotiation."

He discovered how frustrating negotiations with Mao can be, even for a comrade, at their second summit session in Peiping in October, on the anniversary of the Red Chinese revolution. Khrushchev sought Mao's agreement to cooperate in reducing world tensions and to abandon the commune system.

When the two men came down from the summit, it was apparent that Khrushchev had been rebuffed. They failed to issue a joint communique, a significant departure from Communist custom. At the airport

Khrushchev attempted to bid goodbye to Mao with comradely effusion. But his enigmatic host pretended not to see him. Khrushchev made a second approach but again Mao gazed ostentatiously into space. Only on the third try did the Oracle of Communism succeed in shaking Mao's hand.

What happened thereafter has been pieced together by our intelligence experts. Khrushchev stopped in Siberia for an unscheduled visit, a clear hint to Mao that Russia has a big stake in the Far East and might choose to make it her own sphere of influence.

Back in Peiping, Premier Chou En-lai reminded his chief that China desperately needs Soviet military and economic help. Mao relented and sent Khrushchev a conciliatory note that reportedly agreed to make peace with India and to avoid rocking the international boat while Nikita was navigating. But the note also refused to renounce the use of force over Formosa, maintaining this was an internal—not an international—affair.

Brother vs. Brother

The struggle between Khrushchev and Mao has not ended. But an open break between the two men does not seem imminent. Both have too much need for the Sino-Soviet partnership.

Because of their success in space and their surging economy, the Russians have got their tails up. They say that their superior strength will keep China in line. Yet in Russia today there is a growing uneasiness that the little brother to the east might become big brother in the years ahead. The vast, fertile, empty Siberian steppes must look like green pastures indeed to China's bursting population.

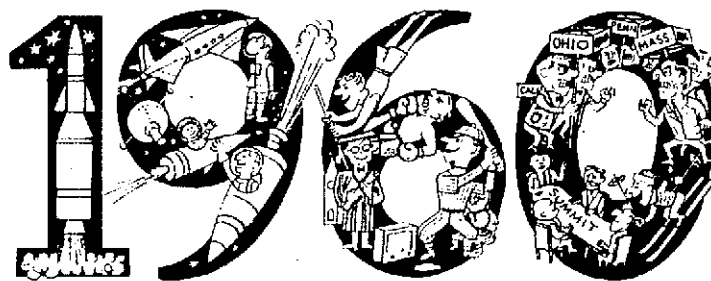

The awakening giant on the Soviet eastern frontier, however, may menace more than her neighbors. A disciplined, organized, and industrialized China, with vast natural resources and almost limitless manpower, might set out to conquer the world.

Some experts look for a revival of the Soviet-U.S. partnership that stopped the German and Japanese in World War II.

Whatever lies ahead in the 1960s, the experts agree that the question mark over China will straighten out into an exclamation point!

What chance
you'll have twins?

If your baby's eyes cross very often after he's six months old, don't assume he'll outgrow it; tell your doctor. Eye muscle control develops at different ages, but most six-month-olds can focus those bright eyes straight at you most of the time. It's nice to know that certain visual difficulties can be corrected quite easily—with prompt attention—in baby's earliest years.

Nature normally cleans your little one's eyes without help, but you can safely clean eyelid corners. Use moist cotton, wiping outward from the inside corner. Remember that baby's eyes need practice—plenty of new and interesting things to look at. But when you hang "look toys" over a baby's crib, keep them at arm's length from his eyes.

One good turn deserves another! When baby masters the roll-over trick, he can flip over faster than you can catch him. Your big bed isn't safe, but baby considers his crib too confining. So now's when he'll happily spend time in his play pen.

How does it happen that Heinz develops so many "Firsts" in baby foods? Exclusive flavors such as Junior Egg Noodles and Beef; Spaghetti, Tomato Sauce and Meat; Vegetables and Ham; Vegetables, Egg Noodles and Chicken (or Turkey)? One reason is the expert way Heinz scientists and chefs work together in Heinz magnificent new Research Center to create tasty and nutritious recipes for your baby. Using ultramodern facilities, they develop the kind of food your baby loves, with quality you can trust.

What else are Heinz Baby Foods' new screw-cap jars good for—aside from being such a cinch to open and reseal? "They're great," writes a Connecticut mother, "to fill with Christmas gift preserves, little one-meal servings of homemade jams and marmalades. Hooray for Heinz for bringing screw-cap jars to baby foods!" Heinz was first—now has most baby foods in screw-cap jars.

Safety is your first concern for baby's first Christmas tree (and all those to follow!). Make sure you get a fireproofed tree and a sturdy non-tip stand. See that lights and electric sockets are in good condition. Keep breakable ornaments off low branches—where baby might be tempted to taste them!

Teach your baby to like many vegetables—it's so easy to get in a rut and serve the same few favorites. Here's a partial list of delicious Heinz Strained Vegetables—has your baby tried them all? Squash, Creamed Spinach, Creamed Peas, Green Beans, Carrots, Sweet Potatoes, Beets, for example.

Twins occur once in every 90 pregnancies. Your chance of having twins is greater if you're in your late thirties, if you've already had several children, or if you or your husband have twins in the family. In the United States, about 125 sets of twins are born every day.

- Government doctors will develop new methods for measuring radioactive deposits in the human body.
- A remarkable new drug for relieving premenstrual tension will be announced.

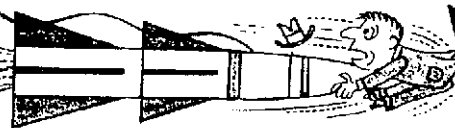

- After the year's fiercest debate, Congress will close many tax loopholes and reduce the tax rate slightly. Worst hit will be businessmen's expense accounts and industries with special tax privileges. Congress also will refuse to increase the gas tax to pay for the President's road-building program.
- The Air Force will attempt to launch a Sarnos satellite, which can keep an electronic eye on Russia from space.

- The Air Force will attempt to fire the first intercontinental Titan missile from an underground hiding place.
- The old giants will dominate college football. Among them: Ohio State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Iowa, Auburn, Southern California.
- The Russians will announce for the first time that they have built not one but ten atomic submarines.

- The Air Force will attempt to fire its first full-range Minuteman missile, the push-button missile that can be triggered almost instantaneously.
- The old year will go out amid revelry, a still-uneasy world peace, a host of vexing new problems—and quite possibly, without some of the predictions listed here coming true. Just for fun, save these pages, and see how many do.

THE PEOPLE VS. CARYL CHESSMAN

Why is he still alive? Seven times he has been slated for the gas chamber and seven times been reprieved

by LLOYD SHEARER

Parade West Coast correspondent

SAN QUENTIN, CALIF.

THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA is burning with a mounting fever to gas Caryl Chessman to death.

Caryl Chessman, 38, habitual and dangerous criminal since the age of 15, sentenced to die in 1948, is trying desperately not to.

Eleven years ago, armed with a gun and flashing a red spotlight on his car, the same type of spotlight used on police vehicles, he robbed a young woman of five dollars, forced her to commit an immoral act. Three nights later, without robbery, he committed the same act with another woman. He denies both crimes. "My whole criminal record," he told me defiantly, "is one of robbery—not sexual depravity."

It is because he sexually mistreated these two females that the State of California is tenaciously determined to exterminate Caryl Chessman.

Ever since 1948, this man who has spent more than half his life in California jails—intelligent, literary, self-taught in the law—has brilliantly used every available legal means trying to win a new trial. He has written three published books on his plight, declaiming his innocence: Cell 2455, Death Row, The Face of Justice, and Trial by Ordeal.

In the process, he has made his one of the most widely publicized and most litigated criminal cases in the history of American jurisprudence.

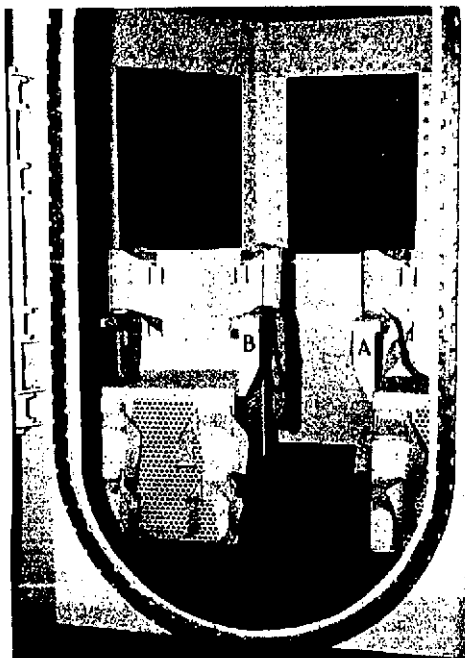

His execution has been stayed seven incredible times, the resultant publicity burgeoning his case into an international cause celebre.

They Sign Petitions

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Aldous Huxley, Steve Allen, The Friends Committee on Legislation representing The Society of Quakers, members of foreign governments have signed petitions urging California's Governor Edmund "Pat" Brown to commute Chessman's death sentence.

Brown, although personally opposed to capital punishment, has refused, maintaining that he must uphold the laws of California.

The many famous people who have petitioned the Governor for clemency have done so because 1) they are opposed to the death penalty, and 2) there is substantial evidence that Caryl Chessman, however guilty, may have been deprived of due process of law by the State of California.

Gas chamber at San Quentin has two chairs (for double executions). Gas released by pellet rises through holes.

On June 10, 1957, Justice Harlan of the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Chessman v. Teets (Harley Teets was the late warden at San Quentin) declared that Chessman had been denied due process of law for nine years and said of the prisoner: "(He) has never had his day in court upon the controversial issues of fact and law involved in the settlement of the record upon which his conviction was affirmed."

The case was returned to the California courts but at this writing it is back in the lap of the U.S. Supreme Court via petition for certiorari.

Any day now Chessman will learn whether his fate is death, a new trial or further legal in-fighting.

To the public, the total effect of all this legal red tape, almost 12 years long, is confusion.

Over and over, people have read: "Chessman is an evil, pathological pervert... a cunning criminal genius who has used legal loopholes to stay alive and waste the taxpayers' money... an arch sex fiend who long ago should have been put to death."

A large segment erroneously believes that Chessman was sentenced to die for murder. The fact is that he never killed anyone. He was convicted of violating Section 209 of the California Penal Code, the so-called "Little Lindbergh Law", a defective, ambiguous law which equated robbery with kidnapping and was later amended. Chessman was convicted on 17 counts of armed robbery, technical kidnapping, and the sexual mistreatment of women.

The judges who have stayed Chessman's execution seven times since 1948 have done so on the grounds that possibly he was denied his just legal rights in appealing his conviction. They felt, in short, that any man, however conclusive his guilt, was entitled to the full and due process of the law.

Guilty as Charged

The Attorney General of California maintains that "due process" in the case of Caryl Chessman has been "scrupulously and exhaustively respected."

I have questioned 15 top newspaper reporters, ranging from Gladwin Hill of the New York Times to Paul Weeks of the Los Angeles Mirror News, men of experience and integrity who covered many angles of the Chessman matter. To a man the 15 agree that Chessman is guilty as charged, but that in the early chapters of his case he may have been denied due process of law.

"His trial was lousy up from the beginning," says one reporter, "especially when he insisted upon defending himself. Now it's too late to repair the damage, so the State feels that they might as well kill the guy and get it over with, since he was guilty anyway."

But Caryl Chessman's guilt or innocence, despite his impassioned protestations of innocence to me:—i.e., "Why don't they give me a lie detector test or shots of sodium pentothal?"—is not at stake. What is at stake is principle, the right of every American, guilty or innocent, to the full exercise of his legal rights.

No man, however detestable to society, is entitled to less than all his rights to save himself. There must Caryl Chessman is locked up 21 hours, gets three hours of exercise a day, no longer may write books.

Chessman says: 'I prefer death to life imprisonment'

"A FEW WEEKS AGO," writes Lloyd Shearer, who penned the accompanying article, "I interviewed and photographed Caryl Chessman (left) in San Quentin. We were placed together in a barred cell with two guards watching our every move.

"As I started to photograph Chessman, I said to him: 'It's unfortunate, but in the view-finder of my camera you look like an evil, wicked, malevolent man.' Chessman immediately jumped to his feet. 'Do you want to discuss the merits of my case on the basis of the Lombroso theory?' he asked defiantly. 'Or on the facts?'

"I remembered that Lombroso was an Italian criminologist who held that criminals fell into a distinct degenerative biological type. But all I said in answer to his question was: 'You must have read a lot of books.'

"Chessman nodded bitterly, slid back into his chair, said: 'More than 2,000 since I've been in death row. Reading and writing are the only things that have kept me from going stir-crazy. If I ever get a new trial and win my freedom, I'm leaving this country as fast as possible. I'll go to South America and write.'

"I then asked him where and how he'd learned so much law, since he himself practically wrote the petition for certiorari to the U.S. Supreme Court. He explained that when he'd been in San Quentin before, in the 1940s, on an armed robbery charge, the warden allowed prisoners to work in the administration building. Chessman said: 'They let me review commitment papers, and I learned a good deal of the law.'

"As we discussed his case, he castigated society, various public officials, and said he preferred death to life imprisonment. He hoped the Supreme Court would free him on the grounds that he'd been erroneously convicted. He blamed and accused everyone but himself for his plight in language that was erudite, carefully chosen, and impassioned. He gave me the feeling that he was intelligent, cunning, tenacious, and sick.

"Aside from his criminality the worst quality about Chessman is his personality. He conveys the kind of perverse, ego-ridden personality you love to hate. The sympathy quotient any jury might feel for him adds up to zero."

be no chipping away of due process of law for anyone despite the aggravatingly slow pace at which the law's wheels sometimes grind.

In the case of Chessman, many lawyers hold, the State of California wanted to get rid of an obviously bad and guilty egg in a hurry. Only the bad egg turned out to be a shrewd cookie with an excellent knowledge of law acquired in 1941. It was then that the tall, hazel-eyed bandit served a previous "stretch" at San Quentin. As a 20-year-old he was assigned to work in the San Quentin administration building. Here, he checked prisoners' commitment papers for any possible errors. Alert and perceptive, he learned plenty.

The pertinent facts in the case of The People v. Caryl Chessman are these: On January 19, 1948, Jarnigan Lea and a friend, Mrs. Regina Johnson, were sitting in a car overlooking Pasadena. A coupe flashing a red light drove up behind them. Its occupant got out, approached the Lea car, brandished an old .45 black automatic, held up his two victims. He took Lea's wallet and car keys, Mrs. Johnson's purse. He then ordered Mrs. Johnson into his car where he compelled her to perform an act of sexual perversion. He then took a five dollar bill from the girl's purse, returned the purse and car keys, ordered the victim from his car and drove off.

Three nights later, in another Los Angeles "lovers' lane" he approached a parked vehicle in the same manner. This car was occupied by Frank Hurlbut and Mary Alice Meza, who told the thief they were broke.

He led the girl into his car, drove to an isolated spot, ordered Mary Alice to "commit an act of a sexual nature proscribed by Section 288-A of the Penal Code." Later, he released the girl near her home. Nineteen months later she was confined to the Camarillo State Hospital where she is now a patient.

Her mother, Mrs. Ruth Shaw, is quick to tell reporters that her mentally disturbed daughter will never be avenged until "the diabolical" Chessman is executed. Chessman insists he never saw Mary Alice Meza until the police brought him handcuffed to her house for identification. He does confess, however, that on the day following her "attack" he robbed a clothing store in Los Angeles and was apprehended by Hollywood police.

A court reporter died before his notes were transcribed.

Charged with two violations of the "Little Lindbergh Law," plus 15 other counts, he was tried in the California Superior Court, presided over by the late Judge Charles W. Fricke, one of the most eminent, fair-minded, and competent judges on the state bench. Possessor of a colossal ego and a warped, brilliant mind, Chessman, then 27, insisted upon conducting his own defence. It was only following the judge's most persistent urging that he agreed to let the Deputy Public Defender, Al Matthews, sit beside him, not as counsel but as a legal adviser.

Tried by jury, Chessman was convicted on all 17 counts. On May 21, 1948 the jury, having the option of deciding on life imprisonment or the death penalty for the accused, voted the death penalty.

California has an admirable safeguard law which requires that every capital-punishment case be sent to the State Supreme Court on appeal. It calls for the court reporter who took down the trial testimony to transcribe his own notes, certify them as "correct" and send the verbatim transcript to the State Supreme Court.

The court reporter in the trial of Caryl Chessman was Ernest R. Perry. Thirty-two days after Caryl Chessman was found guilty, Ernest R. Perry died.

He left behind complete shorthand notes of the Chessman trial, only one-third of which he had dictated for transcription. Since he was dead, there was no possible way in which he could transcribe the rest of his notes and declare them "correct" as demanded by the law.

Since the law provided for no other alternate procedure, Chessman asked to be re-tried. Judge Fricke denied his motion. He ordered that a record of the trial be prepared by another court reporter who could read and transcribe Perry's notes.

He appointed, upon the recommendation of Julius Miller Leavy, the Deputy District Attorney who had represented the State in the Chessman case, a court reporter named Stanley Fraser. Los Angeles County paid Stanley Fraser approximately $10,000 for transcribing Perry's notes. The Fraser transcript certified as "correct according to the best of my ability" was sent to the State Supreme Court. On the basis of Fraser's transcript, the State Supreme Court affirmed the lower court's decision.

On the Record

Chessman maintains that the Fraser transcript is riddled with error, giving the State Supreme Court an inaccurate record of his trial.

Investigation revealed that Stanley Fraser is and was an alcoholic. He also happens to be an uncle by marriage of the prosecutor, Julius Miller Leavy, who recommended him to Judge Fricke in the first place.

Although admitting his alcoholism, Fraser declared in court that when he was preparing the Chessman transcript, from September 1948 to February 1949,

Result: the case has dragged on for more than 11 years

he had not taken a single drink. Fraser's physician then testified that Fraser had been an alcoholic from 1947 to 1953. The record shows further that Fraser was confined to the county hospital in 1953 with hallucinations.

More important, the record shows that charges of misconduct have been filed against Fraser, that one judge refused to have him assigned to his court, and that another had him removed. A former member of the District Attorney's staff, now a member of the California bench, describes Fraser as "an incompetent drunkard."

In all fairness to Judge Fricke, it must be said that he knew nothing of Fraser's sordid background. He approved the man in good faith, much to his later regret. Owing to Chessman's constant appeals, which saved him from the gas chamber, the case was returned to Fricke's court in 1957.

At this hearing, experts testified that Fraser had committed more than 2,000 errors in transcribing Perry's notes. Fraser admitted that there were portions of the stenographic notes he could not read. At one point, he testified, he had skipped eight lines of stenographic notes because he couldn't decipher them.

Bessie Lill, the state's expert witness on stenography, also testified at this hearing. A retired woman of 74, she suggested, after carefully reviewing Fraser's work, that 1,862 "emendations" be made in his transcript. "Emendation" means correction.

On February 28, 1958, Judge Walter Evans who had taken over on the bench at Judge Fricke's request, declared the Fraser transcript valid with corrections. Chessman appealed to the State Supreme Court on his original conviction and on Judge Evans' decision. He lost on both counts.

Where the Matter Stands

He was scheduled to die on October 23rd this year after Governor Brown turned down a petition for clemency. But on October 21st the U.S. Supreme Court, with Chief Justice Warren abstaining (he had been California's Attorney General during much of the Chessman litigation) unanimously agreed that the execution date should not be effective. The jurists ordered that Chessman be given time to present to them his petition for certiorari (a writ issuing from a superior court calling up the record of a proceeding in an inferior court for review). Last November 4th, Chessman filed his petition with the court.

That is where the matter stands at this writing.

These are the salient facts in the case of Caryl Chessman. They are presented in an effort to explain why this case has dragged on for eleven long years, and on what basis reasonable and honorable jurists have granted Caryl Chessman seven reprieves from the gas chamber.

The record of Chessman's original trial has been held in doubt, because the Fraser transcript contains 2,000 or more errors. Chessman's lawyers ask how the state Supreme Court can use this record as a basis to affirm the decision of the lower court?

It is irritating to California taxpayers that this sex terrorist, defiant, angry, vociferously critical of the conduct of prosecutors and judges, has had recourse to all the avenues of the law over a period of eleven years. This might never have been if Judge Fricke had ordered a quick retrial or if a court stenographer more competent than Stanley Fraser had been hired to transcribe the stenographic notes.

It is a tribute to the American system of justice, however, that Caryl Chessman is getting his every legal right. In his case, justice is taking a long time. ■

An unusual New Year's dinner

by BETH MERRIMAN

Parade food editor

IT'S BECOMING a real tradition on New Year's Day to renew old friendships with a traveling dinner party—soup at one house, the main course at another, and so on until you wind up with a fine dessert and a feeling of warm fellowship.

The progressive dinner we've planned doesn't involve much preparation except in the main course. But two hostesses can work together on that, one bringing the vegetables in casseroles ready for quick re-heating.

At the last stop, relax with a dessert everyone will enjoy, like the unusual pie featured here. When it is cut you'll find a chocolate layer next to the bottom crust, then a deep layer of cake delicately marbled with chocolate, then a crown of chocolate made crunchy with walnuts.

These recipes are from a new cook book, Betty Crocker's Guide to Entertaining, now available at bookstores.

PROGRESSIVE DINNER

Consommé
Cheese Crackers
Glazed Baked Ham
*Olive-Creamed Potatoes**
Green Beans and Mushrooms
*Colonial Innkeeper's Pie**
Coffee

Olive-Creamed Potatoes

Dice 9 medium cooked potatoes. Pour 3 cups dairy sour cream into large skillet; add potatoes. Heat slowly until cream bubbles over potatoes. Add 4½ tablespoons minced onion and 3 tablespoons minced stuffed olives. Just before serving, add 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Serve garnished with chopped parsley and paprika. Makes 8 generous servings.

Colonial Innkeeper's Pie

1½ squares unsweetened chocolate
½ cup water
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla, divided
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup soft shortening
½ cup milk
1 egg
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell with high rim
½ cup chopped walnuts

Melt chocolate in water; add ¾ cup sugar. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in butter and 1½ teaspoons vanilla. Set aside. Mix and sift flour, ¾ cup sugar, baking powder, and salt. Add shortening, milk, and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat 2 minutes. Add egg; beat 2 minutes. Pour batter into unbaked pie shell. Stir chocolate sauce and pour carefully over batter. Sprinkle top with nuts. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 55 to 60 minutes or until cake tester stuck in center comes out clean.

LEAP YEAR!

by OLGA CURTIS

LEAP YEAR comes every four years, accompanied by male laughter.

The boys think it's funny—this centuries-old tradition that during any 366-day year a girl may propose to a man instead of waiting for vice versa.

For single girls, though, Leap Year 1960 is no laughing matter. For never before in American history has there been so disproportionate a number of unmarried females to unmarried men. Latest government figures, shown in the chart below, add up to this:

In 1960, there will be 113 unmarried women to every 100 unmarried men between 20 and 64.

Such statistics boil down to what every girl knows: there aren't enough men to go around. If you want a man, Leap Year is the time to start hunting.

But what's the best way to catch a husband? Here are some of the answers PARADE received:

"Give him presents," Zsa Zsa Gabor advises.

Zsa Zsa, who rates as a matrimonial expert on the basis of three ex-husbands, adds:

"Most women are too stingy. They think they were put on earth to get presents from men.

"I always give men gifts. It doesn't frighten a man; it shows you are interested in him, especially if you put thought and meaning into your gifts. Be imaginative, show him that you think of him. If he wants a prize-winning Angus steer, give him one. If he already has a steer, give him a prize-winning cow."

Zsa Zsa also advocates flattery. Says she: "Flatter him . . . if you mean it. Of course, a little insincere flattery doesn't hurt either.

"Every year should be Leap Year. A woman should always propose. Who could wait until a man made up his mind?"

But another matrimonial veteran, Gypsy Rose Lee, couldn't care less for Leap Year:

"After three marriages I like being alone. But if I was interested in a man, I'd tell him so.

"That's important—it's always up to the woman to let the man know how she feels. So tell him you like him, at least tell him you like being with him. And show him by pampering him a little. If he wants to talk, talk; if he wants to laugh, laugh; if he wants to dance, dance."

Both Zsa Zsa and Gypsy agree that a girl has to play it cool and never appear too eager. So does Rona Jaffe, who wrote The Best of Everything. Rona, in her 20s and single, suggests that a girl's technique change with the age of the man she's after.

Gentlemen Prefer

"With an older man, a woman must be admiring—she must show him she cares. But with a younger man, a girl has to pretend she doesn't care. Younger men are less confident and very wary."

Miss Jaffe holds that old-fashioned kindness works better than either presents or an out-and-out proposal. A proposal scares a man, she says—and the men agree.

Jackie Gleason, although a jovial man-about-Broadway, is just as skittish about marriage—and proposals by women—as the newspaperman he portrays in the new musical comedy hit, Take Me Along.

Jackie says that women love the extra freedom of Leap Year; "it allows them to acquire another of man's prerogatives—chasing the opposite sex."

He had this typical piece of male advice for 1960 huntresses: "The best way to catch a man is to go down to Wall Street during a crash and wait under a high window."

Leap Year methods also frighten a pretty tough bachelor: heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson. Ingemar recollects ruefully that in his native Sweden the word for Leap Year is "skottar," which means "bullet year" or "shooting year."

"I hope American women don't take Leap Year seriously," he sighs. "But they tell me it's just like in Sweden, a time when women pursue men. The strongest man in the world doesn't frighten me, but a sweet pretty little girl who decides to go on the offensive—that's another matter!"

MOMMY!... MOMMY!... MOMMY!

To mothers, that cry means that there's another cut, scratch, scrape, or burn. It also means she should get iodine—but she often doesn't, because iodine burns and stings, upsets youngsters. Here's good news. Science has discovered a new kind of iodine that stops infection best yet doesn't burn or sting. It's polyvinylpyrrolidone-iodine, found only in ISODINE® ANTISEPTIC. Where other types of antiseptics may kill only 1, 2, or 3 types of germs, ISODINE kills all types—even virus and fungus. And up to 40 times faster. Get painless ISODINE ANTISEPTIC. ## Ideas for living— best of the year

Here, judging by reader inquiries, are the 10 most popular new products reported by Parade of Progress in 1959. If you missed any of them, here is another opportunity to get them. All of them can save you a lot of time, trouble, or money. Look for more new ideas here in 1960.

Heat saver: Readily installed on top of any oil-fired furnace, this machine captures heat that ordinarily goes to waste up the chimney. You can use it to reduce fuel bills—or to heat your basement, garage, or an extra room without added fuel cost, says the maker. A built-in motor-driven "desooter" automatically keeps unit clean for peak efficiency, avoids draft interference and cleaning problems. Ro-An, Dept. PP, 16 S. Ketchum Ave., Amityville, N. Y.

Plug-in antenna system: Your single rooftop antenna can serve several TV and FM sets, thanks to a do-it-yourself kit that creates a plug-in network throughout the house. It consists of antenna lead-in, plug-in outlets for every room including patio, amplifier that strengthens signals. It may even double the number of FM stations you receive. For details: Jerrold, Dept. P, 15th & Lehigh, Philadelphia 32, Pa.

For driveway or patio: A new colored coating for your black-top driveway or patio provides a decorative new look — and more. It seals the surface, stops water absorption and resultant cracking, resists grease and oil. It also reflects sun rays, keeps the surface 45 per cent cooler. Brush it on like paint, and it should be completely dry in six hours. The coating comes in green or red. One gallon (enough to cover 150 sq. ft.): $6.85. Al-Chroma, Dept. PP, Stevens Point, Wis.

Oven protection: Spray a new liquid just once a month in your oven, broiler, grill, electric fry pan—it keeps foods and grease splatters from sticking, makes them easy to wipe away without scraping. 98¢. Jarus Products Corp., Dept. PP, 330 South Wells St., Chicago 6, Ill.

For masonry leaks: Even if water is gushing through a break in basement wall or floor, a new repair material stops it. Without chipping or chiseling, you place a plug of the compound in the hole, hold it for 5 minutes, and the leak is sealed. The waterproofing material can be brushed on fine cracks. It also seals pipe-masonry joints, anchors fixtures to concrete, is useful in other ways. $1.75 a qt. Camp, 6958 S. State St., Chicago 21, Ill.

Pocket hi-fi: Said to be the first miniature high-fidelity tape recorder, reproducing sound like fine professional equipment, this unit (above right) weighs only 3 pounds. It's all transistorized, operates on a single battery, has a 45-minute automatic, erasable tape cartridge that records and plays back voice or music without distortion. Optional accessories provide for secret recording. For complete details, write: Edison Voicewriter, Thomas A. Edison Industries, McGraw-Edison Co., Dept. PP, West Orange, N. J.

No-mess paint: Here's a help for painting without mess—a washable, plastic paint can rim with a built-in magnet that holds your brush inside the can when wet, outside when dry. It eliminates drips and smudged brush handle. The spout makes pouring easy, and there's a drip ridge that keeps the rim of the can clean for tight resealing. Qt. size: 79¢; gal.: $1.19. Kay, Dept. PP, 15 Hemalin Rd., Cranston, R. I.

Coin aid: This inexpensive little device helps you sort, count, and wrap coins—all with machinelike ease. Marks show the exact number of coins; channels are angled so wrappers slide over them. Useful for housewives, children, clubs. $1.29. Arden, Dept. PP, 80-26 254th St., Glen Oaks, Floral Park, N. Y.

Inflatable dinghy: Here's a boat you can carry in a duffle bag, store in minimum space, and blow up in seconds to its 8½-ft. length. It weighs 42 lbs., comes with folding aluminum paddles, hand pump, and seats. Also available: outboard-motor mount. Write: U. S. Rubber, 1230-PP Ave. of Americas, New York 20, N. Y.

Portable cooler: Now there's an auto-home cooler—the first made of plastic—that weighs only 8 lbs. It's easy to move from car to home, office, or motel. Set it under the dashboard, adjust the hidden legs over the floor hump, fill with water, and it works from the cigarette lighter socket to deliver 550 cu. ft. of cooled air per minute. With a small transformer accessory, it uses household current to cool 150 sq. ft. Write: G & B Mfg. Co., Dept. PP, 3326 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach, Calif.

"You're bowling me over" is the joint message of these talking hats, worn forward with sideways tilt.

"I'm flying solo," Andy tells his fans by setting his hat low over the left ear and tilted forward.

"I won't dance," says this hat. It's worn straight on the forehead and curved in a hook over left ear.

Talking through their hats

"Booked solid," Karin says by wearing her talking hat straight on her forehead and stretching way up.

"Let's head for home." The hat is worn back of the right ear and in a wilted short curve to the right.

"I'm all run down," says Karin with the simplest possible hat shape: crushed flat into a pancake.

TEEN TALK is a language all its own. But if you have trouble translating what teenagers say verbally, just wait till they start talking through the kookie hat you see here.

This is a "talking hat" designed strictly for teens by noted milliner John Frederics, who usually does fancy female bonnets. His nine-layer red-and-white felt talking hat, however, is meant to be worn by both girls and boys. It can be worn flat, stretched, sideways, backward, forward—and every different angle has a meaning all its own.

For instance, singer Andy Williams on today's cover is wearing the hat at "Pizza Slant": back on the head and accordion-stretched to the left. Translation in hat talk: "I'm hungry." On this page Williams and pretty Karin Nordin demonstrate a few of the other messages possible by talking through one's hat. Each of the "sentences" was worked out by teenagers themselves. Variations are almost limitless.

Recording star Williams, just named "Performer of the Year" by Variety Clubs, is so popular with teenagers that he was asked to launch the hat publicly with these first photographs. Officially, it's the "Hi-Fi Club Talking Hat," and will be available to members of the Hi-Fi Club, an organization that has 2,000,000 teen members in 235 chapters across the country. The club, which sponsors weekly chaperoned dances in cooperation with local school or civic groups, tested the "talking hat" at a New York teen meeting. It passed the test by staying on during rock 'n' roll. ■

THE ADVENTURES OF 6 U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS NOW PAY 3 3/4% INTEREST

Three big, new cash benefits make the Bonds you buy and the Bonds you already own better than ever:

1. All Series E and H Bonds bought on or after June 1, 1959 now earn 3 3/4% interest when held to maturity (7 years, 9 months).
2. Your older Bonds also pay more now--an extra 1/2% from June 1 on, when you hold them to maturity.
3. All Series E Bonds, old or new, now carry an automatic extension privilege; they'll keep paying liberal interest for as long as 10 years beyond maturity.

GUARANTEED SAFE -
And now they pay 3 3/4% interest! BUY U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

THE U.S. GOVERNMENT DOES NOT PAY FOR THIS ADVERTISING. THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT THANKS, FOR THEIR PATRIOTIC DONATION, THE ADVERTISING COUNCIL AND THIS NEWSPAPER.
